Attempt to Steal Montana. It has now developed that the man who made the affidavit upon which the board of canvassers of Silver Bow county, Montana, threw out the returns of the Homestake threw out the returns of the Homestake Tunnel precinct is a convicted murderer. His name is Henry Bernard. In 1884 Bernard published a paper at Murray, I. T. In his employ was a printer, an inoffensive man, named Jack Euright. One day Enright asked Bernard for what money was due him, and without any provocation Bernard shot and killed him. So strong was the feeling against the marderer that an attempt was made to lynch him, and only the prompt action of the officer who arrested him saved his life. The officer took Bernard to the mountains and for several days kept him hid in the brush. Bernard was tried and sentenced brush. Bernard was tried and sentenced to the penlientiary for eight years, and part of this sentence was served. Owing io his usefulness politically the influential men of his party interceded in his behalf and secured his pardon.

The greatest excitement prevails and the Democrats do not propose to allow their opponents to bluff them out of the election. Leading lawyers express the opinion that the courts will never sustain the canvassing board in their illegal action. In the meuntime the county clerk has refused to base certificates of election to those declared elected by the canvassing board.
