

WHO WILL SUCCEED STEHMAN?

THE CONTEST AT PRESENT BETWEEN "WIN SMITH AND CHRISTY" KAUFFMAN.

The struggle for the Collectorship May Become a Factor in the Fight--A Dark Horse Whom Some of the Politicians May Favor.

It is well known among the closest political friends of the late John M. Stehman that to the last he cherished the idea of being his own successor. Although it was all too manifest for months preceding his demise that his candidacy for another term was not to be thought of, he was the last of his clan to give it up. Not unnaturally therefore the question of the succession to his senatorial seat in the XIVth district has been the subject of a good deal of political discussion within the past week, and the contest for the dead man's shoes is being transferred to the Republican primaries of 1899, where it would in any event have ensued.

But the next senator-elect will have a voice and vote and potent influence when Don Cameron comes up for re-election or defeat, and no move that will influence the result of the contest will now be made without caution or foresight.

The most hopeful candidate at present is Winfield Scott Smith, of Conoy, now a member of the House. He is a prime favorite of the Bull Ring; a clever, genial fellow, employed and friend of the Pennsylvania railway company, and an active, aggressive worker with the prestige of success. Unless it is made otherwise, he cannot win; he will be the Cameron-Hartman-Brown candidate. If his success is endangered he will be taken out of the fight and his fall softened by some feather bed provided for him.

Little John Stehman, son of the ex-senator, of the present assembly, aspires to creep into the senatorial toggery and wrap himself about with its decorous dignity. Could he command Columbia solidly, as on one occasion, he might be a factor in the contest; and could he secure the prestige of making his own collector of internal revenue, he might be looked upon as the general judgment of the old stagers, that he "has bit off more'n he can chew," and that his senatorship is buried at the foot of the rainbow.

J. A. Stober, of Schoenock, feels encouraged by the divisions in the western part of the district to try his own luck, and may be in what John W. Meentzer calls a "solid horse." If he can rally the Coalfields and adjoining districts and trade them off in the big fight of next year, he may be a formidable candidate.

Some of these people measure up to a high standard of political prominence or individual strength. The New Era, in an editorial last evening, invites the Republican voters to hold off for a time. It says:

So far as Lancaster county is concerned we have had quite enough of elections and the attendant confusion, and the people are not hungering after any more. Besides, great changes take place in a year and the man the people will prefer may not yet have been thought of by the politicians who assume the party management. In electing senators our standard key is the elevated--not depressed, or even key on the level--and we are inclined to think the matter over and look around.

In the same vein has been heard a good deal of friendly mention of the name of A. F. Hostetter, esq., of this city--or rather of Manheim township--as a possible non-partisan successor. He is a nephew by marriage of the late senator; in the prime of life; he has always made his residence in the upper district; he is a gentleman and a scholar, who could fill the place with high credit; he has the means to be independent in such an office; he is a stalwart Republican, and yet conservative; he is a member of the bar; he is yet the husband of none; in his own mind he is yet to conjoin with the rural districts, and he is a loyal Lancaster citizen.

He should consent to stand for the place he may have a walk-over. And if an agreement is not soon reached among the names proposed for internal revenue collector, look out for a dark horse trotting to the front with the initials "A. F. H." on the blinds of his bride.

The Algonquin Club. The executive committee of the Algonquin club, one of the most popular of our local camping associations, met last evening at the residence of their secretary, John Black, to complete arrangements for their fourth annual camp which will be held at Fort Penn, between July 29 and August 5th. The popular "Ladies' Day" and "Club Dinner" are continued, and other features added for the general entertainment of the campers. Several annual members were elected to take the places of the regular members who cannot attend, and it was also agreed to increase the membership by three, to give an opportunity to those gentlemen who were deterred by the number limit. Circulars giving all necessary information, and invitations for "Ladies' Day," have already been sent out to the members.

Sold One and Bought One. John Schaum, of the City Hotel, is a great lover of horse-flesh and no man in the city who is a good horse better than he. For some time he has been the owner of a very pretty little sorrel mare, called "Gold." She is a splendid animal, and in respect, Mr. Schaum has just sold her to James Duffy, of Marietta, who will mate her with a Derby mare which he has and make an excellent double team. Mr. Schaum has already purchased an animal to take the place of the one just sold. The new one is a three-year-old colt and she is beautiful. Mr. Schaum purchased her from Christian Musselman, of Witmer, at a good round figure, but everybody who has seen her think she is well worth the money. She was sired by Shamrock and her dam was very fast.

A Lot of Opposoms. John D. Clinton, of the Pennsylvania railroad baggage-man, or, a great lover of small animals, and at his house on West Orange street he has many very curious ones at times. A few days ago a track walker of the railroad company near Elizabethtown caught an opossum with fifteen young ones. These he presented to Mr. Clinton, who has them in his yard where they attract the greatest attention. The little ones are now about two weeks old and very lively.

It Will Be a Big Court. The number of cases returned to the August quarter sessions court to date is 150. This is an unusually large number with nearly a month to go on until court convenes.

Change in the Hat Business. W. D. Stauffer has got up a manufacture of hats and horse hair hats, and has secured the services of Mr. Stauffer, who has been in the hat business for several years, has lost the factory and will carry on that branch of the business in the future.

THE TOBACCO CROPS.

PRELIMINARY INDICATIONS THAT IT WILL BE ONE OF THE BEST EVER GROWN.

Some Rust in the Leaf in Some Localities. Slow Traffic in Cased Goods in the Local and Distant Markets.

The past has been another quiet week in the local leaf tobacco trade. About two hundred cases of small lots to small lots to manufacturers by the city dealers. There are rumors of the sale of several packings to New York parties. They could not be traced to any authentic source. It is said that there are negotiations pending for the sale of several large packings and it is expected that they will be consummated within a few days.

New Yorkers are ready to buy all the B's, C's and fine wrappers in the county. They have as yet been unable to induce local packers to sell those desirable goods from their holdings. The past week has been a favorable one for the growing crop and it looks well. In a few localities there are complaints of rust, but as a whole the crop from present indications will be one of the best ever raised in the county.

The New York Tobacco Market. From the U. S. Tobacco Journal. The sales of the tobacco crops were quite a prominent feature of the market last week, considering that the seed tobacco is not even ripe yet for proper sampling. But the market being quite bare of old goods, manufacturers and jobbers have to turn their attention to the new crops. Pre-eminence among these stands for this season the new England tobacco and the principal transients of Connecticut broad leaf at from 21c to 22c. The first lots of '88 Wisconsin moved also for home consumption. They amounted to about 200 cases, and were sold at 26c, and some 250 cases of Connecticut broad leaf at from 21c to 22c.

When preparations for the execution had been completed, the man and woman were taken to the gallows. The man spoke only a few words, and then turned to his certain man to be his successor. He was promised the influence of the party for another year, and he was quite an address. She wished the affair to be as quiet as possible, and she begged her mother to be kept in ignorance of her disgraceful career and the disgraceful end of her life.

CATTLE THIEVES LYNCHED.

The Victims James Averill and Kate Maxwell, the "Cattle Queen" and the notorious cattle queen, Kate Maxwell, were lynched by cowboys in Wyoming territory on Sunday morning.

The scene of the lawless deed of the midnight rider is on the Sweetwater river in Carbon county, near Independence Rock, a landmark made historical during the rush overland to the California gold fields.

Averill was postmaster at Sweetwater. Kate Maxwell was the heroine of a sensational story which appeared in the newspapers throughout the country three months ago, when she raided a gambling house and recovered a large sum of money won from her employees.

Stockmen of the Sweetwater region have been victims of cattle thieves for years. On account of prejudice against the large outfit it has been impossible to convict on this charge, and the rustlers have become very bold. Averill and his partner had been in the region for some time, and had been engaged during the voyage in lugging a lumber mill outfit just before he left London.

The woman could hold her own on the range, and she was well known on the slightest pretext and handling of a gun and branding iron with the skill of the most expert vaquero. Fifty freshly branded cattle were brought from the Averill and Maxwell herds Saturday morning.

A stock detective whose suspicions were aroused was driven from this place when he was holding a necessary property. This circumstance was reported to the ranchmen, who determined to rid the country of the desperate pair. Averill and Maxwell were originally placed in the outfit to emigrate or cease appropriating cattle, but had disregarded all warnings.

After her celebrated gambling house was closed, she was well known on the range, and she was well known on the slightest pretext and handling of a gun and branding iron with the skill of the most expert vaquero. Fifty freshly branded cattle were brought from the Averill and Maxwell herds Saturday morning.

A PYTHON LOOSE ON BOARD.

WILD SNAKS ON THE STEAMSHIP DENMARK WHEN A BIG SNAKE ESCAPED.

The Monster Crawls Into the Bilge and the Plates Will Have to Be Taken Off to Get It Out.

The New York newspapers contain accounts of a huge snake escaping from its cage. Here are the particulars from the New York Herald.

There are two full-grown pythons, male and female, on board the National Line steamer Denmark, which arrived from London yesterday. Mr. Python has curled up in a box some two feet square and about eight inches deep, lying on top of some boilers in the cook's galley.

The heat has not disturbed him in the least, and he has been engaged during the voyage in lugging a lumber mill outfit just before he left London. The woman could hold her own on the range, and she was well known on the slightest pretext and handling of a gun and branding iron with the skill of the most expert vaquero.

JAMES MCCUEN'S CRIME.

He Was shot While Committing a Burglary, but Will Recover.

The Town Herald of Monday morning gives the following additional particulars in regard to the shooting of James McCuen at Townville:

Mr. Henry Delamater, a resident of Townville, but who spends much of his time in the rear of the store near the general store of Marsh & Radie, the above named place. About 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning Mr. Delamater arose and went to the pump, which is located in the street north of the store.

Accidentally looking up the old gentleman noticed a bright light flash up in the rear of the store near the safe. At the same time one of the curtains in the front windows was hastily pulled down. When the light flashed into the room he saw the form of two or three men in the room. Waiting and watching a moment his suspicions were fully confirmed, for two more matches were lighted, and he saw that a gang of thieves were at work.

Messrs. Marsh & Radie, the proprietors, were hastily notified and, armed with revolvers and shotguns, they rushed to the store. As the party came up they saw three men standing under the awning at the front door of the store. Mr. Radie said to his partner, "Run in the store and get your shot gun." Mr. Radie then rushed into the store and fired, and it is now of the opinion that he wounded one of them. One of the robbers ran in and overpowered his companion; "D--n them, why don't you shoot back?" At that moment Radie thought he heard a noise in the store, and he rushed to the door. He called to him to get in and in reply the stranger threw a plug of tobacco, which struck Mr. Radie in the forehead, and he fell to the ground.

Physicians were hastily summoned, but the man was so badly wounded that he was thought to be beyond hope. As soon as the man was able to talk he said his name was James McCuen, and that his home was at Lancaster, Pa. The description given of the wounded man, together with his name and residence, led certain men to the house of McCuen, which he was at one time a resident here, consequently several parties drove to Townville yesterday for the purpose of setting the matter. The man is about a foot 7 inches in height, has light blue eyes, a sandy moustache and a receding hair line. He is a native of Meigs and he was killed in the army. His mother is now living in Lancaster, Pa. Shortly after his father's death the boy went to live with his grandfather, whose name was McCuen. Mrs. McCuen's sister was the wife of Mr. John Kane, who about ten or eleven years ago was a resident of Townville, where he was killed by a horse here. Together with his grandmother young McCuen came here to reside and became a member of Mr. Kane's household. He was a very quiet and unassuming man, and he was never known to quarrel with anyone. Crouch, chairman of the committee on devotional exercises, has arranged the following order of exercises which will daily take place upon the grounds: Rise at 5:30; family devotions in cottages and tents at 6:30; consecration service at the tabernacle at 8:45; public prayer service at the stand at 8:50; preaching at the stand at 10; private devotion in the cottages at 11; young people's meeting at stand at 12:30, presiding at 3; meeting for the promotion of holiness, at the prayer meeting tent at 6, led by Mrs. Henry Wheeler, of Phoenixville; preaching service at 7:30.

The committee on transportation reported that they had arranged for the sale of excursion tickets on the Pennsylvania railroad from Downingtown to Harrisburg. On application to H. F. Brunner, manager of the grounds, orders can be secured for tickets at reduced rates from New York and other points. Several Williamsport people have already taken advantage of this action. Constable Pickel, of East Fording, has been chosen police officer. Arrangements were also made to have the boarding tent open at noon to-day (Tuesday).

The committee on horse pound and vehicles have perfected arrangements for the care of teams. Powl, the Lancaster bus man, has been given the exclusive right to care for the teams, and the conveyance of passengers and baggage. It was also agreed to charge an admission of ten cents to all excepting persons who camped upon the grounds. For the season tickets will be sold for 25 cents. On Sunday no admission will be charged but a basket will be placed at the gate, and those who do not wish to be taken up. No hucksters will be allowed within a mile of the grounds.

The first regular service will be this evening, when Rev. Crouch will conduct a prayer and experience meeting at the stand. The grounds and the hotel in town will be crowded. Mr. Hiltner, who lives on the grounds, will open his house to accommodate guests. Saturday will be known as Young People's Day.

George Richardson, William Steyers and Isaiah Springer, of Lancaster, who are here with Powell's team, have been kept busy since they arrived. The grounds are in good condition, and the temperature is delightful.
