An Ericsson-Fulton Monument. From the New York Times.

Prom the New York Times. The body of Capt. Ericsson, the inventor of the Monitor, lies in the receiving vault of tho marble cemetery in Second street, New York, and there has been talk of removing it to Sweden. A party of gentlomen have applied for permission to place the body in the Living-tion Manor vault in old Trinity church-yard. This would bring it immediately ment to the grave of Robert Fulton, and

A Chroulcle of Ephrata. A very carious and valuable book has just been published by 8. H. Zahm & Co., and printed at the LyrauLiosxCars office. It is the Chronicon Ephrateuse ; a history of the community of Soventh Day Bap-tists at Ephraia. Lancaster county, and is translated from the original forman by J. Max Hark, D. D., pastor of the Moravian church of this city. This book was printed in 1780, but only twenty or pies are known to be in existence. In this translation a successful effort has been made to reproduce the quaint style of the of hook making and the printer's art. The book claims and will receive more ex-tended literary notice.

Essay on Doctors

Essay on Doctors. Among specimens of children's essays lately published, the London Hospital cites a very pathetic one on "The Doctor" by a small boy, who eventually died of brain fever. "The doctor has seen me three times for the purpose, cur I have headaches. My mother looks at me and cries when he's gone. I never tells mother I have headaches, except it hurts me very much. I love my mother. I wish my head was same as other boyses. Yesday I arski webster if he ever felt dizzy, and he said no. All boys I asks says no. What the doctor gives me makes me feel worser. But mother likes me to take it, so I don't mind. I wish I was a main, but I'd rather be a woman like mother. Doctors hav'nt need houses. There is bottles all round and no washin. Doctors hav in load voices like men you hears in the street, but their A BSOLUTELY PURE. like men you hears in the street, but their cyes are brighter. I am not so frightened of doctors as of perlice."

Want Better Railroad Accommodations. The indications are that the fair at York will be largely attended this week, and especially by people from Lancaster and Columbia. The crowd from this city would be much larger if there were anything like decent railroad accommodations. The last regular afternoon trains leave York just at the time people would like to remain to see the races and those who wait to see t its popular sport are compelled to remain over night. This will have a bad effect and it will keep hundreds of people from the fair. will be largely attended this week, and

Very Pretty Dining Rooms.

The oyster season opened at the Corner hotel of Charlie Hoster to-day. When Mr. Hoster ntted up his barroom in such elegant style re-cently he also made up his mind to open a first-class restaurant for the sale of oysters. It the rear of the bar-room he has fitted up a kitchen with stove and other fixtures, togethe with a neat little oyster bar. The dining-room with a neat little cyster bar. The dining-rooms are in the second floor, and they have been richly fitted up. The walls are covered with beautiful and very tastoful paper, which is only rivaled by that down stairs. At each window are heavy rich curtains and on the floors are costly rugs. The tables and linens are a picture of motions and by the line a cosy place for one. of neatness, and it will be a cosy place for per-sons who desire entables. The oyster depart-ment is in charge of John Huffnagle and Peter Musketnuss, two experienced oystermen, who know how to do everything in that line. The best of oysters will be kept on hand.

Prof. J. D. Holdt, of Philadelphia, will return with all the latest dances, and will give a free exhibition to all his scholars at the Eshleman academy.

Its Twenty-Second Anniversary. he celebration of the 22d anniversary of The celebration of the 20 and Evangelical the Sunday school of Christ Evangelical Lutheran church brought out quite a large congregation last evening. The first part of the programme consisted of devotional service, singing by the school and the read-ing of the usual reports. The second part was devoted to a praise service, in which the whole school joined, each class repeat-ing some selection from the pssiins. The third part was a new feature. The superintendent had during the spring fiven a number of envelopes to the child-ren containing grains of corn, asking them to plant them and bring the result in money in the fall. This was done, and the discussion of this fact, "the return of the corn money," formed the interesting item of this part of the programme. The money will be returned to the children who brought it, with the understanding that they invest it suitably and at the next an-niversary bring the result of their law ful enterprise. Lutheran church brought out quite a large enterprise. The average attendance of teachers and scholars during the year just past is re-markably high. The highest attendance for any one Sunday was 256; the lowest 146. The class receipts amounted to nearly 2000

Addresses were delivered by Dr. R. K. Buchrie, the superintendent, and the pas-tor, Rev. E. L. Reed. The school starts fully upon another year.
