Connectiont to Vote Next Monday,

Connecticut to Vote Next Monday. As the 7th of October approaches, the day designated for the vote on the prohibition constitutional amendment in Connecticut, there is a notable increase of interest mani-fested among all classes in that state con-cerning this vexed issue. It will be the one great tople of discussion, in the press and on the forum, with the people of every city, town, and hamlet in the state from this date until the day of election. W. P. Tomilinson, of New Haven, who has visited the principal towns of the state and talked with leaders on both sides, says the defeat of the amendment is a foregone conclusion, predicting that it will be defeated by not less than 20,000 to 25,000 majority. The homescatic press as also the influ-defeated by not less than 20,000 to 25,000 majority. The Democratic press, as also the influ-ential politicians in the party, are a unit in opposition to the measure. Rev. Dr. Har-vood, rector of Trinity church, New Haven, says: "I think the doctrine of prohibition is at war with all the ideas and teachings of the English speaking race. We never can tolerate the idea that because one man does not want to use a certain thing, no one else is to be allowed to use it—pro-vided, of course, that it is not wrong in itself. The conscience of the world goes against this new doctrine."

"How can school boards protect theselves against teachers who accept and rosign school at random?" was the subject of a paper by H. H. Myers, of Mt. Joy town-ship. He favored a uniform scale of sala-ries by all the districts, but would hold the teachers to a full performance of their con-tract; school boards are held to their con-tract; school boards are held to their con-tract; and teachers should be. He proposed the following plan to avoid the trouble named in the subject. He would require all teachers to have their certificates illed with the secretary of the school board to be kept by that officer during the term for which the teacher was elected because he could not present his certificate to any other board. Mississippi River Steamer Explodes

A Minsissippi River Steamer Explodes on Thursday. Between fifty and sixty lives were lost on Thursday morning by the explosion of the bollers of the river steamboat Co-roma, of the Ouachits line, which runs be-tween New Orleans and Canden, Arkan-mas. The steamboat left her wharves at New Orleans on Wednesday ovening on her first trip for the senson. The vessel was taken out of the dry dock last week having undergone extensive repairs, over ten thousand dollars having been spent on her. She had a cargo of twenty-five hun-dred bales of cotton. There were between eighty and one hundred persons on board, the crew consisting of about forty men. The accident took place at Fause river, a bayon simost opposite Port Henderson. Both bollers, which were comparatively new, exploded just a few minutes before noon, completely destroying the entire steamer. Passengers and crew were thrown in all directions, and many of the bolles which were reaver and the thrown in all directions, and many of the bodies which were recovered were torn to pieces and so bruised that they cannot be recognized. Of the four or five score of passengers none escaped entiroly, several of the living being badly and perhaps fatally wounded by being struck with flying debris. The explosion was heard miles away. Many lives were saved by the crew of the Anchor Line steamer City of St. Louis, commanded by Captain O'Neil, which was about three-fourths of a mile away when the accident happened. All of the survivors were taken on board the City of St. Louis, and the wounded were treated.

The hotel became full of smoke and the boarders were awakened. Many of them thought the botel projer was on fire. There are a number of brave old firemen among the boarders at the house and when they saw their rooms filling with smoke they rushed down stairs to lend their aid. George W. Huffnagle, Jas. Carberry and Fremont Steinhauser, who were at the railroad stailon, ran to the bar-ber shop when they saw the amoke, and burst open the door leading to North Queen street, and soon applied water to the flames, which were found to be in a room used for storing purposes, immediately in the rear of the barber aboy. They fought the flames, in response to the call from box 25, at Market and Chestnut streets, their services were scarcely needed, sithough they did put a stream on. The foom in which the fire occurred is imme-diately under the barroom of the hotel, and quite a large sized hole was number do the bar-room floor. In the floor of the room another good sized hole was made, and a barrel, a slove and some other things were settially consumed. The smoke from the barrel, a slove and some other things were strilly consumed. The smoke from the harrel is usposed to have originated from hot ashes. About half-past eight of clock last erening. Mr. Boehringer cleaned the store and took the ashes into the back room. He did not think they were very hot, as he picked out a number of good coals and threw the remainder into a barrel. Mr. Myers moved the adoption of the sard system. The motion was defeated by a decided majority. Jacob M. Frantz referred to numerous cases that came under his notice of viola-tions of their contracts as teachers. He thought this county could protect itself against these violations if it chose to. Dr. Harner, of Earl, did not think teachers should be blamed for accepting higher salaries. He favored putting teachers on their honor in this matter, and made a motion to that effect. Mr. Wright, of Little Britain, did not think any of the methods offered would cure the evil complained of. Dr. Mowery, of Marietta, suggested that boards of directors communicate with the county superintendent as to teachers seek-ing employment.

H.G.Rush said a mistake would be made in passing any resolution that would not command respect. The matter was further discussed by members of the institute, who took the position that if resignations are made in good faith, because teachers can better themselves, they should be accepted. Dr. Harner's motion was defeated. Mr. Tshudy said the institute should put itself on record as condemning the practice of teachers accepting situations and then resigning. In his district no contracts were made with teachers. He offered the fol-lowing :

lowing : Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the practice of teachers re-signing their positions without the consent of their directors is dishonorable and that no other board in the county should em-

Sensational Execution at St. Pierre and the Fury of the Spectators. The last mail advices from the lake of St. Pierre, Miquelon, give details of a great pause. Jacques Noel was lately sontenced to death for murder, and by law being shooting, hanging or the guillotine, he chose the latter, presumably because he was aware of there being no such appa-ratus on the island. The judges took him at his word, regardless of expense, im-ported from France, for temporary use, obta a guillotine and an executioner. The latter, besides his expenses, was to receive 20 for his trouble. The execution oc-curred last week. The entire population of the island turned was promptly on hand.
