Her name is Elizabeth -Victoria Brubaker, and she is a pretty young woman if she is foolish enough to try to take her life. She comes from the lower part of the county, but has been living in this city for some years. She had been acting strangely of late and was in the habit of paying almost daily visits to the Lancaster cemetery. In that burying ground lie the remains of a nephew, who died two years ago, agod ten years. To him the young lady was very much attached and she seemed to grieve greatly over him. Often she would go to the grave, which is located in the northeastern part of the cemetery, and cry so loudly that the family of Sexton Samuel Pool, would hear her at his house. On Friday afternoon Under-taker William Gable, of South Queen street, was surprised to receive a notice from her, but was astounded when he read the contents. It stated that she was going to commit sulcide, and he would find her body on the Brubaker lot, in the Lan-caster cemetery, about 4 o'clock. She wanted him to have the body interred and inform her brobher in New York of her act. When Gable received this he quickly drove to the cometery. He summoned the sexton and his son Edward, and asked then where the lot was. They did not know exactly, but a search was begun. At last the woman was found lying across two graves on the lot of a family named Flower. She was not unconscious and the men quickly aroused her. She was deathly pale and complained of feeling very sizk. She was walked up and down the driveway for some time and was finally taken to the Lancaster County house. Dr. George R. Welchans was sent for and the attended her in a moment. He gave her an emetic and she vomited a large quantity of laudanum. To-day she is all right again. After she was out of danger the young woman said that she purchased a bottle of laudanum at Locher's drug store, and drank it with the inten-tion of taking her life. The bottle which contained the laudanum was found, and it is supposed that after she drank its Friday afternoon. Her name is Elizabeth Victoria Brubaker, and she is a pretty

JACOB HEIGLER'S BIG ESTATE. THE PROCEEDINGS IN THE CRONIN MURDER

Lancaster Countians Heirs to Nearly a Million Dollars-Hoovers of this City Are Relatives. A Washington dispatch, dated October II, to the Philadelphia Press, says: Mr. John H. Wilmot, a claim agent of this city, has within the past three days come into possession of information which is of great interest to a number of Pennsyl-vanians residing in Lancaster county. The interest lies in the fact that a sum of money estimated at $900,000 is at stake, and that less than twenty persons, the majority of <text><text> CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The local papers in-dulge in much speculation in the latest mystery in the Cronin case, but the au-thorities seem to have succeeded in keeping to themselves the reason for the unex-pected adjournment of court yesterday, and all the night session in the state's at-torney's private office, where a dozen per-sons brought in by officers were examined. One paper prints a sensational story One paper prints a sensational story about a stenographer formerly employed by the state's attorney. It is asserted that at the beginning of the Cronin investigation this man was relieved from duty because he was related to and affiliated with certain people said to belong to the anti-Cronin party. The stenographer has since, it is claimed, been leading a reckless life, and now is suddenly discovered to have disappeared from the city. At the same time the state's at-torney discovered that a large portion of evidence and all depositions in the Cronin case had been adstracted from his office, hence the unusual excitement yesterday. It is assorted that last night's conference and examination of mysterious witnesses was for the purpose of rotaking depositions. The story is not corroborated, however, except as to the particular that the stenographer is missing. The Tribune says: A startling rumor

ing that the entire official record of the Cronin case had been stolen. The record includes a copy of the proceedings before the coroner's jury, the sworn affidavits of witnesses before the grand jury, the portions of hair, blood clots, cotton batting and other tangible evidences of the crime found in the catch basin, the Carlson cottage and the bloody trunk. An amploy of the state's attorney's trunk. An employe of the state's attorney's office, who had full access to all valuable pieces of evidence, is now missing and may be in Canada. It is explained that those two balliffs were supplied with money by the late anti-Cronin fac-tion and that they gave this money to certain jurors and instructed them just how they could answer questions put to them and secure seats in the jury box. This came to the ears of Judge Longen ecker. He saw at once that unless the jury - bribing was stopped immediately the whole case would fall through was paid to the matter by either Mr. Wil-mot or his wife until letters from various southeastern Pennsylvania relatives de-cided them upon looking into the subject. The result is most interesting. The nearest living kinspeople of Jacob Heigler, the dead California bachelor, are Levi Heidler, of Columbia: Mrs. Nancy Johnson, of Marietta, and William Heidler, of Centralia, III. All of these people are well advanced in years. Mrs. Johnson is perhaps the only living relative who has any distinct recollection of old Jacob Heigler's visit to his former home in 1869. The other kinspeople, less than twenty in number, all reside in Lancaster county, with the exception of Mrs. Wilmot, of this city. Monog the heirs, if the chain of ovidences and relationship is sustained, are H. H. Heise, B. F. Mr. Wilmot is giving the matter his in dividual attention, and with great hopes o success. The theory that he advances re-garding old Jacob Heigler's wealth is that when he first emigrated to California he took up what was then known as Spanish claim in the southern part of the state. The subsequent discovery of gold and the rapid increase in population and prosperity of the state made his original investment of great value, and this was the source of his wealth.

JOHN W. MENTZER'S SPEECH.

He Said That He Came From a Very 1g norant Part of the County.

The politicians who heard the speech of "Prosonatory" John W. Mentzer at the meeting in the Young Republican club room on Saturday, when Chairman Andrews and Candidate Boyer were here, are talking about it yet. John wanted to tell the assemblage what the best methods of getting out the vote were. He said that in the part of the county, (the norse, where he came from, the people are very ignorant, and do not read the papers, or anything else. What they wanted was inducement, and John laid great stress upon that word. He said if some one would just go and whisper in their ears, the vote would be as large as in the intelligent districts. After getting this off John said, "Well, gentle-men, I don't want to say too much." A man in the rear of the room, who may have been from the ignorant district, said, "John, you have said too much aiready," and then John sat on his high hat. A Family Rossted Alive. At Davis Switch, a small village thirteen miles from Bradford, Pa., the dwelling of Patrick Dally was burned, and his wife and three sons, sged 13, 11 and 9 respect-view, were roasted. At 6 o'clock Thursday night, while the Daily family were at sup-per, the father went to the stove to partly urn off the natural gas. He unintentionally shut the throttle tight and on reversing it again the house was filled with gas and an explosion followed and in an instant the entire house was in flames. The three boys and the mother fell prostrate on the foor, overcome by the heat and flames. Mr. Daily rushed out of the house to call for assistance, but all efforts to save the unfortunate inmates were futile. The house was entirely consumed in a few minutes. The charred and blackened bodies presented a most sickening sight. Mr. Daily is severely but not fatally burned about the head and face, and is almost crared with grief.

MATOR GRANT ACTS PROMPTLY.

He Orders the Immediate Removal of Wires Not Insulated.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 .- Mayor Grant this morning hastily called a meeting of the board of electrical control, and soon as it assembled a resolution was adopted ordering the immediate removal of all electric light wires that were not properly insulated. Before this work could be begun, a temporary injunction was served on the mayor, restraining him from interforing with the wires of either the United States Illuminating company or the Brush Electric Light company. Under this order the work of removing the wires will be delayed until Monday.

An interview with Edison is printed this afternoon in which he says that no insulation will make an electric light wire safe and subways and insulation will alike prove ineffective, and that the only way to prevent loss of life is to regulate the pressure, the same as the pressure of steam bollers is regulated.

HIRAM K. MILLER EXONFRATED. A vordict of not guilty was taken in the case of Hiram K. Miller, larceny as bailet. The prosecution was entertained through a misrepresentation of facts on the part of the complainant. Mr. Miller had some securities in his possession, which he was obliged to hold until an administrator was appointed, and because he would not sur-render them to the claimant of them this suit was brought. As soon as the proper party made demand the securities were given to him. Counsel for the common-wealth asked that the above disposition be made of the case.

wealth asked that the above disposition be made of the case. Friday Evening.-All of the evening ses-sion of court was taken up in the argument by counsel of the Barr and Weimer election cases and the charge of the court. Saturday Morning.-Court [mot at 9 o'elock and the jury in the Barr and Weimer case rendered a verdict of not guilty with county for costs. The jury in the Showalter rape case, who retired to deliberate on Friday at noon, agreed upon a verdict at 9 o'clock this morning. They found Showalter guilty in manner and form as indicted and recom-mended him to the mercy of the court. This case has attracted great attention in this community, where the parties are well known. During the trial the court room was crowded.

A motion was made in arrest of judg-ment. Reasons for a new trial will be filed.

filed. A verdict of not guilty was taken in the case of commonwealth vs. J. W. Johnson, ex-city solicitor, charged with embezzle-ment. Counsel for the commonwealth stated that the city has allowed Mr. John-son's claim for extra services, which practically took from the case the embez-zlement charge.

Similar disposition were made of the cases against Cyrus M. Nissley, rape, and Fanny Plothnick, peddling without license, the district attorney stating that the cases could not be made out.

could not be made out. SURETY AND DESERTION CASES. Charles Shillow, a Columbia grocer, was heard on a charge of surety of the peace preferred by John Hill, a colored man from Tow Hill. The prosecutor testified that he was passing Shillow's house on July 9, with his dog, and Shillow thr stened to shoot him and the dog. He was corrobor-ated in his testimony by several Tow Hill denizens. denizens.

The defendant's statement was that the dog of Hill was a nuisance, and to get rid of him on this day he threw a small stone at the dog, which greatly angered Hill, who swore he would kill him, and he then did say that if Hill attempted to do so he would shoot him and the dog. The pistol he had was an old rusty weapon without a chamber. chamber.

The court directed Shillow to enter into his own recognizance to keep the peace and
