Charles Friend, a fifteen-year-old son of Michael Friend, was run over by the Shawnee hose carriage this morning at Fifth and Mill street. The boy was knocked down and both wheels of the carriage passed over his cheek, neck and oulders. He was picked up, but before he was carried far overcame the shock and walked home. Dr. Markel examined the boy and found his injuries to consist of a badly bruised face and shoulder.

The most interesting event of the Columbia boating season will be a race between a number of young society ladies of town, to take place about September 1st. During the past season the ladies of town have taken much interest in river sport, and much rivalry exists in rowing, hence the race. The race will be composed of five crews over a course from Mifflin's island boat-house landing, a distance of more than a half mile. The boats to be the canoe club and one private boat. The entries are as follows First-Amelia Wilson, stroke; Effe Detwiler, bow. Second-Lucy Parry, stroke; Flora Dickinson, bow. Third-Rena North, stroke; Maggie Purple, bow. Fourth-Katie Gossler, stroke; Annie Fendrich, bow. Fifth-Mary E. Welsh, stroke; T. Annie Welsh, bow. All the crews are in daily practice and each show a proficiency in the art of rowing; and the race may be expected to be close and exciting.

Yesterday morning when engine 811 was making its south-bound trip on the "Port" road the main driving axle on the right side snapped and sent the large drivspinning into the river. The secident happened near McCall's ferry and the engine being disabled the train was taken through by another engine. The mishap was a serious and might have resulted in the loss of life.

Charles Westerman, a nine-year-old son of Henry Westerman, the butcher, was yesterday badly bitten by a horse. The boy went into the stable to water the animal when he made a victors suap at him, inflicting with his teeth a painful wound on his forehead over the left eye. Dr. Markel attended the injury.
Miss Carrie Vaughan, of York, is visit-

A NOVELIST AS A COURT REPORTER His Narrative of What He Saw at an

A peculiar case of insanity was that of Harry Munzer, which came before Judge Gary in Chicago on Wednesday morning. According to the evidence, it would appear that the strange case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde and the stranger case of Archibald Malmaison, which have created much comment in circles of fiction, are not altogether physical impossibilities. The story which Harry Munzer, sane, told of Harry Munzer, insane, was so fascinating that the jurymen quailed and slunk back in their chairs, half afraid to be so near one who could admit that he was subject to physical and psychical changes such as the witness claimed to have undergone. Munzer is about twenty-seven years of age, and as he never indulged in the general practices of fast city young men his features bore a decidedly innocent but intelligent expression as he entered the witness-box. The soft black hair curied about his broad, business-like forehead. For four years he had acted as entry clerk for Edson Keith, and his manipulation of figures was considered something wonderful. He had been subject to gloomy spells at periods about two years apart, in which he would become a recluse for weeks at a time. He spoke of these.

"Just tell us about the last one," said the court, listening to the minor details given above.

"I feel something approaching heavily,"

"Just tell us about the last one," and the court, listening to the minor details given above.

"I feel something approaching heavily," aid the witness, "but I can take care of in self here. The queer sickness came on me win about a year ago, and I became much harmed at the developments. I seemed to be approaching a state altogeth r different from the natural one. An aguelike feeling crut over me, beginning first in my brain. Was then living at my father's house, in Yest Lake street. My mind did not seem growing weaker, but it seemed to be alterned its functions materially. Presently he sight of a tool or anything with a blade would start every fibre and nerve in me to tingling and I became afraid of myself, afraid for my friends. I felt an impulse growing upon me to harm or kili. I knew what I was about. I recognized the faces of my friends. I have a cool control of mental faculties. I was not out of my head in the least, but there was a desire which seemed to be muscular as well as mental, and wholly apart from my natural volitions. My father saw only the outside of this and I dared not explain to him the complete revolution in my being. He sent me to lake Geneva to be treated in a private institution there, and now for seven months I have been there under the constant care me to lake Geneva to be treated in a private institution there, and now for seven months I have been there under the constant care of several experienced physicians. They have been unable to assist me. I grew worse. I knew it and realized the dread change. Never have I lost my senses. The doctors gave me chloroform, but I fear that it has hurt my nervous system and served to augment this fearful development rather than cure it. We consulted and thought a change would be good for velopment rather than cure it. We consulted and thought a change would be good for me. I now insist that I be placed somewhere, so I may be watched and treated differently. The week I have been here where, so I may be watched and treated differently. The week I have been here since I left Geneva I have not been home. I will not go there. I believe that some rapid change for the worse would take place immediately should I go back. This mania would unman me and force me to do that which I have been battling against. I would kill them. I might kill myself, and yet I would know what I was about."

The story itself was not different from

The story itself was not different from what one might expect to hear from a man who felt himself becoming insane. What terrified the jurors was the complete change in his features as he proceeded. From an innocent, harmless expression at the hear innocent, they change in the complete change in the c the beginning, they changed to one of exthe teginning, they changed to one of extreme cunning and malignity. As he proceeded, deep lines appeared in his checks beside his nose. The eyebrows fell dark and the corners of the month drew down. His forchead wrinkied up as an old man's, and his voice actually changed so that a listener might have supposed the supposed that a listener might posed that a man of forty-five were talking. The words came from deep down in his chest, and, in fact the entire aspect of the man was changed. He bent forward in his chair, his shoulders stooped, and his eves became watery. It was remarkable. The court gazed at the phenomenon before him in astonishment. When the narrator reached that portion of his recital where he spoke of killing, the jury gazed upon the face of a man about to commit murder.

"That will do," said the judge.

Munzer was starded at the command. He looked up wildly, then fell back in his chair, half exhausted, with a sigh. Tears fell down his checks. The wrinkles disappeared from his forchead, the fiendish expression left his face, and a minute more he was the young man, Harry Munzer, he was the young man, Harry Munzer, again with the innocent face. The jury ought in a verdict finding him insane

"KAPE YER EYE ON THE CAT." The Priest's Scheme to Reform the Ir repressible Pat.

From the Chicago Mail. "I heard a story on an Irishman the other day which I think is new," said a friend at the club. "This Irishman was in the habit of going home drunk every night of his life and heating his poor wife Biddy in the good old fashion. He didn't lick her because he disliked her or wanted to punish because he disliked her or wanted to punish ber, but just because he thought it the proper thing to do. Finally, however, the patient woman could stand it no longer and appealed to the priest. The reverend father appoaled to the priest. The reverend father went to her home that evening and waited for Pat. He came, drunk as usual, and the good priest took him in hand.

"'Pat, 'says he, 'you're drunk.'

"'Yis, your riverince' says Pat, 'I'm feelin' purty good.'

"'Well, how long is this goin' to continue, I'd like to know?'

"'Jist as long as I kin git a dbron of the "'Jist as long as I kin git a dhrop of the creatur', says Pat. 'I can't stop dhrink-

"The priest went away and Pat was docile that night. But the next night when he came home and kicked open the door one glance showed Biddy that he was loaded to the hat. She gauged his 'jag' at once and saw that he was in fighting trim, so she dodged behind the table in an attitude of defense.

"Don't be afraid, darlin',' said Pat, in a subdued key as he steadied himself before dropping into a chair, 'I'm not goin' to lay the weight of me finger on ye. I want ye to be kind to me to-night, darlin', and to remember, if ye kin, the days when we was swatchearts, and when I was always kind to ye and ye loved me. Jacob Blaul is the owner of a property on which are a number of choice fruit trees. He was particularly interested in a peach tree, on which there were three bushels of peaches on Saturday. He concluded to pick them the following Monday, and when he went to his yard for that purpose not a peach remained on the tree. He learned boys living in the neighborhood stole the peaches, and secured the name of George Lyons as one of the offenders, and made complaint against him before Alderman A. F. Donnelly for malicious trespass. The accused gave bail for

DEATH OF EDWARD REILLY. He Practiced Law in Lancaster County

Over Thirty Years Ago.
Information was received to-day of the death of Edward Reilly, in New York, on July 21st, at the age of 55 years. Doces became a resident of this city in the early fifties. He read law with Thaddeus Stevens and was admitted to the bar on August 27th, 1856. He was a bright lawyer and attended to much of Mr.Stevens practice while he was attending the seas Congress, in the early part of the war. He was associated with Mr. Stevens in the celebrated Manheim ground rent cases.

Mr. Reilly left Lancaster to engage in railroad contracting and he had an exten-sive contract in Honduras. Through a revolution in that country his contract was repudiated and he was hurt financially when his prospects were bright for making a large sum of money. He lived in New York, after his removal from Lancaster, and was for a number of years one of the solicitors for one of the Pacific railroads. His wife was a Miss Rogers, sister of the wife of Dr. John L. Atlee, jr., and she and a number of children survive him.

Another Alderman Makes An Arrest. An old peddler woman, named Eliza White, got very drunk yesterday. She sat on a door step on West Lemon and began velling at the top of her voice, attracting a great crowd of women and children about her. Alderman Pinkerton undertook to take her to the station house in the absence of a policeman. She was too full to walk and had to be placed in a wagon and hauled down. She will be heard Alderman Pinkerton to-night.

Rev. Dr. Stahr at Ocean Grove. From the Reformed Church Messenger. One morning last week it was an unexpected pleasure to us to see the tall form of Prof. John S. Stahr, D. D., acting president of Franklin and Marshall college, approaching towards. proaching towards us as we were strolling along "Pilgrim Pathway." It was with along "Pilgrim Pathway." It was with no little cordiality we grasped his hand in greeting. He too has become a dweller of this retreat by the sea for a time, in order to take a much needed rest, away from care and work and gain renewed strength for assuming the new duties that will devolve upon him in his new position, at the opening of the next term of the college.

All of Them Went to Jail. Annie Jay, a colored damsel, was sent to jail for 5 days yesterday, by Alderman A. F. Donnelly for drunkenness and disorderly conduct on complaint of Mary Meads. She was also charged with the larceny of and destroying pension papers belonging to Mary, but this case could not be substantiated and was dismissed.

Viola Lindsey threatened to kill Mary Meads, and for making those threats she will remain in jail until the August court. Viola claimed that Mary was drunk and disorderly. She proved her case, and Mary was sent to jail for five days.

News for Frank. The Philadelphia Times man, who travels around among the hotels, seems to know more about Lancaster people than is known of them here. He says to-day :

Frank Keller, the Lancaster contractor, was in town yesterday. He takes quite a n active part in politics and is identified with the Sensenig-Cochran faction, known as the "Bull Ring," which is opposed to Senator Quay. Mr. Keller thinks the senator makes himself too conspicuous in local fights for a man in his position.
