

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

A COLORED INQUEST OVER A COLORED CHILD REPORTED TO BE POISONED.

The Jury Decide Death Resulted From the Cause Attributed By Dr. Sierer.

Soldiers After $500 Bounty.

COLUMBIA, Sept. 12.—About a year ago Henry Lloyd, colored, was taken sick and became comatose with Ella Dickens, who had been seen from Christians.

The soldier had an infant child and Mary consented to take it to raise. Some time ago Henry was before Squire Evans on the charge of cruelty to the child and was discharged upon promising to give it better care.

The infant died yesterday and Deputy Coroner Hirscher was called to investigate last evening when Dr. Sierer made an examination.

Dr. Sierer concluded the child was not dead and death was due to cholera infantum. The jury decided that the death was due to the cause given by the attending physician.

Some time ago C. C. Kammeyer, attorney for Jerome Long, Whitefield, W. Va., Orville Kidders, James Farley and James Laughlin, veterans of the war, were brought suit against the borough to recover $500 unpaid bounty.

in accordance with a recent act of the Legislature. Mr. Kaufman has received a letter from the pension division, war department, at Washington, stating that Jerome Long was re-instated and re-mustered into service as a veteran volunteer.

In the cases of the other men there is no evidence of credit by name as veteran volunteers.

In the case the new law is declared unconstitutional Jerome Long will receive his bounty, while the others will have to furnish parole evidence.

Baudie A. Findley, aged 8 years, only daughter of John W. Findley, died at 8:30 o'clock last night.

Death was caused by inflammation of the lungs, which occurred after three weeks' illness. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late home.

A telegram was received in town this morning of the death of C. Clifford Halde-man, in New York.

Mr. Halde-man was a brother of the Messrs. Halde-man, of this place.

The fair of the Twin Brothers will open in the armory this evening. The armory has been decorated in a handsome manner and the fair will be one of the best ever held in town.

Miss Ella S. Moore, daughter of M. H. Moore, returned home from a visit to a month's visit to New York and Canada.

A very pleasant surprise party was held recently at the house of Mrs. Benj. Gammeter, at 7 o'clock.

Gen. Welsh post is arranging to turn out in large numbers at G. A. R. reunion at Manheim on Friday evening.

Gen. Solwig Circle will meet on Friday evening, to arrange to go to Manheim.

Negotiations are now being made for an amicable settlement of the war between the management and former employees of the Columbia iron company.

It is altogether probable that the men will return to work on Monday morning next.

The public schools are now in good working order, nearly 7,000 pupils are enrolled and additions every day.

THE COLORED ODD FELLOWS.

Number of Lodges and Members in Pennsylvania.

The district convention of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows held its final session in the hall of the House of Representatives, Harrisburg, on Wednesday morning, and at 12 o'clock adjourned for the session.

The session was a successful one, with 100 in attendance. At the session Tuesday night the convention elected Wm. Catlin, of Monaca, district, grand master, and C. Lee Hantover, of Lancaster, grand secretary.

At the session Wednesday morning the other officers were elected as follows: District secretary, J. H. Livingston, of Columbia; treasurer, James Howard, of Philadelphia; director, C. S. Johnson, of Chambersburg.

The place for the next annual meeting, Secretary Stafford's report shows the order in Pennsylvania is in a flourishing condition. There are 83 lodges, with a total membership of 4,886 members, of which number 4,042 are in good standing.

During the past year there were 80 initiations, which were offset by 623 being relieved and 30 deaths. Other expenditures were as follows: Sick benefits, $1,675.94; funeral expenses, $2,222.50; charity, $1,600.00; amount paid out, $29,250.57.

The several lodges have invested a total amount of $15,560.80, and the total value of their property is $23,783.60. The balance in the treasury is $23,714.01. There was a parade of the order Wednesday afternoon and a large reception in the evening.

MR. REYNOLDS' FUNERAL.

The distinguished lot of men who acted as pall-bearers.

The funeral of the late Samuel H. Reynolds took place this afternoon from his home on North Duke street.

Services were held in St. James' church, and were conducted by Bishop Knight, of Milwaukie. The members of the Lancaster bar attended.

The interment was private and was held at the West Hill. The pall-bearers were: Chief Justice Paxson, of Philadelphia; Justice Green, of Easton, all of the supreme court; Judge K. K. Hetter, of Columbia, Pa.; corresponding secretary, John J. Davis, Pittsburg; treasurer, W. S. Brown, Pittsburg; supreme representatives, E. B. Hunter, of Harrisburg; Wainwright, Pittsburg; John C. Geister, Philadelphia; J. B. Nobis, Pittsburg; J. K. Boyd, Johnstown; A. Wood, Pittsburg; George W. Jackson, York; E. Murphy, Altoona; A. B. Charlton, Philadelphia; and George P. Chandler, Harrisburg.

It was decided as a mark of recognition of good work that the Select Chain will present to the castle initiating the highest number of members during the fiscal year, July 1 to June 30, next.

It was also decided that the property of each castle one year, at the expiration of which time it must be returned to Select Castle, who will then present it to the castle winning the distinction of the coming year.

Fought About a Dog.

This morning between 12 and 1 o'clock, John Fordney, Steve Ledley and Christ Bruder were sitting at North Queen and Orange streets, and one of them had a dog.

Presently Ed Triesser, butcher, and John Diester, a hiker at the fair, whose dog is in Reading, came along. One of them kicked the dog, and that was the starter for a fight.

Fordney and Ledley both had their heads punched in very good style. Later Fordney brought suit before Alderman Barr against the men, charging them with assault and battery.

They were given bail for a hearing, but the case was set for this afternoon and all costs paid.

A Narrow Escape.

This afternoon Peter Rhoades, a big man who works on the Pennsylvania railroad, was a passenger on Fast Lane, which arrived here at 2 o'clock.

Before the train started Rhoades struck his foot and the car jumped from a car stop in front of Hotel Lancaster.

The platform was very slippery from being wet and when Rhoades struck he fell his feet and slid some distance.

He was almost under the car for a time and many persons thought he was killed. He was picked up and taken to the hospital.

With great care he was managed to throw himself out of the car and his wheels passed very close to him.

Left His Money to Old Maids.

L. B. Eaton, an eccentric recluse living near Frannont, Steuben county, Indiana, died last spring, leaving an estate worth $14,000.

By his will he left his real estate property to be divided among the "old maids" of Steuben county, and the old gentlemen are at present attempting to divide the will in the probate court.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

A Substitute for Oak Bark in Australia and its Cultivation Urged.

Mr. Thomas B. Merry, of Montana, who was the United States assistant commissioner to the Australian exhibition of 1888, makes an interesting report to the state department on a vegetable product which can be used successfully as a substitute for the rapidly declining supply of oak bark for tanning purposes.

It is known in Australia as the "wattle," and belongs to the widespread family of the January last Merry brought home with him a small quantity of seeds, which he distributed to friends in California, where they are already being cultivated and showing healthy growth.

These trees are cultivated extensively in the colonies of New South Wales and Victoria, where they are used for the same purposes as the oak bark, but by their fragrant blossoms and exquisite foliage. The two varieties most cultivated in those colonies are the "black wattle" and the "white wattle." Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

The black wattle contains from 30 to 32 per cent of tannic acid, and the broad-leaved wattle, which is a greater degree of leaved wattle. Both are indigenous to an exceedingly dry climate and poor soil, and attain their growth in about six years.

To such a large extent the larger amount of tannic acid, and is preferred by the trade in England, where its market value fluctuates from $35 to $42 per ton, according to the supply in the market.

Its tanning properties may be readily inferred when it is stated that hides can be readily tanned in a bath of liquor made from black wattle in forty-seven days, whereas in liquor made from the best Spanish oak, the best found in all the States, it requires from 60 to 80 days.

GETTYSBURG MEMORIALS.

Special Dedications On Wednesday of Pennsylvania Organizations.

Wednesday was devoted to the special dedication of the Pennsylvania monuments to the veterans of the war.

The exercises were held in the city of Gettysburg, Pa., and were attended by the survivors of the command. No system was observed, and each regiment was its own commander.

Four or five dedications were scheduled for the same hour, and to describe the exercises at each would be extremely difficult.

The following regiments' monuments were dedicated: 11th (Colli's) Zouaves, 50th, 26th (formerly commanded by General Getty), 93rd, 140th, 141st (Bever's), 107th, 25th, 119th, 121st, 9th, 73th, 11th (Corn Exchange), Knapp's Battery, 17th, 98th, 104th, 129th, the Bucktails, 17th Cavalry, 21st, 7th, 61st, 72d, 20th, 2d Cavalry, 43d, Battery F, 16th, 90th, 189th, 11st, 19th Cavalry, 27th, 15th Cavalry, 166th and 163rd.

The crowd on Wednesday was immense. The streets were filled with people Tuesday night who were unable to find quarters, and they came in by thousands Wednesday.

The rink and court house were thrown open and the people permitted to sleep in them. The whole affair has been a grand success.

Disaffection is expressed at the failure to have tents sent from the Harrisburg arsenal to accommodate the overflow. It began raining at 1 o'clock.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock Adjutant General Hastings formally inspected the Twelfth regiment, N. G. They passed a very favorable examination considering that they are from the district of the Commonwealth, and lost all their equipment in the war.

The battle-field commission held a session at which it approved the designs for the monuments of the Fifty-seventh and Sixty-first regiments.

Governor Beaver held a reception at the Springs hotel Wednesday night, followed by a ball. The officers attended in full dress, and the scene was a very brilliant one.

Horses Wearing Bustles.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

"Did you ever see horses that wear bustles, just like a woman?" asked Dr. Henry Wilson, who is just back from Kentucky.

John Hays, a horse breeder, told me in a buggy that he had been offered $5,000 for a pair of horses that he had raised in the blue ribbon and knew exactly what a horse was made. These horses were bought all the time except when on the road.

When under their stall wire bustle, just such a bustle as you see on the horses of the South, and the horse bustle was put under the tail and held there by a strap. This made the horse throw the tail from the body, and gave it style in action.

Many horses are now being raised in this way, and the bustle is a regular trade article from the country for $300 or $400 and educate him to all the points and styles, and he will be a little and sell him for a thousand or so.

Two New Storekeepers Appointed.

Internal Revenue Collector George W. Henson has appointed Joseph M. Kreider and George E. Brown storekeepers and gaugers, to succeed L. B. Hengel and P. Sweeney, of York county, who have been removed. The new men will assume their offices at once.

A Boy's Finger Mashed.

John Currie, an eleven-year-old son of George Currie, yesterday got his finger caught in the fair grounds. He was standing on the outside of the fence looking through a knot-hole and had his finger through a crack in the fence.

Some of the Pennsylvania Bearers, who went to Gettysburg yesterday, have already returned. Trains going east contain a great many soldiers, who are returning to their homes.

Keeping Store in York.

H. C. Harnish, of this city, has purchased the shoe store of S. F. Smith, York. He has taken possession of the business.

Our Horses Sick.

The horses of the West End railroad company are nearly all sick and it is impossible for them to make their regular trips.

No Ball Yesterday.

Owing to the very bad weather of yesterday no games were played by the American Association or League. The storm seems to have been general, and all the ball games were off.

A Meeting of the Democratic Soldiers and Sailors Veterans Association.

A meeting of the Democratic Soldiers and Sailors Veterans Association, will be held in the rooms of the Pennsylvania cooperative society tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

On Tuesday, September 11, next, good going on all trains, and good to see on any train during the day.

A special train will leave Manheim at 10:30 p. m. for Harrisburg, Lancaster, Columbia, Chickley, Reading and way stations. For full rates see circulars at all stations.

We have in stock type writing papers, all sizes and weights, and envelopes, and all kinds of lines. C. S. line parchment bond, etc. Prices lower than elsewhere.

"The Boys' Opticians."

M. Zineman & Bro., 130 South Ninth Street, Philadelphia, have christened themselves "The Boys' Opticians." Their motto is "We are the boys' opticians, and we are the boys' opticians."

His rapidity was astonishing, his accuracy marvellous. At the Lisbon palace he loaded a Winchester rifle and hit an eight-inch target thirty-five times in one minute.

On board the United States ship-of-war Lancaster, at Annapolis, in May, 1888, he loaded a Winchester rifle and hit an eight-inch target thirty-five times in one minute.

He defeated Herr Schulhoff, Vienna's prize, in September, 1888, winning the most noted pistol match on record. This contest created profound interest in military circles, from the republic of the competitor and the distances agreed upon—40, 120 and 200 yards. He defeated Herr Schulhoff, Vienna's prize, in September, 1888, winning the most noted pistol match on record.

On Monday, September 12, this established school will open its doors at 10 o'clock, at No. 34 North Duke street, first entrance, on the ground floor. The principal can be seen at his old location, No. 10, East King street, until then.

Cheap Excursion to Reading Fair.

On Wednesday, September 12, Train leaves Gettysburg at 8 a. m. for $1.25. Land at 7:30 a. m., fare $1.27. Columbia at 7:30 a. m., fare $1.30. Manheim at 8:22 a. m., fare $1.33. York at 9:15 a. m., fare $1.36. Philadelphia at 9:50 a. m., fare $1.39. Big attractions. New fall round-trip ticket in the state. New buildings, fine race track, grand stand, concerts by the Kingdome band.

Deaths.

At Atglen, Chester county, Pa., on the 10th inst., John K. Malone, in the 66th year of his age.

Funeral from his late residence, Friday, September 13th, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Grain and Provisions.

At York, Pa., on the 10th inst., John K. Malone, in the 66th year of his age.

Funeral from his late residence, Friday, September 13th, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Grain and Provisions.

At York, Pa., on the 10th inst., John K. Malone, in the 66th year of his age.

Funeral from his late residence, Friday, September 13th, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Grain and Provisions.

At York, Pa., on the 10th inst., John K. Malone, in the 66th year of his age.

Funeral from his late residence, Friday, September 13th, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Grain and Provisions.

Live Stock Markets.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 11.—Receipts, 15,375 shipments 5,771. Cows, calves, 4,404; 601 steers, 22,004; 133; stockers and feeders, 82,000; 15; pigs, 5,011 and mixed, 2,200; Texas cattle, 1,000; 100; hogs, 1,000; 100; sheep, 1,000; 100; mules, 1,000; 100; horses, 1,000; 100; ponies, 1,000; 100; colts, 1,000; 100; foals, 1,000; 100; yearlings, 1,000; 100; calves, 1,000; 100; pigs, 1,000; 100; sheep, 1,000; 100; mules, 1,000; 100; horses,