

FIRE CREATES HAVOC.

THE HARDWARE STOCK OF REILLY BROS. & RAUB ALMOST TOTALLY DESTROYED.

The Insurance Loss Than the Loss. Fireman Heard Severely Injured--A Blaze at Henry Martin's Works.

The peace and quietude of Sunday morning was disturbed by two fires one of which was as destructive as any that Lancaster has had in some time, entailing a very heavy loss. This fire was in the large building of R. Kepler, at Nos. 40 and 42 North Queen street, which has been occupied since the first of last September by Reilly Brothers & Raub, who are among the heaviest hardware dealers in the city.

The building extends from North Queen to Market streets, and its entire length is 224 feet while its width is 28 feet. It seems to be the largest building in the city. This is the second large fire that has occurred in it. On the evening of the 8th of March 1888, when Mr. Kepler occupied the building, a fire broke out in the rear building and burned furiously for several hours until North Queen street was reached. The loss at that time was more than $20,000. The fire last night was much more disastrous, as a stock of $10,000 was rendered practically worthless.

It was about 6 o'clock on Sunday morning when this fire was discovered and several parties called to have seen it first. The first knowledge of the fire was when they saw smoke issuing from the north side of the building about one third of the distance in from Market street. A fire alarm was sounded from box 12 at the fire hall, in Centre square, by Henry B. Friley, who lives on Market street, close to the Kepler building. The firemen, who had just returned from the fire on Orange and Centre streets, No. 2, at Market and Orange streets, No. 2, at Orange and North Queen, and No. 4, at Stauffer's and North Queen, were called to the fire.

It is not known exactly where the fire started; whether it was in the cellar or on the first floor, where stoves, gas, etc., are kept. In the cellar there were great quantities of paints, varnishes, oils, &c., but fortunately these were farther from than the point where the fire broke out, and they did not ignite. There is a board partition which divides the cellar, near where the fire started, and this was almost completely away. Through the elevator the flames made their way with great rapidity to the second and third floors and also to the roof, which had a hole burned through it and the tin melted. Almost the whole rear part of the building was wrecked by the flames. The four floors were either completely burned away or ruined so as to require new floors.

After the first floor had been burned partly it gave away, under its weight of stoves, heaters and other heavy goods, and it went crashing through to the cellar, doing a great deal of damage. The wood work was wrecked by the flames, and the floors were either completely burned away or ruined so as to require new floors. The fire department was not notified of the fire.

The championship game of ball played on Saturday resulted as follows: Philadelphia, 5; Boston, 4; Pittsburg, 11; Cleveland, 5; Chicago, 17; Indianapolis, 5; Cincinnati, 2; St. Louis, 1; Washington, 1; Kansas City, 10; Brooklyn, 6; Cincinnati, 2; Baltimore, 4; St. Louis, 6; Louisville, 6; Columbus, 5; Portland, 6; Omaha, 4; Hazleton, 5; Shenandoah, 1. The Sunday games of base ball were: Cincinnati, Brooklyn, 1; Columbus, 10, Louisville, 1.

The Kansas City club hit McMahon safely fifteen times on Saturday. The Jersey City club hit abandoned on Saturday and Patsy Powers, one of the best managers in the country, goes to Rochester, taking with him Coffey, Burke and Baseman. The other players, including Jack Hilland have all been released. Lyons, who goes to New York.

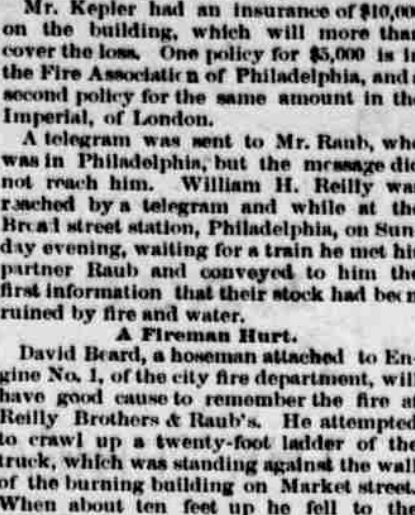

The Wilkesbarre club is in distress; they will sell all their good players and secure cheap ones. They now lead the Atlantic States. The result of their last move will be to shake the interest of the people in the club's games.

White Eyes, an Indian, is pitching good ball. Hank O'Day, one of Washington's star pitchers, goes to New York, who will spend money to get the pennant. The Jersey City club hit up in his hitting since he was put away down on the list. Tomney is playing the fielding game of his life for Louisville.

Albert McGuigan loses his life. Albert McGuigan, a fourteen-year-old son of Charles McGuigan, a resident of Cecil county, Maryland, was drowned in the Susquehanna at Bald Friar, a great loss to the family.

COL. WILLIAM B. FORDNEY.

ONE OF LANCASTER'S MOST PROMINENT AND VENERABLE CITIZENS PASSES AWAY.

ONE OF LANCASTER'S MOST PROMINENT AND VENERABLE CITIZENS PASSES AWAY.

A Sketch of His Eventful Life--The Oldest Lawyer of the Lancaster Bar--Some of the Cases He Conducted.

Col. Wm. B. Fordney, one of the most prominent lawyers in the state, in his day, died at his residence, No. 49 East Orange street, at 9:30 o'clock this morning, in his 84th year.

On August, 1888, he had an attack of weakness, since which time his health has gradually failed. He was confined to bed for the past two weeks, but retained his consciousness almost to the last. He suffered no pain in his final illness and slept quietly away.

SKETCH OF HIS CAREER. Col. Fordney was born on Chestnut Hill, this county, April 14, 1807. His ancestors came from the border line of France and Switzerland, and before the Revolution they lived in North Queen street on the properties owned by the late William Miller and now possessed by Shaub & Burns. When three years old Col. Fordney's parents moved to Lancaster and with the exception of four years he was at Allegheny college, he has lived all his long life in Lancaster.

Col. Fordney read law with ex-President Buchanan, in the building now occupied by the INTELLIGENCER, and was admitted to the practice of the law in the several courts of Lancaster county in June, 1829, shortly after President Jackson entered upon his first presidential term. Judge Long, who died a few months ago, was one year Col. Fordney's senior.

Col. Fordney received his military title from Gov. Wolf, he having been appointed one of his aides. Capt. James K. Findley, also of Lancaster, was the other aid. Col. Fordney accompanied Governor Wolf on his first ride over the newly finished Pennsylvania railroad.

When Col. Fordney first practiced law, the Lancaster bar had among its members lawyers with a national reputation. The leading lawyers were ex-President Buchanan, Wm. Norris, James Hopkins, who commanded the largest practice ever known in the county; Moulton C. Rogers, who subsequently became a supreme judge; Ebenezer Wright and Samuel Parke; Gen. George B. Porter, who became governor of Michigan; Amos Eil-maker, father of Nathaniel and Levi Eil-maker, and a nominee for vice president of the United States; George W. Jacobs, and Benjamin Champney, afterwards a judge and senator; Reah Frazer and John R. Montgomery.

It was while riding home in company with Mr. Fordney from an arbitration in Maytown, that Mr. Montgomery was thrown from his horse and his spine so severely injured that he never recovered from the lingering effects of the accident. Barton was the famous orator at the bar when Col. Fordney was admitted, and when Gov. David R. Porter appointed Barton state's attorney for Philadelphia, he accepted only on condition that Col. Fordney be made the district attorney of Lancaster county. The governor made the appointment and Col. Fordney assumed the duties of that office in 1839 and held the position for six years.

One of the early cases that he tried was that of the celebrated Collier murder. He was charged with killing a Helweg peddler named Zellerbach. The body had seven-teen wounds on it, and notwithstanding these wounds the coroner's physician was about making an autopsy of the head to ascertain the cause of death. Col. Fordney protested against the mutilation of the body, when the cause of death was so evident. The body had several other wounds and he ended in the jury knocking the physician out. The doctor sued Col. Fordney, but the attorney general had a not pro entered and heartily approved the strict attorney's course. The trial resulted in the conviction of Collier, and his execution followed in due time.

Another celebrated case tried by him was one of counterfeiting. Walton, an Englishman, lived near the Gap and flooded the country with counterfeit notes. Walton lived in great style. He was an expert engraver, and so excellent in his line was his work that on the trial, when the counterfeit genuine notes of the Bank of Pennsylvania, produced in evidence, got mixed before the jury, the cashier of the bank could not tell which were the forged ones. That appeared to settle the case in the minds of the jury that Walton was too dangerous to be out of jail, and he was promptly convicted and sentenced to Long Branch and New York.

J. J. Uhler, of North Duke street, is spending some time with his uncle, George W. Hensel, at Quarryville. Mrs. Morris Zook and daughter Kate left on Saturday for Asbury Park. J. H. Young and wife, of this city, are the guests of Uriah D. Diebler, shoe dealer, of Harrisburg.

RAIN INTERFERE

BUT THE CAMPMEETINGS AT LANCASTER AND LITIZZ ARE WELL ATTENDED.

Three Thousand Persons at the Former and Two Thousand at the Latter. Features of the Services.

LANCASTER, July 29.--The programme for Young People's Day (Saturday), was carried out in full. The tabernacle was crowded for the afternoon service. Beside the essays, recitations and addresses the audience was treated to some choice vocal music. Prof. S. B. Ellenberger, C. A. Kinter, Mr. Miss Mamie and Mr. Carroll Kinter, all of Harrisburg, formed a quartette who rendered some fine vocal music. Miss May Howard and Miss Hattie Vache rendered several very enjoyable solos. The exercises of the afternoon were closed by an address fitting the occasion by Presiding Elder Crouch. At 6 o'clock a reception was held in the tabernacle. Singing and addresses by Revs. Roads and Thomas was the programme observed on this occasion.

The children's lesson at 1:30 taught by Rev. Roads was a special feature of the Saturday afternoon's exercises. The subject was to have been "The Rose and Lily," but the downy condition of the sky forming a favorable circumstance, Mr. Roads decided to substitute in its place a "Candle Sermon." The tabernacle was made dark as practicable and with lighted candles the sermon was taught. One large candle was used to represent the Holy Spirit which four smaller ones, one of each, red, yellow, black and white, represented the principal races of the world. The large candle was placed in the center of the others to show how all could be illuminated from the same source. A Sunday school class, a family and a young couple were also represented by candles. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Dungan, wife of the Rev. Dungan, of Marietta.

Mrs. Wheeler led the concert meeting at 6 o'clock. When the time for the evening sermon came the tabernacle was crowded to the doors, while many others either crowded around the outside of the door or were compelled to forego hearing the service. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Charles Roads.

SUNDAY'S PROCEEDINGS. Sunday morning dawned with a cloudy sky, while a heavy mist hung over the earth. The roads had become quite muddy from the rain of the previous day and the outlook for a large attendance at the camp was not very promising. However, from the time the first train arrived at the grounds to the gathering to the grounds, and the woods took on an animated scene. On toward noon the skies cleared somewhat and the outlook became somewhat better, teams came pouring in from the surrounding country, the trains were all heavily loaded with people, and the grounds began to fill until at 3 o'clock the tabernacle, but this was so crowded that it was decided to try to hold the remaining services in the open air. Accordingly, the responsibility for children's meeting arrived, that service was held in the tabernacle on the outside, but again the clouds began to gather and before the lesson was over a shower of rain fell that drove the audience to seek cover as best they could. Those who had tents and cottages ran to them, and a cot or tent with a dozen or more people crowded into it was no uncommon sight. Others who had no shelter dropped in for the day sought the shelter of the public tents or the tabernacle, where at 3 o'clock the sermon of the afternoon was preached.

The usual devotional service was held at 8 a. m. and 10 o'clock yesterday. Mr. George Brubaker, of Williamsport, led the prayer meeting, which was largely attended, but at 10 o'clock the first sermon of the day was delivered. E. G. Reed, D. D., president of Dickinson college, preached the sermon. He said before beginning to preach that he had not been well for some time, but he was in a condition to preach that morning. However, he had been invited to preach here and intended to do the best he could. He selected as his text, Acts 26, 19: "Whereupon oh King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision." Paul's only fault was that he persisted in persecuting the early Christians, who had been crucified. He was stricken when on his way to Damascus and there saw a vision which had converted him. After that he went about preaching the gospel and doing good until he was arrested and hurled into prison. Festus, anxious to relieve himself from the responsibility of condemning a Roman, had sent him to Agrippa, the governor, and he tried him by him.

Here also he might have refused to open his lips to make a defense, for it was the privilege of the Roman to appeal to Caesar, but here was the opportunity he had sought to declare Christ. He declared his conversion by the vision, that he had not been disobedient to the call of heaven, and wished that Agrippa might be like him "except these chains." He felt that God had a work for him to do and he asked: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" There is no better question any Christian can ask. God is in earnest. He never trifles. He wants men to work. Paul always wanted to know what the line of duty was and he did it. Paul however was not the only man who had been changed by a vision. Many another has had a revelation. Many spirits may not see until God touches these spirits. President Garfield once told a gentleman that he had a vision that changed his life, and he did it. The great President, John A. Andrew, had a vision that changed his life and so also had John Bunyan. The promise of God is that young men should see visions and old men should dream dreams.

Dr. Vernon read the morning lesson preached by the Rev. George A. Gaul, of Columbia. His text was 1 Corinthians, 1 chapter, 22, 23 and 24 verses. This sermon was delivered in Mr. Gaul's usual effective manner. His sermon described the church of the days of the text and the life of Paul. During this service Miss Hattie Vache sang a solo. The usual "holiness" meeting was held by Mrs. Wheeler at 6 o'clock. The sermon of the evening was delivered by the Rev. E. J. Grey, president of Williamsport Dickinson academy. His topic was "The Reality of this Life." Material of Lane & Co., dry goods dealers, but lately no active business engaged his attention. Col. Fordney married the daughter of Hon. Wm. Jenkins. Their children are Mrs. Samuel H. Reynolds, Thomas P. Fordney, Wm. J. Fordney and Mrs. William H. Potter. Lawyer Wilson Jenkins, of Camden, New Jersey, is a nephew, and Hon. Richard Jenkins, of Camden, a brother of Mrs. Fordney, was prosecutor of Camden county for many years and Wm. Jenkins, father of Mrs. Fordney was prosecutor of this county from 1808 to 1824. He was married on November 1, 1837, and celebrated his golden wedding on November 1, 1887, at which time there assembled at his home all his children and grandchildren and a few intimate friends. Col. Fordney's death is the first in the family since his marriage.

David G. Miller, formerly of Colerain, loses his life in Harrisburg. David G. Miller, a laborer in Bailey's iron works, died of a heart ailment on Saturday. He was running a buggy to the furnace, when the wheels of the buggy broke down, and the heavy load of iron fell upon the unfortunate man, killing him instantly. His head and the upper part of his body was crushed.

Mr. Miller was raised in Colerain township, near the town of Gettysburg, and came to Harrisburg. He went into the iron works, and after the close of the war came home and married the daughter of Frederick Stively and moved on his farm at Camargo. From there he moved to Christians and carried on an extensive business in the iron works. He was offered a good position in the Chesapeake works in Harrisburg a few years ago, and at the time of his death was one of their superintendents. His remains will be brought to New Providence, and buried in the Monmouth burying ground at that place to-morrow afternoon. Miller was 50 years of age.

Good Bass Fishing. Bass fishing has been better at Peach Bottom this season than it has ever been known. During the early part of last week there was a large lot of fine fish taken from that place. One party of four people from York caught 283 and a party from Chester had 97. Doffenmeyer, from Quarryville, caught 44, some of which weighed 33 pounds. L. T. Hensel caught an elegant 30. There was no one on the river who was not very successful. At the present stage of the water fishing is at a good point, and there are plenty of good accommodations.

List of Unclaimed Letters. The following is a list of unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Lancaster, Pa., July 29, 1889: Ladies' List--Miss S. A. King, S. A. King, Mrs. Alice Grier, Mrs. Molly King, Mrs. Pauline Hamright, Mrs. Abby Hanaway, Miss Mary Gilbert, Mrs. J. H. Astender, Charles B. Astender, Mrs. A. Black, N. S. Hamright, George Hart, Geo. A. Hottel, J. B. Swartz, H. N. Rhoads.

Summer Leisure. Thos. B. Howell left last night for a week's vacation to Stoyville, Somerset county. Miss Cordelia Rengier, Miss Pauline Rengier, J. S. Rengier, Paul G. Dougherty, Luther Fox Dersmidt, Dr. Geo. P. King, H. A. Buhler leave on August 1st for Boston, leaving Baltimore by boat. Some of our party expect to extend the trip from Boston to Halifax. Hugh R. Fulton, esp. is back after a three weeks' outing, during which he visited Southwest Virginia on a business trip, took in the Natural Bridge and the old battle field, and made excursions around Petersburg and Richmond. The Lancaster Pictorial and Recreation club returned on Saturday from their week's encampment at Shelbyville's woods. They report having had a splendid time. Miss Helen Lederman and her cousin, Miss Susan Toth, who has been spending some time with her, left at noon to-day, on a trip to Long Branch and New York. J. J. Uhler, of North Duke street, is spending some time with his uncle, George W. Hensel, at Quarryville. Mrs. Morris Zook and daughter Kate left on Saturday for Asbury Park. J. H. Young and wife, of this city, are the guests of Uriah D. Diebler, shoe dealer, of Harrisburg.

LIFE AND PROPERTY LOSS

EIGHT PERSONS CRIMED TO DEATH DWELLING IN CHICAGO.

Fire, Water, Wind and Hail Destroyed Over a Million Dollars' Worth of Property in the Lake City.

CHICAGO, July 29.--The storm of Saturday night was even more severe than has been supposed. The unprecedented high, full wind and incessant lightning caused a loss of property that is difficult to estimate. All kinds of property suffered, goods in cellars and basements, unfinished buildings and dwellings. There were thousands of fires--many from lightning and most from the destruction of the insulation of the electric light wires.

Fire, water, wind and hail combined caused a loss probably in excess of a million dollars and possibly as much again. One fact was made clear by the storm: The sewers of Chicago were unequal to the task of carrying off the water that fell. The result of the storm will probably be an agitation of the matter looking towards a radical improvement in the drainage facilities.

Heavy Storm in Tennessee. MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 29.--A heavy wind and rain storm struck the city about 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and continued until a late hour last night. No damage was done in the immediate vicinity of Memphis, but the Western Union wires with the exception of two to Little Rock are all down, and it is supposed that the storm was much more severe in the surrounding country.

Damaged by Wind, Hail and Rain. FINDLAY, Ohio, July 29.--A tremendous storm of wind, hail and rain swept over this city last evening, blowing down trees, tress, outhouses and unfinished buildings and doing a great deal of damage of a general character. The wind was terrific and the rainfall tremendous, while hail as large as hickory nuts fell. It was the most destructive storm of the year, and the loss of property is likely to be very great.

The Government's Victory. PABST, July 29.--The returns from elections for councillors general have been received from 813 cantons. In those cantons 68 Republican candidates, 245 Conservative and 11 Boulangerists were elected. 89 cantons a second ballot will be necessary. The government is jubilant over its returns.

Harbored to Salt Commissioners. DENVER, July 29.--The Salt Commissioners (General Miller) had a conference this morning with the president over the proceedings, and then took the train for Washington. Secretary Windom remained over and may stay till the middle of the week. Private Secretary Halford says no appointment is likely to be made here at Denver. The presidential family are expected chiefly with preparations for the Harbor visit, for which place they will leave here on August 6th.

They Plead Not Guilty. CHICAGO, July 29.--The five men accused of complicity in the murder of Dr. Cronin--Coughlin, Beggs, Woodruff, Kunze and O'Sullivan, were arraigned in Judge Horton's court this morning. All pleaded not guilty. In the cases of Beggs, Coughlin, Woodruff and Kunze a motion to quash the indictments was made and entered. O'Sullivan's attorneys made an application for change of venue from Judge Horton's court.

Probably Fatally Wounded. CHICAGO, July 29.--Police Officer Vestor E. Fish was shot in the head at 22nd street this morning and will probably die. It is supposed he was shot while attempting to arrest a burglar. Another officer, attracted by the shooting, ran to the spot where he found Fish lying unconscious. He was removed to the hospital. Three or four arrests have been made and it is believed the man who did the shooting is in custody.

To Jail for Four Months. DUBLIN, July 29.--Dr. Tannet, M. P. for Cork, was sentenced to-day at Tipperary, to one month's imprisonment for assaulting Police Inspector Stephens, in May last. When judgment was pronounced he cried out in the dock: "I defy you; the magistracy are the real criminals." For this outbreak three months was added to his sentence.

An Ice House Robbed. SALINAS, July 29.--John Keppeler, proprietor of the Landville hotel, had made ample preparations for the accommodation of visitors to campmeeting on Sunday. He was surprised when he entered the ice house on Sunday morning to find all the meat, butter, lard, etc., gone. It is supposed the robbery was committed by a gang of thugs who had been in the vicinity for some time.

Death of a Noted Man. FARMINGTON, Maine, July 29.--Daniel Beedy died this morning, aged 78. He had been a noted civil engineer and bridge builder. He built the first steam flour mill in St. Louis and various large flour and quartz mills in New Mexico, California and other Western states, besides a large number of bridges.

Burke Will Be Extradited. WINNEPEG, Man., July 29.--A decision will be given on the application for a writ of habeas corpus in the Burke case to-morrow. It is concluded even by the prisoner's counsel that the order for extradition will be given.

WEATHER FORECASTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.--Showers, cooler, southerly winds.

CHICAGO, July 29.--A heavy wind and rain storm struck the city about 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and continued until a late hour last night. No damage was done in the immediate vicinity of Memphis, but the Western Union wires with the exception of two to Little Rock are all down, and it is supposed that the storm was much more severe in the surrounding country.

Two Commissioners in Session. HARRISBURG, July 29.--Two commissioners are in Harrisburg to-day. One is laboring with the question of diminishing the number of soldiers' orphan schools and the other is discussing arrangements for dedicating monuments to Gettysburg in September. They will get down to business this afternoon.

A Requisition for Forger Hunt. HARRISBURG, July 29.--Governor Beaver has issued a requisition for Wm. H. Houtz, who is wanted at Lewisport, in Mifflin county, for forgery. He has been arrested at Dubuque, Iowa.

An Ex-Senator Dying. CONCORD, N. H., July 29.--Hon. E. H. Rollins, ex-United States senator, who is ill at the Isle of Shoals, has had another relapse. It is considered even by his relatives that he is unconscious and is falling perceptibly.
