LANCASTER, PA., October 16, 1889.

The Pending Election.

The quietude of the pending election canvass in this state is very great; and even more so than is usually the case in an off political year. The voters are permitted to make up their minds as to whom they will vote for without attempt to influence them by fiery oratory or the noise of brass, and doubtless the great mass will not trouble themselves to consider how they shall vote but will follow along in the party path that they are accustomed to tread. But there will be many who will vote without thinking and from that portion of the vote we may fairly expect that the Democratic support will be increased.

For there are very good reasons why thinking voters should incline to vote the Democratic ticket though their party affiliations have been Republican; and there is now so little warms of political feeling that it is a time when men may be expected to shake loose from party associations under the inducement of the reasons. The honest Republican must confess that the administration of the affairs of the state would be bettered by shaking out those who have hived so long in its offices as to their own responsibility, and to feel free from their accountability to the public. It is a bad thing for a state to stay under the dominion of a party so long as Pennsylvania has been Republican; and it has been a bad thing for the Republican party so far as the interest of the members at large is concerned, who have been simply lookers-on at the feat that they have aided their political bosses to spread for their own delight and profit. The Republicans who have profited by the Republican control of Pennsylvania have been few. The masses of the party have only had the joy of knowing that the state administration was labeled Republican; against which delight they have had the pain of realizing their responsibility for its transgressions. We assume that we may confidently say that in the impartial judgment of sensible men the administration of Pennsylvania affairs has not generally reflected credit upon the responsible Republican party.

This affords abundant reason for a change; and it is because the intelligent judgment of the state may come in play in this election, which is not attended by party heat, that we hopefully look for a change. We hope to see the Republicans who are disgusted with their control by a man of Quay's stamp and by their representation in the Senate of the United States by men of the character and stature of Quay and Cameron; who are tired of seeing such weak tools placed in the chief magistracy of the state as Governor Beaver has so clearly shown himself to be; who would like to have from the Legislature some sign of its being their Legislature and not the facile instrument of the bosses and paymasters; who want to see Pennsylvania rise to its full stature among the states and show herself foremost instead of rearmost in the art of good government; who wish to see her as much respected for her political wisdom and virtue as she is envied for her great natural resources and wealth.

There is no hope, under the present Republican rule, that Pennsylvania will ever command the respect of the world for anything save the things the Almighty has put so richly and abundantly in her soil. In mineral and agricultural wealth she stands first among the states; but she has had little help from her government in the development of these means of her aggrandizement. The richness of her petroleum fields has mainly fallen into foreign hands and places; and her railroads have found no obligation upon them to carry the coal and iron of her soil as cheaply to Pennsylvania towns as to outside cities. The industries which would naturally have gathered around her great deposits of mineral wealth have not been invited to sit down there and are not found there. Who can say that the state administration is not responsible for the fact that Pennsylvania petroleum is not refined in Pennsylvania? And who can deny its responsibility for the fact that her coal is carried cheaply to Boston than to Philadelphia, for the part of the carriage that is in the state; and that the products of the West are borne to Philadelphia at a lower price than those of Lancaster county?

Any one who can say that gross injury has not been done to the interests of Pennsylvanians by this permission that has been given to monopoly to strangle its industries, knows not whereof he speaks. We believe that the truth of this destruction of state interests by an unfaithful and imbecile state government, has impressed itself upon the voters, and that they will free in this period of little political excitement, and when only state issues are at stake, to speak at the ballot box as the coming election and say that they are no longer content to endure their representation by Quay, who is without an instinct of patriotism, or knowledge of a useful art, or conception of genteel conduct; that they want a fitter senator than Donald Cameron, who inherited the place and who has not the needed talent for it, though he has not disgraced it and is an incomparably better man in his instincts than his associate; that they are sick of Beavers sitting in high places; that they are tired of waiting upon the Legislature to pass the law yet lacking to enforce the constitution and bring the railroad trustees of the state in subjection to the people. We expect to see many of them in such revolt. To them we offer a good candidate and a good declaration of principles. They will wisely think that it is time that they gave us a trial.

The Peril of Big Crops. A correspondent of the Cultivator and Country Gentleman asks in alarm whether we are drifting and points to the rapid increase in the production of staple crops and the encouragement to further increase that is being given by the opening of new lands to settlement. The settling of Oklahoma and the Sioux ervation must further swell the products of the soil, and it is proposed to spend a few millions in irrigating the arid lands. In order that a still larger quantity of the staple products of the soil may be thrown on an already depressed market. At the same time the paternal hand of the government is stretched out to the laboring millions of the Old World to get them here to grow a few million bushels more wheat, oats and corn. The prospect is not at all pleasing to this writer and he would have agricultural interests protected and thinks that the idea of protection and free trade has been studied from a point too remote. We are in great danger of producing too much. Within a couple of years from the time the government puts a few million acres of land on the market, which is settled up with a whoop and a hurrah, you can very confidently look to see the price of wheat, oats and corn lowered a few cents on the bushel.

And then this frightened farmer arrives at this weak conclusion. "Let the government get rid of its surplus in works of public improvement requiring the greatest number of men rather than in buying lands of the Indians." That is all he can suggest by way of cure for a state of things so terrible that in his eyes the bounties lavished upon this country by nature have become curses. He timidly suggests that the surplus should not be used in buying splendid lands from the Indians at absurd prices because, perchance, white men might make better use of it, and food would be cheaper. The facts presented are impressive, but they should stimulate a much clearer line of thought. The man who thinks we are producing too much should note the volume of our grain exports and consider that they must be largely paid for in other materials. We can produce far more of agricultural products than we can consume, but Europe will not take much of our grain if we refuse to take the products she can give us in exchange for it, by imposing excessive tariff duties upon them.

At last the New York world's fair committee has resolved to ask for a subscription to a five million dollar guarantee fund. Chicago has a round seven million pledged, and if New Yorkers don't contribute their five in as many days there will be a smile on the Western side of the controversy.

ELECTRICIAN DOORS, of Chicago, thus describes a system of burying the wires which is now under experiment in that city: "Large cylindrical blocks of terra cotta are bored with numerous small holes, which are about 2 1/2 inches in diameter, and covered with a vitrified glazing on the inside. It is intended that these blocks shall be laid end to end underground in insulated trenches, but of heavy planking, covered with coats of tar and vitrified glazing on the inner side.

The cylindrical blocks when placed in this manner form a series of terra cotta pipes in a single line of blocks. These are laid in sections, and at convenient distances are made lined with brick, making an underground chamber, and giving room for laying new wires and making all repairs without disturbing the block or tearing up the street. The various wires may be completely separated, while a small block will carry a thousand wires without any trouble. Gases cannot form in these trenches and cause dangerous explosions, as they are ventilated by draught tubes. By limiting the currents and this careful insulation, they will soon find a way to put the wires under in New York, and bye and bye even Lancaster may be relieved of the ugly poles.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has given a perfect definition of a patriot. He said of the late "Sunset" that "His soul was born of public spirit and the motive of his labor was the public good."

The Prohibitionists are said to have listened to ringing speeches on Thursday in Philadelphia. Empty glasses may ring glass, but a remark that has the dull heavy sound of a tumbler full of muddy Congestoga water. He said that no problem could be solved until the prohibition problem was solved. Criticism is unnecessary, but it may be remarked that the Prohibition party resembles the fly on the coach wheel who imagined that he was turning it, and who, in the end, was crushed by the operations of the universe suspended.

It turns out that the property of the great sugar trust is only worth about sixteen millions, although the trust is capitalized at fifty millions, and the consumers of sugar have been deceived by the trust for interest on that capital.

If the Republicans really try to steal Montana, a plain and well authenticated history of the attempt will make the best possible Democratic campaign document. If President Harrison dares to remove Democratic judges in Montana, in this emergency, he will be committing political suicide. The American people may at times be blinded by party feeling, but just now men of all parties are watching the new states closely, and want to see fair play.

Fined For Miscellaneous Obscenity. Blanche Nelson, a handsome, gorgeously dressed young woman, was brought before Justice Elliott in Chicago, on Thursday, for "indecent exposure." Her dress was "disorderly conduct." "What's the case against this girl?" asked the court. "Kissing," was the answer. "I don't know that that is any crime and the court reflectively. "Tell me the story."

It appeared from evidence that on Wednesday afternoon, while under the influence of wine, she created a scene at the corner of Halsted and Madison streets by kissing all the good looking young fellows who came along. The girl was seized by a policeman, and the next moment she was in the hands of the law. She was fined $100 and costs.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS. In an address before the Boys and Girls' National association, in Washington, Mr. Alexander Hodge, president of the association, made the startling statement that there were 90,000 boys tramps in the United States. Henry P. Hartman, one of the oldest printers in Reading, died suddenly there on Thursday, aged 71 years. Thirty-five years ago he was editor and proprietor of the True Democrat, a weekly published in Lebanon, and since his retirement twenty-five years ago he has been working at a printing office when in his sixties he was printing a weekly paper. A few days ago Mrs. John Platt, wife of Alderman Platt, of New Castle, Pa., while taking a stroll, received a scratch from one of its spurs. A few days later she and a child she was nursing developed symptoms of blood poisoning. The child died on Thursday and Mrs. Platt cannot recover. Emmet V. Rhodes, cashier of the First National bank of St. Paris, Ohio, on Thursday fled guilty to the charge of misappropriating the bank's funds. It is shown that there was no ultimate intention of defrauding the bank, and the money was used in a business enterprise to advance the interest of his community. The maximum sentence—five years in the penitentiary—was imposed. A threshing machine boiler exploded on the farm of W. Hanson, near St. Mary's, Ohio, Thursday, killing Jerry Rigger, a tall, muscular man, and severely wounding Jacob Schmitt and another man whose name was not learned. The explosion occurred two years ago, accompanied by two pieces, landed in the blooming department of a steel mill in Scranton on Wednesday night. As they stood in front of the large engine which was rolling, several carriages with hot ingots approached. Davis and the ladies stepped back out of the way, but Davis went a little far, he struck by the massive fly wheel, hurled to the top, and then fell into the pit where the ponderous wheel crushed his body.

Thousands of people are building up a fine business by pulling down their health. For such as pursue the course of nervousness and induce thereby liver disease and dyspepsia. Laxative is actually a blessing. Price only 25 cents per bottle. "If your baby is suffering with those troubles that nearly always attend teething, give it, but use at once, Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. Price 25 cents."

A Bloody Affray is the result of a "bad" in a family or community, but nowhere is bad more strongly evidenced than in the human system. When the life current is foul and sluggish, and the system is slow in discharging its poisons to every part of the body, the result is a general debility, and the system is unable to resist the attacks of disease. Early symptoms are dull and drowsy feeling, severe headache, coated tongue, poor appetite, indigestion and general debility. The treatment may entail the most serious consequences. Don't let disease get a strong hold on your constitution. Try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and be cured. It is guaranteed to cure in all cases of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be refunded.

What's he besides you chance to want. Not far short of 800,000,000. But keep always in your sight, a source of beauty and delight. To cleanse your teeth with your smile. The most fastidious you beguile.

With Ely's Cream Balm a child can be treated without pain or dread, and with perfect safety. Try the remedy. It cures catarrh, hay fever and colds in the head. It is easily applied into the nostrils and gives relief with first application. Price 25c. 41-52-64

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

SCROFULA HUMOR. "My Daughter's Life Was Saved." In regard to my little daughter, whose life has been saved, I would say that before she was six months old scrofula sores began to appear on different parts of her body, and in a short time she had seven or eight. My wife and I were called but they gave us no hope. One of them advised the amputation of one of her fingers, to which we refused assent. Our attention was called to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we began giving it to her. A marked improvement was noticed after she had taken only one bottle, and by a continued use of it her recovery was complete. At the present time, being seven years old, strong and healthy. The other members of my family have been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I recommend it as an excellent blood purifier. H. C. Jones, Anna Lincoln Co., Me.

SCROFULA IN THE EYES. "My daughter suffered terribly with sore eyes, caused by scrofula humor. We were obliged to keep her out of school for two years. We had medical attendance, but she failed to gain relief. Knowing that Hood's Sarsaparilla had cured my mother of scrofula, and believing it must be good for the blood, I concluded to have my daughter try it, and it has entirely cured her. CONNELL'S YEAGRE, Marshfield, Iowa."

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA sold by all druggists. $1.50 for 30. Prepared only by C. L. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass. 100 DROPS ONE DOLLAR. (4)

Year by year our getting of Linens has grown bigger and bigger. The doings of one season are never high enough mark for the next season. More and more things made just as we would have them, getting closer and closer to the producers all the time. There isn't a prominent maker of Linens anywhere whose goods are not represented in our stock if they are such as we can guarantee. We take the entire output of some big manufacturers. That's why we can make prices so interesting for you. All the between costs are saved. We can give you Table Linens from 28 to 90 inches wide; Tablecloths up to 3 yards wide—some 8 yards long. Fringed Cloths from 1 yard square to 2 x 4 yards. This will give you a price notion: One Fringed Tablecloth 2 1/2 yards long, 12 Doilies to match, at $2.65 the set; same size, without fringe, $3.75 the set. Compare them with any $5 set in town.

We've said a word before of the German "Barnsey Damask," that wonderful Table Linen at $1 and $1.20. Soft and free from dressing, almost like satin brocade to look at. Plenty of it now. And that Napkin, 23 inches square, unfinished, only two sides to hem, at $1.10 a dozen. As well worth $1.50 as any Napkin we ever had. 100 feet of counter for only Towels and Towelings. You'd tire of it if we were to tell half the sorts. No need to, $1 a dozen to $4.50 each. Here's one at random: Momie or diaper centre, fancy broche border, knotted fringe, 37 1/2 c. A very much finer Towel, with exquisite tapestry borders in gobelin effects, $2.50, from $4; about half what it would cost you in Berlin.

Another long counter for just Bed Linen, the clean, crisp stuffs that thrifty housewives prize so highly. Here's French hand-woven Sheeting, old-fashioned漂白 at 65c a yard. Try a bit before you buy much, if you please; rub and scrub it, and then compare with any $1 Sheeting in the market. Pillow Linens are 40 to 54 inches wide. A dozen weights and qualities. Hemstitched Pillow and Bolster Cases and Sheets of course. Prices on some of them as if handwork cost nothing.

We hold up four Blankets. They stand for between thirty and forty sizes and grades—$1 to $30 the pair: 1—A big "luck-in" Blanket (60x90 inches), made especially for our trade, of fine California stock, except the few ounces lowest grades, and with close finish, weight nine pounds. A good $12.50 worth. We make it for $6.00. 2—A heavier Blanket, same size, Scotch wool stock, weight ten pounds—nine pounds fine wool of good service, and fourteen ounces of light cotton yarn. $9 a pair. 3—Seven pounds pure wool, 81.25x100 inches. $5 a pair. 4—Six pounds all-wool filling, fine cotton warp, 71x90 inches. $4 a pair. Half a dozen grades of Scarlet Blankets, all wool, $3 to $9 a pair, and maybe twenty sorts of Fancy Blankets for camping and what not, $1.50 to $4.50 each.

We pick one Down Quilt from a mountain of lightness and softness. Covered with French sateen, six feet square, filled with clean, white, fluffy down and warranted to hold it; eight dollars each. JOHN WANAMAKER.

HENRY WOLF, FURNITURE STORE, has removed to 136 East King street, having a full line of Furniture of every description at the lowest possible price. On the contrary, he is not a dealer in cheap goods, but a dealer in quality. Call and examine our goods. H. WOLF, 136 East King Street.
