

BRUTALLY BEATEN.

GEORGE ROBINSON BEATEN BY TWO MEN ON FRIDAY EVENING.

Edwin H. MacGonigle Repeatedly Hits Him With a Black-Jack, and Chas. E. Donnelly Uses His Fists Upon Him.

George Robinson, of the City hotel, lillard room, was cruelly assaulted on Friday evening and the results may be serious for his assailants, Edwin H. MacGonigle and Charles E. Donnelly. Shortly before 8 o'clock, Robinson, who had been told that MacGonigle made remarks reflecting seriously on the character of his sister, saw him pass the City hotel and called to him. MacGonigle, accompanied by Donnelly, walked up to him. Robinson invited them to go back in the yard to talk the matter over, and the three men walked through the reading room and bar room to the yard. The three men talked for a few minutes, the difficulty was apparently settled, and the men were returning to the hotel and had almost reached the rear door, MacGonigle was in the lead, and as he reached the door he turned to Robinson, who was a few feet behind him, shook his fist at him and with an oath said he would see him again about the matter at another time. Robinson, after MacGonigle said this, struck at him, but was too far away to reach him. Donnelly was behind Robinson and the moment Robinson struck at MacGonigle, he struck Robinson a powerful blow on the back of the head. This staggered Robinson, and as he fell forward, MacGonigle struck him on the head with a black-jack, making a terrible-looking wound. This blow knocked Robinson senseless, and while he was so MacGonigle and Donnelly kept on beating him and when Robinson was prostrate both men kicked and jumped upon him until he was tired, when they ceased their murderous attack. As MacGonigle was walking away from him he put the black-jack in his pocket and with an oath said, "I told you I would whip the big..."

Blood flowed freely from Robinson's wounds, a large quantity, probably a quart, escaping from them. Robinson was taken to the office of Dr. Davie, where his wounds were dressed and then taken to his home on South Queen street. The assault was witnessed by only one gentleman and he was not in a position to prevent it. There was no noise made by the assailants. In a few minutes the affair was over, but in that short time Robinson was struck many terrible blows. There have been no suits entered as yet by Mr. Robinson. His friends think he should not allow himself to be handled in any way, and that it is his duty to make complaint against them and have them punished, as it is not the first time MacGonigle has figured in similar affairs.

WILL NOT BE DISCHARGED.

The Non-Union Men Will Be Retained By the Columbia Iron Company.

COLUMBIA, Aug. 17.—A committee of five former employes of the Columbia Iron company waited on Col. C. S. Kaufman, manager, on Friday, when the situation at the mill was fully discussed. They were told by Mr. Kaufman that any former workman who was competent would be employed if he desired it, and he could go to work on Monday. The question whether they were union or non-union men would not be asked them. The men demanded that the present employes be discharged before they would work in the mill. Mr. Kaufman refused this and the matter ended. In the interview the committee admitted that the wages, $2.50 per ton, were satisfactory. The present employes are good workmen, and there is no cause to discharge them. Frank X. Schlegelmilch, a nine-year-old son of H. W. Schlegelmilch, living on Union street, met with a very severe accident yesterday afternoon. With some small children the boy was in the country for blackberries and came home on the Reading railroad. At the station he started to climb the high bank, but young Schlegelmilch attempted to climb the abutment of the culvert. He had climbed about 15 feet when he lost his balance and fell into the run beneath. He fell in about two feet of water among cinders and received very severe bruises. His nose and right wrist are broken, a long gash on forehead, knee cap injured, both hands badly cut and internal injuries result from the fall. Dr. Mackel attended to his wounds, and John Emsheiser has been sued by Annie Klinefelter, for neglecting his children to fight with other children. He will have a hearing on Monday before Squire Evans. A birthday surprise party was held last evening at the home of James Smoker, on Eighth street. A large number of friends were present, and a good time had in dancing and other pleasures. Sixteen carloads of people went on the excursion of Gen'l Welsh post this morning to Penryn Park. A large crowd went out in the afternoon. Harry B. Best left yesterday afternoon for his home at Boston. Joseph McFadden, of Philadelphia, is visiting friends in town. T. J. Gillman and wife have gone on a visit to Atlantic City. Isaac Bernhardt and wife left yesterday for a trip to Newark, N. J. Miss Florence Kerker has left on a visit to Philadelphia. Miss Maggie May, of Maytown, is the guest of Mrs. John Shenberg. The case of Albert Roberts against the borough for the $300 bounty was before Squire Evans yesterday afternoon. The case was continued pending a decision in the supreme court on the constitutionality of the law. Mrs. Wm. McClure and daughter, Irene, left for their home in Danville, today. A memorial service will be held in Salome U. B. school on Sunday morning for George Deitzel, the drowned boy. John Keesel and Michael Fried caught a rock fish near the raft cut this morning, which weighed 121 pounds. The Shawnee Ice company received 300 feet of new lumber this morning. Rev. J. H. Pannetier, of Trinity Reformed church, is sick, and services will not be held in that church on Sunday. Rev. A. M. Mehrkam and wife have returned home. Services will be held in St. John's Lutheran church on Sunday. John Doak was before Squire Evans for neglecting his wife. By paying the costs and promising to do better he was discharged. Mrs. Jane E. Pearce, a former resident of town, died yesterday at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. E. C. Dalton, at Trenton, N. J., where she was visiting. A prominent officer of the Amalgamated association was in town yesterday, and a meeting was held last evening. The business of the meeting was kept secret.

A Thrilling Adventure.

When the Atlantic Express crashed into the bureau of information, at the Broad street station, in Philadelphia, on Monday, as noted in the news columns next day, there were Lancaster men active in the scene. In the door of the smoker stood Mr. William B. Middleton, Mr. B. J. McGinnis and his son Richard, while Mr. Joshua L. Lytle, of the Zionsville, was on the steps of the car. Mr. McGinnis took in the "situation" as the train went flying into the station at the high speed from the push given by the engine. He said, "What if the air brakes don't work?" Mr. Middleton replied, "They are not working!" And as he spoke the party rushed back into the car just as it leaped from the track and went crashing into the bureau of information.

The man on the steps showed surprising agility in getting off at high speed. No one was injured, and by the next day the demolished bureau of information had been rebuilt and painted, and there was no trace of the accident.

A Man in the Kitchen. When Mrs. John Allright, of No. 216 Rockland street, went down stairs early this morning, she was greatly frightened at seeing a man in the kitchen. She alarmed the neighbors by her cries, but before any of them arrived the man had skipped out. He had been in the kitchen all night, and when she saw him he had just arisen from the floor where he had been sleeping. The man is a stranger to Mrs. Allright, but she thinks she would know him if she again saw him.

Lodge Room Benighted. Lodge No. 43, A. Y. M., has had for a number of years one of the finest lodge rooms in the state. It has been made still more handsome the past week with new paper placed on the walls. The paper is light, tinted with blue and contrasts well with the rich ceiling and heavy borders. The papering was done by J. B. Martin & Co., and reflects great credit on the skill of their workmen.

The chairs of the lodge room were also overhauled during the vacation, the wood work of the stairways oiled, and everything about the room looks cosy and inviting.

Escaped an Accident. A west-bound freight train on the Pennsylvania railroad made a narrow escape from what might have been a serious accident on Friday. The train was passing in the rear of the freight station when a pin which held a truck of one of the cars came out. The truck loosened from its place on the tracks, and the engine was observed by the engineer of the shifter, who whistled down brakes. The car was taken up as far as the Harrisburg pike and there placed upon the siding.
