Three Thieves Secure Nearly $3,000
From Chicago Contractors.

Egglesion, Mallette & Brownell, contractors and manufacturers of crushed stone, occupy a handsome office in the Royal Insurance building, thicago. Saturday was pay day for their big force of men. In order that the pay roll might be got ready and the money put up in packages for distribution, Mr. Mallette drew a check for the entire amount, Thursday, and sent a clerk to the bank to have it cashed. He returned with $2,870 in currency, and, placing the amount on his desk, he sat down with the pay roll to count out and put in small envelopes the various sums due the men. The only persons in the office at the time were Mr. Eggleston and Mr. Mallette. Both were busy writing letters. Just as the clerk began counting the money, a well-dressed, good-looking young man came into the office and engaged in conversation with Mr. Eggleston. A minute later another young man came in through a different entrance and spoke to Mr. Mallette. At that instant the telephone bell rang.

The clerk, glancing up and seeing both through a different entrance and spoke to Mr. Mallette. At that instant the telephone bell rang.

The clerk, glancing up and seeing both members of the firm talking to strangers left his desk to answer the telephone, which is hung in an adjoining closet. The first stranger concluded his conversation with Mr. Eggleston, and passing by the clerk's deak went out through the entrance the other man came in at. Mr. Eggleston went on with his letter writing. Then Mr. Mallette's caller withdrew. Both members of the firm were scratching away with their pens when the clerk came out of the telephone closet and told Mr. Mallette that Marshall Field & Co, had a package for him at their retail store, on which they had advanced charges, and had called up to know where the package was to be delivered. Mr. Mallette said he did not understand what they meant, and went to the telephone bimself. There was no one at the other end of the wire, and the connection had been broken. The clerk returned to his desk. The money was gone. His face green rale, his knees shock and he to his desk. The money was gone. His face grew pale, his knees shook, and he could hardly control his voice long enough to ask Mr. Eggleston if he had taken the money. That gentleman replied that he had not. Mr. Mallette stepped from the telephone closet and also denied having taken the money. Then the clerk began to augh. He thought his employers were playing a joke on him because of his care-assness in leaving as less as the state of the care assness in leaving as less as the state of the caresness in leaving so large a sum of money posed. But the seriousness of the situa-n struck all three when they realized that they were victims of one of the most remarkable pieces of sneak-thieving on record.

"What did your man want?" asked Mr. Mallette, turning to his partner.
"He asked about the standing of some firm that I never heard of. And yours?"

contracts on the West Side."

"The man who rang the telephone was their confederate," chipped in the clerk. All three rushed to the door and down to the ground floor. There are two exits from the building, one on Jackson and the other on Quincy street. Dozens of busy men are constantly passing in and out, and it was not at all strange that no one could be found who had noticed the two thieves. Up and down the street ran the two contractors and their clerk, but the search availed nothing. their clerk, but the search availed nothing The thieves had escaped with the big bundle

There Are No Happy Days
For those who continue to rise unrefreshed after nights of unrest. Nervousness, insomnia, indigestion—these constitute a triple alliance that etually wars against man's comfort, and both brain and body of tranquility. Combut the trio for a time with Hostetter's Stomach litters, and it will give ground and eventually ly the field. The basis of reform is the rectification of digestion, for the brain and nerve cation of digestion, for the brain and nerve trouble is simply a reflex of the disturbance of that all important function. A wineglassful before each meal of the national stomachic insures facile digestion, and a repetition of the pleasant dose before retiring promotes nerve and muscle invigorating sleep. Associated with indigestion we usually find billiousness and constipation. But together or independent of each other, these maladies are subjugated by the Bitters, which also remedies kidney trouble, rheumatism, neuralgia and malaria.
