The first impression of Nantucket is very different. It is a low, rolling island, with a few cottages and hotels on a bluff close to the water, and then far away you see the town of Nantucket resting on a hillside just beyond the water.

CAN COLLECT ITS LUMBER.

The Lumbermen's Exchange Given Permission to Take Stray Logs.

Judge Rockefeller, of Northumberland county, has this afternoon awarded an injunction to restrain owners of shore and island land, and persons who had captured logs in the recent flood from interfering with employees of the Lumbermen's Exchange in gathering up the logs and lumber which had come down from the booms and mills at Williamsport and Lock Haven in June, and had lodged at a boom.

The lumbermen of the West Branch after the flood turned over the control of all logs and lumber to the exchange, and the latter made contracts with a skidding company of Michigan to gather up and load the logs along the river, and also made contracts with private contractors to gather up the lumber, clean it and pile it up ready for shipment.

The exchange thought there would be no difficulty in settling with land owners and log cutters, but after everything got into operation the workmen were continually stopped by persons who refused the right of entrance upon their lands and by the owners of logs, who demanded fifty cents a log before giving them up.

The officers of the exchange, after making offers as high as $1.50 per 1,000 feet for log cutters and fifty cents per 1,000 feet for owners of islands, and being unable to make enough settlements to keep the work in operation, applied on the 31st of July for an injunction to restrain interference with their employees.

The demands of many island owners, who have from 2,000 to 10,000 feet of logs on a log also, a price which the exchange was unwilling and unable to pay. To these people, as well as to all other log cutters, but after everything got into operation the workmen were continually stopped by persons who refused the right of entrance upon their lands and by the owners of logs, who demanded fifty cents a log before giving them up.

THE MAGIC FLUID.

PROF. BROWN-SQUARD'S ELIXIR USED SUCCESSFULLY IN CINCINNATI.

Old Men With Rheumatism and Erysipelas Operated Upon and They Become as Spry as Young Colts.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 8.--Dr. Robert Long-fellow, professor of dermatology in the College of Medicine and Surgery, conducted an experiment in the evening with Brown-Squard's discovery. Tests were made on a dozen subjects. Fielden Weir, colored, aged 70, bent and crippled with rheumatism, Thomas Alburn, cured by erysipelas, were enabled to walk with ease by injections of the fluid. When both subjects returned in the evening they could walk with ease and to show his rejuvenation Weir kicked with both feet as high as his head, ran about the room and danced.

The exhilarating effect on Alburn was equally as noticeable. He walked a dozen squares and declared all pain and stiffness had left his limbs.

Dr. Longfellow reports this morning that in all cases to whom he administered the fluid yesterday the effects were similar except one. That was the case of a man 85 years old, in full health and in no need of a tonic. He experienced slight sickness. He reports further that the old colored man whose rheumatism was completely cured last night says that he still retains his restored health, and that his family and friends regard his cure as little short of a miracle.

The elixir was prepared from the glands of a young sheep, and it was used on several patients with startling success. The physician says that the discovery was not with any idea that there was any merit in it, but simply to test the elixir. The first injection made into the system of an elderly man, who says that the effect on him was strengthening in a remarkable degree, and without any ill effects.
