COMPORT FOR BRIDES.

From the New York Tribune,

"Biz butter-knives! four said-epoons!
nine crust stands! three pairs of sugartongs! and eight water pitchers! Was ever a girl so unfortunate!" exclaimed a perplexed country bride the other day, as she corted out her wedding gifts on returning from her brids! tour, "Why could they not have consulted together a little and have avoided all these duplicates?"

sould they not have consulted together a little and have avoided all these duplicates?"

Now if this young bride had been a city piri ahe would not have mourned so much over the ordinary incident. She would simply have written a short note to one of two or three well-known dealers in the city and on the following day a neat cash would stop at her door and a well-dressed woman would call on her. Before the caller departed she would have fixed with the bride upon a cash price for all her duplicate gifts, or would have agreed to exchange them for more useful articles of household furniture.

So common has this way of doing things become that many people now send with their gifts a note saying that if they are duplicates they may be so dealt with. Yet most people would prefer to give something that should be unique among the bride's collection, and it is annoying, after having chased the town over for something pretty that does not cost too much, to get a note from the happy couple thanking you, and adding that your album or sola-cushion was by far the protilest of the four received. How much better to follow the fashion set by the Kansas farmer who sent to the weedding of his son a shorthorn helfer for the bride and a keg of whisky for the guests. No fear of duplication about his gifts.

Another advantage which city folk may derive from this kind of dealer in the ability to go into his shop and order a big array of gilitering things to be sent up to the bouse and there displayed as genuine weedding gifts from distant relatives. After the cersmony they can be returned at a trifling cost for rental and the reputation of the bride's friends for generosity is saved, at least as far as outsiders are concerned. What the bridegroom who is greedy enough to make a mental note of the amount those gifts would bring from his "uncle" may say or do when he discovers the little fraud is left to take care of itself till the time comes. There is no use borrowing trouble.

Unjust Taxation.

It is unjust to tax the stomach with burthens that it cannot bear. Many silly people thus tyrannise that faithful servitor until it rebels and punishes them as they deserve. Dyspepsia is usually the child of gastronomic folly, but have this or the natural associate of inherent nether this or the natural associate of luberent bleness from childhood, it is surely and sesantly remediable with Hostetter's Stomach itters, the finest and most highly sanctioned astric tonic in existence. As a result of the one imparted to the stomach, and the increased sone imparted to the stomach, and the increased activity of its digestive and assimilative action, insured by the persistent use of this benign in-vigorant, general stamina is augmented, the nerves strengthened and tranquilized, and a tendency to insomnia and hypochondriasis de-feated. Billousness, chills and fever, rheuma-tism and kidney troubles are conquered by this admirable medicine.

Not only in the spring time, but all the year round people will need a reliable cathartic. We would recommend Laxador. Price 25 cents.

The real need of a sick baby is not so much medicine as it is something to "assist nature." Many things are recommended, but the best known remedy for the aliments of young children is Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

A new idea embraced in Ely's Cream Balm. Catarrh is cu. ed by cleansing and healing, not by drying up. It is not a liquid or snuff, but is easily applied into the nostrils. Its effect is magical and a thorough treatment will cure the worst cases. Price 50c. 08-2wd&w

This Remedy is the prescription of one of the leading physicians of Paris, France, shd was used by him with unparalleled success for over thirty years, it was first given to the public as a proprietary medicine in 1578. Since which time it has found its way into almost every county on the face of the globe, and become a favorite remedy with thousands of the leading physicians. Medical societies have discussed its marvelous success at their annual conventions, and after their official chemists have analyzed it and found that it contained no opinion, bromides or other harmful ingredients,
