THE CAMPMEETING.

TUESDAY'S RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN THE GROVE NEAR RAWLINSVILLE.

Interest In the Exercises Unabated. Names of Some of the New Visitors. The Close of Camp On Thursday.

RAWLINSVILLE CAMP GROUND, Sept. 3 .-Last night it was very cool in camp, so cool that heavy clothing was in demand. But this morning the sun came out bily and it was soon warm enough. To-day's services commenced at 6:30 with family worship in the tabernacle led by Rev. Royer, of Bainbridge. Rev. H. C. Boudwin led the 8:30 experience meeting at the stand. At 10 o'clock Rev. Samuel Horwell, of Philadelphia, again preached. He based his sermon on the 33d verse of the 13th chapter of Luke. The leaven put in a measure of meal will expand itself. So it is with the gospel in man, it will work itself out and will be noticed by all ; but it will not work unless it is put there. His received the closest attention of hearers. Hev. Horwell is a great favorite here, this being the second time he has preached during the camp.

in the tabernacle at 1:30. Dr. Neely gave a very interesting talk on the history of Methodism and church government. He laid particular stress on several sections of the discipline which have not been in vogue here and which will stir the official members up to greater activity in church work. It was an interesting as well as an instructive address and was well received by the large congregation which filled the tabernacle to overflowing. The children's meeting was also held at 1:30 at the stand. Indeed these meetings grow more interesting every day, and Rev. Royer can hardly be excelled in this line of work.

Rev. S. M. Vernon, D. D., of the First M. E. church, of Lancaster, preached the sermon this afternoon. It was an expository sermon, taking as his text the 121st psalm. The basis of his remarks being on the "Help of God." -People who are in trouble generally look down-cast where instead of this they should be looking upward and asking God's help. The way to make trouble grow larger is just to keep looking at it. And there are some people who think that the only ones who ought to ask for God's help are the ones in trouble. But this is not the case, for the ones who are always asking for God's help are those who never seem to have any trouble. The Psalmst was one of these. In order for God to help you, you must walk as straight to the laws of God as a guide would have you keep to the path crossing a mountain. It was a practical sermon, suited to all classes.

The services this evening were attended by a large crowd of visitors, nearly 2,000 being present. The young people's meeting was held in the tabernacle at 6:30 in charge of Rev. J. G. Wilson. A number were at the altar and six were converted.

The sermon of the evening was delivered by Rev. Wm. Swindells, D. D., superinident of the Methodist Episcopal hospital at Philadelphia, from Psalms 16: 5-6. The theme of the speaker was a comparison of the happiness enjoyed by the worldly people with that of Christians.

The first thought advanced was that happiness is the propelling force of every human action. That every effort put forth by man, no matter in what direction, was through the hope that happiness would attend its culmination. Then saying that it was with reluctance that he entered on a discussion of this kind, yet in order to meet the arguments affoat in the word relative to the worldling's happiness and the Christian's unhappiness, to do so. He agreed to let it to a jury of twelve unconverted men and expected a verdict in the Christian's favor. He said people consisted of three classes-those of a cosmic notion of God, or those who had a poetle conception of God, who fancied that they could see him wholly in high mountains, beautiful valleys, etc. Secondly, those of a magisterial notion, who conceive him as being a great magistrate who demanded the strictest obedience to his laws; and those who had the conception of his divine nature.

Afterwards he spoke at some length of the Christian's evidence of his acceptance, which comes neither through material things nor Providence.

The ministers who arrived to-day are Revs. George K. Morrow, D. D., Wm. Swindells, D. D., J. O. Wilson and W. T. Marce, all of Philadelphia, and S. M. Vernon, D. D., of Lancaster. Dr. George K. Morris and J. O. Wilson will preach to-morrow. The camp will close on Thursday about noon. The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered. The children's meetings will close to-morrow with a walk around and a good time generally.

Strasburg's Schools Open.

STRASBURG, Sept. 3.-At 8:30 a. m. yes terday the bell on the public school building rang out its notice that vacation time was over and again the season was at hand for the boys and girls to prepare for hard work. An entire new corps of teachers, save one, Miss Emily Warren, had been elected as follows: Principal, Prof. H. E. Light, of Lebanon county, a graduate of Franklin and Marshall; Misses May Lawrence, high school; E. Warren, secondary; M. Brenneman, second primary; E. Bateman, first primary E. Carpenter assistant to primaries, Miss Lawrence was not present on account of sickness. Directors present. Messrs. Helm. Long, Keneagy and Ingram. Pupils 162. The opening exercises consisted of vocal music, reading scriptures, prayer by Rev. J. O. George and repeating of Lord's prayer in concert by principal and scholars. Short addresses were made by Rev.George, Po P. Hart, J. Taylor and Prof. Light Another piece of music and the high and econdary school marched out of the 'owr room up stairs.

The schools open under very flattering circumstances. The building is one of the finest in the state, and the teachers are all Millersville graduates of experience. Prof. Light's remarks forshadowed his plans and owed him master of the situation.

TWO YOUNG CANDIDATES. The Nominees For Judges in Borks and

The Berke county Democratic convention on Tuesday evening nominated Gustav A. Endlich to succeed President Judge Hagenman. The nomination was made on the caretal belief.

Mr. Endlish was born in Lower Alsace township in 1856. His father was a German of scholarly stiainment, who came to this country in 1839, and who, in 1857, was appointed consul to Switzerland by James Buchanan, of whom he was an intimate friend. His son Gustav, after his preparatory studies had been completed spent several years in the best schools of Germany and France, and returning to America was graduated with high honors from Princeton college in the class of 1874. He afterwards read law with George F. Baer, and was admitted to the bar of Berks county in 1877.

Since his admission he has been in active practice, besides being one of the most voluminous authors in the legal profession. He has published "The Law of Building Associations," "The Law of Affidavits of Defense in Pennsylvania," two volumes of the decisions of the late Justice Woodward, of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, with notes; "Commentaries upon the Interpretation of Statuca," and "The Rights and Liabilities of Married Women in Pennsylvania." All of these are beld in high repute by the profession. He is married to a niece of General W. W. Davis, of Doylestown, and has one child.

The Republican convention of Chester county met on Tuesday and nominated Thos. S. Butler for judge.

Hon. Thomas S. Butler, who was nominated for additional law judge of Chester county, is quite a handsome young man, and the son of ex-State Treasurer Hon. Samuel Butler, and a nephew of Hon. William Butler, United States district judge for the Eastern district of Pennsylvania, and the son-in-law of Hon. Smedley Darlington, congressman from the Sixth Pennsylvania district.

Judge Butler was born in Uwehlan township on November 3, 1855. His mother and father are both Orthodox Friends, as are all of his stock. In 1870 he went before the military medical board of West Chester and took a special course at the West Chester results Normal school for a collegiate course. He, however, in 1874 abandoned the idea of going through college and entered the law office on haunary in algood Game.

THE LEBANONS WINS. They Defeat The Wilmingtons at Penryn

The attendance at Penryn fell off greatly yesterday and there was not more than 150 people present, although the newspapers lace the number at 500. Those who were on hand saw a good game between the Lebanon and Wilmington clubs. Young Hagey, of Manheim, pitched a splendid game for Lebanon and but five hits were made off him, Hahn played second base in good shape. Billy Doan umpired the game to suit everybody and the score was as follows:

caveat against this will or attempt to defeat the probate, the legacy of such person shall go to the other legatees named, who shall be satisfied with the will.

The will is in the handwriting of Mr. Evans. He made a codicil to it, giving to his wife the interest of $20,000 additional, and stating that none of these bequests shall be liable for the debts the party receiving them, but the codicil was not signed.

THE HAMILTON CASE.

Conspiracy Against Mr. Hamilton Discovered By Inspector Byrnes. Mrs. Swinton and her son, Joshua A. Mann, who were concerned in the Hamilton scandal at Atlantic City, N. J., are prisoners at police headquarters in New York, having been arrested under orders from inspector Byrnes. They are charged with conspiracy.

Mrs. Hamilton has claimed that her child was born at Elmira on December 17 of last year. A detective went to Elmira and learned that Mrs. Hamilton had lived with Joshua Mann as man and wife at that place. Dr. Burnett Morse, of Elmira, who Mrs. Hamilton claimed had attended her when the child was born, remembered Mrs. Hamilton, but said she did not have a child while he attended her. Inspector Byrnes had an interview with Mr. Hamilton, who said that he felt that he had treated the woman in an honorable manner considering their relations, and that he had righted a wrong. But if he found that he had been imposed upon he would let the law take its course. Mrs. Swinten and her son came to New York on Friday night and put up at the St. Charles hotel in Broadway. She registered as Mrs. J. W. Brown.

After her arrest she confessed to Inspector

Byrnes that she had aided Mrs. Hamilton in securing a child with which to deceive Mr. Hamilton. According to Mrs. Swinton two children dled before the one now living was secured for ten dollars. Mrs. Swinton says that Mrs. Hamilton frequently told her since her marriage to Hamilton how she imposed upon him and made him believe the child was his in order that he should marry her. She said that she carried out her scheme in order to get the family jewels and silverware left by Mrs. Hamilton's mother in her will to

ON THE FIRST BALLOT. EDWARD A. BIGLER NOMINATED FOR TREAS-

A Platform Which Vigorously Arraigns the Republican Party-Why It Was Derellet-Tariff Reform Demanded.

HARRISBURO, Sopt. 4.—Clouds and sun-shine alternated this morning as the delegates of the Democratic state convention began to bestir themselves, and there was an absence of brass band enthusiasm and decorations when they arrived at the opera house. There was a long delay in the assembling of the convention, and it was about 11 o'clock when Chairman Kisner rapped the delegates to order, and requested Secretary Nead to read the call. Even at that hour there were comparatively few people in the hall and the preliminaries were listlessly gone through with. On the stage were representatives of all the leading newspapers in the state and few of the more prominent Democrats who came to participate or look on. There is a conspicuous absence of the old time leaders and the convention seemed pleased when it was whispered about that William A. Wallace, of Clearfield, would arrive before noon. As was the case at the Republican convention there are many young men among the delegates and numerous new faces. There were few sabstitutions as the calling of the roll proceeded, and when Secretary Nead's voice died away on the last name it was found that there was a full representation.

Hon. Samuel W. Wherry, of Cumberland, was chosen temporary chairman without delay, and he was escorted to the stage by Samuel Josephs, of Philadelphia, and Patrick Foley, of Allegheny, thus merging the east, west and centre of state Democracy in one group. Mr. Wherry's speech was not long. He arraigned the Republican party for many misdeeds, and severely criticised the management of the sinking fund commissioners, closing with a eulogy of the Democratic party. He men-tioned the name of Cleveland, and the convention was soon cheering itself hoarse. Ex-Senator King, of Schuylkill county, moved that committees of one from each senatorial district be constituted on resolutions, permanent organization, credentials, rules and vice presidents, which was agreed to. The secretaries announced that the names of these committees had already been handed in, whereupon the convention adjourned for half an hour.

As soon as possible after adjournment the committee on resolutions met at the capital and prepared the platform. It was about 1 o'clock when the delegates got togother again. J. B. Watson, chairman of the committee on permanent organization, reported the name of Congressman J. B. Reilly, of Schuylkill. for permanent chairman and he was conducted to the chair by A. D. Markley, of Montgomery, and John Swartz, of Crawford. In taking the reins of the convention Mr. Reilly made a brief speech which was principally a oulogy of the party in whose name the convention was assembled. Mr. A. C. Lavarre, from the committee on contested seats, reported that there were no contests. Mr. H. S. Cavanaugh, of Northampton, read the platform, the different planks of which were greeted with hearty cheers.

THE PLATFORM.

The platform was as follows: The Democracy of Pennsylvania in conall powers not expressly granted to the general government are witheld and a sacred observance of the rule of construction contained in the tenth amendment to the constitution itself is essential to the preservation of the principles of home rule, and of pure, honest and economical government to the and that labor way not be and of pure, honest and economical govern-ment, to the end that labor may not be robbed of the bread it has carned.

Second. We appland the action of President Cleveland and our Democratic representatives in Congress looking to tariff tax reform, and we reaffirm the declaration of principles made by the Democracy of the Union at St. Louis in 1888, especially that demanding a revision and reduction of tariff taxes for the relief at once of Ameri-can labor, American industries and American labor, American industries and American taxpayors, by the repeal of such tariff taxes as now invite and protect monopoly, a greed that lessens production, lessens employment of labor, decreases wages and increases the cost to consumers and by the admission of raw material free of duty in all cases where it will enlarge our product, multiply our markets and increase the de-mand for labor.

Third. We regard trusts in whatever form organized as the result of the existing monopoly tariff, and we demand the repeal of such tariff taxes as enable them to control domestic production, by unlawful combination, and to extort from the lawful combination, and to extort from the people excribitant prices for their products. Fourth. We accept the decision of the people of Pennsylvania, rendered by the ballot on the prohibitory amendment, as a declaration in favor of a reasonable, just and effective regulation of the trailic in ardent spirits. We hold that the agreement of the Republican party, through its representatives in the Legislature to the proposed prohibitory amendment to the constitution and its defeat at the polls in spite of the Republican majority of $6,000 votes, of the Republican majority of 80,000 votes, are facts that establish beyond a doubt the hypocrisy of the Republican leaders in their treatment of the question of prohibi-

Fifth We hold the Republican party responsible for the failure—a failure wilfully and corruptly incurred—to enforce by "appropriate legislation," the sixteenth and seventeenth articles of the constitution designed to protect the land and labor, the people and the industries of this common-

Sixth. We hold the Republican party Sixth, We hold the Republican party responsible for failure to pass any law for the relief of the manual laborers of the state of Pennsylvania, and we recommend the enactment of such laws as will give equal protection and equal opportunities in every branch of Industry to all citizens, irrespective of race, religion or nativity. We also hold the Republican reserve responsible for failure of the Legisparty responsible for failure of the Republican lature to consider favorably potitions of working men and farmers of this state for the equalization of the burdens of taxation for relief from the exactions of monopoly.

Seventh. We hold the Republican party responsible for notorious corruptions which have for many years prevailed in the management of the state treasury for a system of depositing loans without interest, enriching favorites of the ring by use ost, enriching lavorites of the ring by use of the public money and for flagrant viola-tion of law by the commissioners of the sinking fund; and we pledge the faith of the Democratic party that the candidate this day nominated will, if elected, reform these wrongs.

Eighth. We favor the Australian ballot system, as adopted to meet the require-ments of our constitution and the special wants of our people, in order to secure the freedom and purity of elections, menaced by the combined power of monopoly and corruption of Republican rings and bosses. Ninth. That the sufferors by the recent floods have our sincere sympathy and that while we deprecate and condemn the management on part of the state authorities by which relief to our sorely afflicted follow citizens has been unnecessarily delayed we urge our representatives in the Legis-lature to take such constitutional action as will give substantial relief to the stricken ommunities.

Tenth. While we favor a liberal system of pensions to such veterans of the late war as have been honorably discharged and who from wounds or other infirmities have been rendered untit for manual or other labor we deem it unjust to that large class of those faithful soldiers of the Union who take a just pride in the heroic achieve-ments of their comrades in arms, that there should be added to the pension roll the names of any who are not qualified therefor by reason for honorable and faithful service in the line of duty. Foran, of Philadelphia, presented reso lutions which was unanimously adopted, commending course of Gladstone in his attitude toward the Irish people, URER BY THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Steele, of Schuylkill, also had a resolution adopted suggesting organization of Domo-cratic clubs throughout the state. New rules as amended by the state committee yesterday were adopted.

Nominations of candidates for state treasurer were then declared in order and the following names were presented : Edward A. Bigler, of Clearfield : Homer IJ. Humes, of Crawford; Captain A. A. Clay, of Elk, and Isaac Wilde, of Philadelphia. The first ballot resulted: Bigler 217, Humes 71, Clay 21, Wilde 4.

Edward A. Bigler was nominated for state treasurer on the first ballot.

The convention adjourned, SKETCH OF THE NOMINEE. Edward A. Bigler was born on August 18, 1843, in Clearfield, which is now his home, and where he has always resided, except on such temporary occasions as when his father was governor of Pennsylvania, from January, 1852, until 1855, the family then living in Harrisburg, and when the excovernor was United States senator, from 1856 until 1861, the family residence then being in Washington. After spending two years in a boarding school at Bridgeton, N. J., young Bigler entered Princeton college. He was in the class of '62, but left the college when the war broke out, He served in the militia on the state frontier at the time when the war broke out. He served in the militia on the state frontier at the time of the raids. For about two years he was manager of a mine on the Pacific coast. He left there in 1868, and since then has been engaged in the lumber, fire-brick and coal business at Clearfield. He is one of

been engaged in the lumber, fire-brick and coal business at Clearfield. He is one of the owners of the foundry and machine shop there, conducted by Bigler, Reed & Co.; is interested in the water company there, owns coal lands, buys and sells timber lands, and is a member of the Clearfield Fire Brick company.

The only public office ever held by him was the one which he recently stepped out of, the collectorship of internal revenue at Pittsburg. He held that for three years and eleven months. He was appointed collector of the Twenty-third district on July 1, 1885, with headquarters at Allegheny City. On July 1, 1885, that district and the Ninoteenth (Erie) were consolidated, and Pittsburg was made the headquarters. He has been active in state politics for about twenty years. He is not a public speaker, but is a clear-headed, efficient worker. Although regularly attending the state conventions, he has not been a delegate for over a dozen years, preferring to let somebody else hold the place that he could have got. He was a delegate in the convention that nominated Hancock for president. During the presidential campaign of 1884, he served in the national committee as a substitue for his friend, William A. Wallace, who was on a Western trip. About six years ago he was a member of the state executive committee. He has two brothers, business men, in Clearfield, neither of whom have held public office or been prombusiness men, in Clearfield, neither of whom have held public office or been prom-inent in politics. This week his son, the cidest of four children, entered Princeton college. Mr. Bigler is of robust build and sunny temperament.

John Hill, an Irishman, aged 68 years, met with a terrible accident, which resulted fatally, at Vesta furnace, Man shortly after three o'clock on To afternoon.

Hill was working in a lot taking out-potatoes, and, after be had finished his work started to go to the house of his brother, William Hill, with whom he sep-ped. He was obliged to cross the railroad and when he came to it a freight train was passing west. He stood on the other track to wait until it had passed. He did not notice an engine, on an eastern bound train, approaching and he was struck by it. The engineer whistled for him to go off the track, but be either did not hear is or paid no attention. He was picked up and carried to the house of his brother. Drs. Mowery and Craig were sent for and they attended him. They found that one of his legs was broken and his skull fractured. He died four hours after the scoldent. Deputy Coroner Thuma held an inquest and a verdict of secidental death was rendered. The deceased was a single man and lived near all of his life in Ireland. He came to the country nine months ago on a visit to

THE WORK WILL GO ON.

Hinden & Fritchey Will Begin the Pav-ing of Duke Street To-Morrow.

A special meeting of the street committee was held on Tuesday evening. S. H. Rey-nolds, representing the property owners on Duke street between Orange and Chestaut, appeared before the committee and guar-anteed the payment of $1,600 towards the expense of paving that square with asphalt blocks. He also stated that the street rail road company would pay the assessment of $250 with which the city charged it. An agreement will be prepared to-day for the paying, and Chairman Riddle was directed to sign for the committee.

J. U. Fritchey went to Philadelphia this morning to buy the blocks and his partner Frank Hinden, will begin work to-morrow. The track will not be dug up until after next week on account of the fair. It was decided to recommend to councils the passage of a resolution, directing the notice be given to all property owners this square to make sewer, gas and was connections before the asphalt blocks. fald and prohiblting the tearing up of the blocks for a period of ten years. An Injured Man's Terrible Condition The case of John Haddon, the man who was so terribly injured on the Pennsylva-nia reilroad, near Mill Creek, on Sunday morning, is a queer one. Ever since th accident occurred he has been lying at the hospital unconscious and he is still in that condition. How the man can live is a mystery, as it is utterly impossible to give him nourishment of any kind. His he is split open from ear to ear and the brains ooze out at times. He seems to be sinking and Dr. Landis does not think he can survive throughout the day.

Two Bad Girls. Mary E. Green and Mary Conlin, the two girls who were arrested a few days for being incorrigible, were heard before Alderman Deen yesterday. The evidence was very strong against both girls and Mary Green was committed for a further hearing before the judges.

The mother of Mary Coulin said she did not want her daughter sent to the House of Refuge, as she was a good girl. When she tried to talk to the girl, who is not more than 14 years of ago, the girt cursed and swere at her and acted so badly that the alderman committed her to jail for ten

Death of Allibone. Samuel Austin Allibone, the well-known author and scholar, of Philadelphia, died on Monday at Lucerne, in Switzerland. He is best known as the compiler of volumes of poetical and prose quotations, but the great work of his life was "A Critical Dictionary of English Literature and of British and American Authors." This immense work is in three volumes, and con-tains biographical and critical notices of forty-six thousand authors. He also pub-lished an "Index of the New Testamont."
