The Death of the Reynolds.

The sudden cutting down of Mr. Rey-olds comes as a great shock to this sumunity, of which he has so long been minent ornament. Death is busy a prominent ornament. I chan be that ad shaft so soon should have folowed the one that entered this family ction but a few weeks ago to take connection but a few weeks ago to take away Col. Fordney. Mr. Reynolds' shining talent as an orator enabled him to take a prominent place in our community, soon after he came to it from Centre county; and there is probably no one in it new who has a wider acquaintance and whose death would attract more attention. He has had an active and very ful career at the bar, from which be but this year retired with an ample fortune. His success as a lawyer was ed upon his pleasing oratory and address and his skill in the handling of the prevention of cruelty to animals, but it witnesses, rather than upon profound legal erudition, of which, however, he ad all that he needed. He inspired the confidence of his clients, had great aptness in pleasing those whom he desired to attract and a Last year ninety patients were received on great facility in commanding good fees. He was well equipped naturally and artificially for the position in which he found himself, and he arose with case and opeed to the leading place he held at this

He was a welcome and prominent member in all assemblies, and the social life of the town, to which he contributed so much by the handsome entertainments he was fond of giving, will greatly miss him ; and so will all the people, for whom he had ever pleasant smile and nod. The sympathy of the community is with his family in full measure in the loss of its kind ad, who was a good citizen and always a gentleman.

Those Niagara Falls. There is good reason to doubt that either Graham or Brodie went over the Niagara Falls. Whether they would be worthy of admiration if they did the eds is a point that may be disputed, but it does not seem that a calm weighing of the matter can leave them much glory. It took wonderful pluck to go over the falls and that quality may be ired as we admire the nerve of a rderer on the gallows-with a feelng of regret that so admirable a quality ld be so displayed. The Niagara dare-devil voluntarily faces death, but then death is doubtless more terrible to face with a guilty soul and the faint chance of life for the falls-jumper in capable of wonderful exaggera-tion under the magic of hope. A suicide who goes over the falls for the purpose of dying gets no admiration for pluck a man who goes over for the purpose of living in greater notoriety flatters public opinion by offering his life for admira-

And the Republican journals, unmindful of their ready ascription of corrupt motives to the Cleveland administration for putting the nation's money in the banks, hasten to sing praises to the wisdom of their secretary and to applaud his activity in keeping money easy. Twenty-eight years and more ago we began our talk to this community and the country at large about Clothes for Men and Boys. In some form the talk has been daily. Sundays and holidays excepted, ever since.

You look over your school day compositions and ask, "Did I ever write that stuff?" So we, browsing over our past Clothing Advertising, are disposed to ask the same question. But whatever we may think of it as literature, it has the quality of truth from first to last, and that made our Clothing business.

Talk like this has little space in the announcements of the September Limited Sale. A Bargain flavor is presumed to pervade it. Well, there are Bargains in the Clothing. But the thought of the opening season is upon the excellence and completeness of the stock. We must express it. Men may find comfort and style, economy and durability in the great stock now open and ready ; Boys may find-or their elders for them-the highest clothing skill of the period. The mothers come here naturally. It would be against nation, and it seems mean to refuse him. But where is the line to be drawn? If odle should go up out of sight over Niagara in a balloon and drop upon the falls without a parachute from a height of several thousand feet, with the intention of subsequently meandering through the whirlpool, he would be emphatically declared crazy, and would receive as little admiration for pluck as if he should put the muzzle of a shotgun in his mouth with the declared intention of digesting a charge of buckshot. The deed that Brodie is said baye done is so near to this line of in-The Windom's Way.

The secretary of the treasury says that it is all a mistake to say that the public ebt increased seven millions in July and August, as his statement of it shows the fact being that it decreased twentyme millions, though his statement does not show it. It does not show it, because it is made up on the idea that the ney that the treasury has paid out, it no longer has; which idea Mr. Windom thinks is incorrect however unible it seems ; for he says a good teal of it has gone from the treasury to the government's disbursing agents and it is because he paid out a very large sum to these agents in July and August that the debt appears to be in-creased ; whereas it only shows the disrsing agents instead of the treasury to have the money.

Mr. Windom, having a big pile of cash in the treasury, got rid of it by sending it out to the government's various paynasters, who put it to their accounts in bank ; and so made money easy, and helped the current boom in stocks, and made the debt look as though it was increased, because it was not practicable for the treasury to send its money out his way without interest, and still made to books show that it was in the treasury. It is a confounded weakness of bookthe ping that it cannot show money to be in when it is out; a fact which any a bank clerk has bucked up t in his virtuous efforts to make he funds he handled available for his private use, while seeming to be tightly held in the bank vaults.

Mr. Windom has our sympathy. He as a hard row to hoe. He has to make is office valuable to his party and his nds, to keep the money in the treasury and decrease the debt, while he lets it loose and keeps things booming ; and before him always stands the denunciaon freely heaped upon his Democratic redecessors in the last campaign for let-ing the treasury money glide out into

A Boy Tangled in a Balloon's Ropes. A very exciting and thrilling incident courred in Portland, Ore., on Sunday vening. Professor P. H. Redmond, an courred evening. aeronaut, was to make an ascension in a hot-air balloon. Just as the large air-ship saliqd away skyward, a lad aged 12 years, named Eddie Hill, became entangled in the ropes attached to the trapeze. His neck was caught in a half-noose and the boy could not extricate himself. VORK, (PA.)

could not extricate himself. He clung desperately to the ropes with both hands, and by winding them around both arms managed to save himself from falling and from choking to death. The balloon rose over 1,000 feet and drifted several miles away to the southeast, finally coming down as light as a feather, lauding the lad without a scratch. The boy was frightened nearly to death, but soon recovered after finding himself sately on earth. Professor Redmond did not go up at all, for if he had his weight would have choked the boy to death. When he saw how the lad was caught he let go the ropes and remained on the ground. Great excitement prevailed dar-ing the time the balloon was in the air.
