ANDASTER, PA., November 15, 1889.

A Strange Explanation. very remarkable explanation is de of the cause of the trouble between the postmaster general and Senator Hampton, which effectually relieves the er of the senator's charge of falseood to him, but at the expense of the president and with an expo-ure of a disorderly method prevailing in the making of appointments to office which reflects the greatest discredit upon the administration. It is said that the president made the South olina appointment, of which Senator Hampton complains, without consulting the postmaster general or even advising him of what he had done. The strange tale is told that a son of the man whom the South Carolina Republicans wanted to fill the Columbia postoffice visited the president and secured that office for a friend and another postoffice for himself on the plea that he would thus be strengthened to build up a white man's Republican party in the South ; and the president is represented as having been so impressed by his representations that he gave him the offices he asked for out of hand, and without thinking it worth while to advise with the postmaster general; whereby that functionary was put in the attitude in which Senator Hampton pilloried him.

The president has given us, on divers us, reasons to believe that he was willing to act precipitately and without proper consultation with his cabinet officers; the Montana case being one notably in point; but still there is that in the latest tale of his going off at half-cock, which induces us question its entire accuracy. is so great ignorance of the political conditions in South Carolina implied in his thus making apintments which were not there asked for by the body of the Carolina Republicans, and so great forgetfulness of the proprieties in failing to advise with the postmaster general's office, where certainly all the papers necessary for the presidential information would be on file, that we do not find it to be a very creditable story, that the president made the appointments in the unceremonious and out-of-hand way attributed to him. He has moreover been away from the capitol on a ducking excursion ever since the postmaster general re-ceived Senstor Hampton's letter, and the explanation now made can hardly be with his authority.

Whatever the facts may be in the atter, the exposition brings discredit upon some part of the administration. It shows that it has a postmaster general who fails in veracity or in the proper control of his office; and violently suggests the need of a reform that will enable the postmaster general's statement to senators about the business of his office to be accepted as reliable.

re is evidently to be mu air when Congress meets and senators and representatives get within hailing distance of the administration. There has been so much friction and tumult between Republican representatives and Republican executive at the long range at which they have been apart during the recess of Congress as to warrant the belief that there will be heavy firing when they come close together.

Do Not Fear to Fire. The Republican side in this county that is hurt by Congressman Brosius ction of Griest for postmaster, though It has two organs, both daily, in our town, seems to be less fortunate when it gets down to the metropolis of the state; rhere it has to fall back upon the non-Republican Times instead of the orthodox Republican organs, the Press and the Inquirer, which do not seem dissed to sympathize with their hostility to Griest and the congressman. We suggest to them that they had betopen a vigorous campaign in the journals they control at home, which should suffice to acquaint the ident and the people with the objections they have to Griest as postnaster and with the iniquity of Brosius in demanding him.

There is no use in their being modest about it, or indulging in a restraint that they long to burst away from. Let them open out in solid volleys, and curl the air with the sulphurous smoke that lurks in the ammunition they have in their lockers. Let us have as lively an exposition of the demerits of Greist as they can make ; and rhaps their fire may reach as far as the White House. It will be a relief of their pent up feelings anyhow. We nce of the restraint under which they are putting themselves may result in a terrific exposition later on.

Our two contemporaries do not do justice to their feelings in the mild declaration of the New Era of the 13th copied by the Examiner of the 14th, with cordial agreement and weaker comment. It is gratifying to see the unity which prevails in these once rival organs of the dominent party; but they need to show that they represent the unity of the party, that Congressman Brosius is quite outside its sentiment and that his selected postmaster, is several degrees worse than any Democrat. To do this work satisfactorily evidently calls for vigorous words and strong decomposition. for vigorous words and strong demonstration. Language is called for, gentlemen, language !

Governor Beaver's Address.

In advising the broadening of the ndations of the schools and reducing of the cornices and cupola, our poetical covernor made the strong point of his address to the teachers. There are many branches taught that have no place in common school education and it would plainly be far better to introduce in place of them manual training, sewing and cooking.
Bome of them are shown to be eat of keeping with the system by their position at the top instead of at the bot-tom. If a scholar needs Latin at all needs it at the bottom of his ucation where the public schools anot give it to him. The famous coston Latin school is a recognition of this, but it does not seem to be a proper development of the commo school system. The greatest good to the greatest number must be the rule, and the aim should be to give a good practical education of the kind that will make the greatest number of intelligent and useful citizens. That we are far from doing this in Lancaster county was well illustrated last summer by the cutting satire of articles appearing in the New York Evening Post and reprinted in the INTELLIGENCER. "A Teacher's Experience" had many points worthy of the deep thought of the governor and he is himself so brilliant a wit and finds humor so easily,-as shown by the specimen jokes, of his address, that it is not necessary to warn him of the sareasm in the articles referred to.

In the month of October this nation sent to other lands nearly five million dollars' worth of coal oil, over ten million dollars' worth of beef, hog and dairy products, and cotton to the value of $45,348,540. In the first we about equalled the exports of October 1987; in the second we exceeded them by three and a-half millions. also exported cattle valued at over two and -half millions, but it is discouraging to note that the travelling days of the great American pig appear to be ended. We only exported in the month a trifling twenty-eight thousand dollars' worth of hogs. Our exports of hog products show increase in bacon and lard, nearly double the exports of a year ago.

THE time of a trip around the world is soon likely to be further shortened by the establishment of a Great Britain and Japan passenger line. Contracts have been placed in England by the Canadian Pacific railway for three first-class steamers to run from Vancouver to Japan, and three more are to be built for the Atlantic service. The latter are to be two thousand ton ships of a maximum speed of twenty knots an hour. "It is intended that the voyage to Halifax in the winter and to Quebec in the summer from the south of England shall be accomplished inside of five and a half days. Special facilities will be afforded through passengers by fast trains running direct to Vancouver, and it s expected that the passage from the south of England to Japan will not occupy more than twenty-three days." It is believed that the British government is pushing this enterprise in order to secure a better route to her eastern possessions. It is about four thousand five hundred miles shorter than the route to Japan by Suer, passes through English territory and open cean, and lies in a healthy climate. These advantages would be of great value in case of war in the east.

O'Donovan Rossa has again been permitted to break loose in the New York papers. The story is that Irishmen from all over the Eastern states, who believe in freeing Ireland by dynamite, have been holding secret meetings in New York, and have resolved to establish a new organization to resume the dynamite business, According to O'Dynamite Rossa resolutions were adopted which fill the first page of his weekly paper. These resolutions fairly drip with gore. One paragraph ends as follows: There are thousands of Irishmen in Ireland and England standing face to face with the foe with the element of destruction in their hands. There are thousands of other Irishmen, at home and abroad, whose blood would jump with joy at seeing the chance to repeat the heroic deeds of the men of Cierkenwell, Manchester, Phoenix Park, Manchester Tower and Scotland

THE president is killing ducks. His disposition to kill something can be readily understood by a glance at the recent election returns. In this sport he has the sweet companionship of Millionaire Knight, the Quaker sugar maker of the City of Brotherly Love. He is eating duck dinners and going to bed at half past nine We trust that this soothing treatment will soon restore his equanimity that he may resume the arduous labors of his high lice by filling fourth-class postoff

GRADUATES of the Philadelphia Normal chool will probably be the first women dmitted to the University of Pennsylvania, under the recent decision to establish co-education in that institution. The way of it is this. The city gave the University some lots adjoining the campus, and in exchange a large number of free scholarships in medical, dental and law depart ments were opened to high school graduates. The city had gained long before and in a similar way free scholarships in the under-graduate departments. these scholarships are now opened to girls as well as boys, and if they are offered to scholars having the highest average, it is believed that the Normal school girls will take most of them.

JOHN CRERAR'S MILLIONS. Magnificent Bequest for the Founding

The will of the late John Crerar was admitted to probate in Chicago, on Thursday in the county court, and in accordance with its terms, his friends, Colonel Huntington W. Jackson and Mrs. Norman Williams both of Chicago, were resonant was accordanced without surely other. cognized as executors without surely other than their personal recognizances. The will disposes of personal property scheduled at $3,500,000 and real estate valued at $50,000.

Mr. Crerar was a bachelor and the last member of his branch of the family in the male line. On his mother's side he had two male line. On his mother's side he had two uncles, James and John Smeallie. To their children and grandchildren he makes bequests varying from $20,000 to $50,000. A number of friends are given bequests of from $5,000 to $50,000 each. The testator gives $100,000 to the Second Presbyterian church of Chicago, $100,000 to the trustees of the same church, the income to be used for mission work, and $25,000 to the Scotch Presbyterian church. for mission work, and $25,000 to the Scotch Presbyterian church, in Fourteenth street, near Sixth avenue, New York, being the church in which the testator was baptized. Then follows a large number of bequests ranging in amount from $10,000 to $50,000 each to charities, hospitals, historical, scientific and literary societies. The remainder of the estate, estimated to be worth about $2,250,000, is set apart for the erection and maintenance of a public library in the City of Chicago to be known as the "John Crerar Library." He directs that in the selection of the books the creation of "a healthy moral and Christian sentiment" be kept in view, and that all "nastiness and immorality" be excluded. In the last category he includes "Dirty French" ovels and all sceptical trash."

Foes of superstition. Foes of superstition.

At precisely 8:13 o'clock Wednesday evening fifty gentlemen defied superstition and sat down to dinner at the Hotel Mariborough, New York, thirteen at a table as long as thirteens lasted. It was the eighty-seventh entertainment of the Thirteen club. In front of each member was a small wax candle, the idea being to prove the foolishness of the belief that he whose candle should go out first would be the first to die. At 13 minutes of 10, to a second, the caudle belonging to Dr. Allen second, the caudle belonging to Dr. Allen Fitch flickered, sputtered, and flared up so for an instant and then went out. The doctor looked on very calmly.

Sickness at West Point. It is stated that half the corps of cadets at West Point (upwards of 150) had reported at the hospital ill from poisoning. It turns out that the illness occurred a few days ago; that it was not poisoning, but a trouble of the bowels, and the attack was remark with all connected with the mess. trouble of the bowels, and the attack was general with all connected with the mess hall, drivers, gardeners, waiters, etc., faring as badly as the cadets. Even those who had not tasted food at the mess were as badly afflicted as the others. The surgeon had his hands full of business for a while, but all recovered. Superintendent Wilson has appointed a commission to investigate the cause. A VERY QUEER TRIAL.

A VERY QUEER TRIAL.

A Five Minute Courtship, Sudden Death and Sacred Chickens.

Mrs. Helen P. Moore and her brother, Frederick E. Whitcomb, of Wilbraham, Mass., on trial for the alleged murder of the woman's husband, John D. Moore, were acquitted on Thursday after a long and sensational trial. Moore was seventy-two years old. His wife died a few months ago, and looking about foranother life partner he met Mrs. Loren Biliss, a middle aged widow, who had buried two husbands. Five minutes after seeing her Moore proposed marriage and offered her $460. She refused at first but finally accepted, and after a courtship lasting less than a week the odd pair were married. Mrs. Moore agreed that if they lived harmoniously together for 5 years he would will her $500. Moore was taken home sick on October 22 and the next day died in fearful pain.

As Mrs. Moore and her brother, Frederick Whitcomb, who lived at his sister's house, were confirmed morphine and opium eaters they were arrested, charged with the murder. Fifty-seven bottles, labelled "Sulphate Morphine," were found in the house. Whitcomb at the time exhibited a large roll of bills. He seldom had a dollar. Neighbors testified that when Moore was taken ill they ordered Whitcomb to go for a doctor. He was gone all night and returned without one. He was again ordered to go for a doctor a arrived on the day he died, but could not aid him. Three doctors, the medical examiner and the chemist analyzed but could not sid him. Three doctors, the medical examiner and the chemist analyzed part of Moore's stomach. One said death was due to inflammation of the stomach was due to inflammation of the stomach another swore it was paralysis, still another thought it was morphine poisoning, and the other owned up that he had no idea what caused his death.

Mrs. Moore, Mr. Whitcomb and two neighbors testified that Moore had told them frequently that he had acute pains in his stomach and had used morphine.

Moore was fond of chickens and regarded them with almost reverence. He saved all

Moore was fond of chickens and regarded them with almost reverence. He saved all the hen feathers and was very penurious. As forty of the morphine bottles were found in the bag used by Moore for keeping his feathers the defense raised the point that he had taken the morphine on the siy and had saved the bottles. The books of the druggist of whom Mrs. Moore and Whitcomb bought showed that they had purchased but twelve bottles.

The prisoners were discharged. The prisoners were discharged.

Hope For the Hairless Millions.

From the Indianapolis Journal. Bald-headed men, who have had to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune in the shape of the gibes of those who sit behind them at the opera and catch the glory of the ballet reflected from their glory of the ballet reflected from their shining nobs, will be pleased to learn that an Indiana chemist has paved the way for their deliverance. This is not an advertisement, and the individual who speaks of chestnuts or who mutters "rats," without further applying his ear to wisdom and his heart to understanding, may have occasion to regret his hasty judgment.

It seems some German scientist, finding his forehead reaching further back was strictly demanded by the laws of beauty, began to investigate the subject closely, and found that the damage was caused by a microbe, which, for the sake of brevity and to distinguish it from other parasites, he called the bacillus crinovorax humans. This microbe, we are told, is shaped like the point of a needle, and has a power of retary motion like a steam drill, which of rotary motion like a steam drill, which it uses to bore into the scalp of the victim, loosening the fastenings of his thatch, and finally unroofing him as completely as the Kansas cyclone unroofs the humble habitation of the hardy settler.

It might be supposed that with these powerful qualities of destructiveness the B. C. H. could pursue its infamous career of desolation unobstructed, but the Indiana can have devised a preparation which man has devised a preparation which promptly reduces it to a condition of inocuous desuetude. The first dose causes it to abandon its nefarious occupation and remark on the rapidly growing unhealth-fulness of the neighborhood, and the next application causes it either to vacate the premises or give up a troublesome and misspent life. Not only does it rid the set-lieuwent of the provider but if misspent life. Not only does it rid the set-tlement of the unwelcome intruder, but it deters others of like lik from coming in to take up the abandoned claim, and the owner of the poll, who formerly went about with a cranium as bare as a billiard ball, thereafter rejoices like Absalom in the beauty and luxuriance of his locks.

WHY SOLDIERS DESERT.

Reasons Given by Men Who Have Deserted When Tried by Court-Martial. The acting judge advocate general of the army, Colonel Guido N. Lieber, has sub army, Colonel Guido N. Leber, has submitted a voluminous and exhaustive report of the operations of his office during the year ended September 30, 1889.
On the subject of desertion he gives the reasons that have been assigned by 299 prisoners out of 443 tried for desertion and convicted during the past year.
They are as follows: Drink, often accompanied by the statement that the absentee was afraid to return or was not responsible for his actions, 127; drink and influenced by others, 8; drink and other causes, such as domestic trouble, inexperience, depression, fear of the civil authorities, sickness, labor, dissatisfaction, debts and trouble with non-commissioned officers,

Another table is given showing the length of time served by soldiers convicted of desertion in 109 cases published in orders from the headquarters of the army. Of these 7 served less than one month, 8 one and less than two, 17 two less than three, 11 three and less than four, 6 four and less than the 7 for 10 styles. five, 7 five, 10 six, 4 seven, 1 eight, 2 nine, 3 ten, 1 eleven, 1 a year, 16 between one and two years and 15 over two years. A Peculiar Ceremony.

The Rev. Mr. Kerr, superintendent of the Church of England mission on the Isthmus of Panama, has been on a mission-ary tour to the Island of San Andreas. In consequence of stress of weather he had to land at a place called San Blas, one day's sail from Colon. There he found himself au ong a number of Indians, of whom there an ong a number of Indians, of whom there are thousands in this republic. They are described as being in as savage a state as when Columbus landed 400 years ago. Mr. Kerr says they did not know of God or a Savior. Their ceremony of marriage is peculiar. The two parties are placed in a crawl on the edge of the sea at night, and water is dashed on them the whole night. The next morning they are conducted home, and a feast is given. This ends the ceremony. The Indians informed Mr. Kerr that no stranger would be allowed to take up his residence among them.

"Black Bart's" Confession. "Black Bart's" Confession.

Reimund Holzhay, "Black Bart," on trial at Bessemer, Michigan, for murder and robbery, on Thursday took the stand in his own defense and made a confession. Holzhay told the story of his life from the day of his birth in Germany to that of his arrest at Republic, Mich. He admitted that he robbed the Milwaukee & Northern train six months ago; that he held up the Wisconsin Central train at Cadott, Wis., a month later, and that he waylaid the Goge-Wisconsin Central train at Cadott, Wis., a month later, and that he waylaid the Gogobic stage and shot Banker Fleischbein. Holzhay claimed that several years ago he was hurt by a fall from a horse, and since that time had been subject to "spells," during which he did not know what he was doing. He said he was under this "spell" when the various crimes were committed.

Killed By Husband and Daughters. On Wednesday the police found "Old Mag" Sullivan, a well known character, in her squalid three room tenement at the rear of 40 Gospel street, Providence, R. I., lying dead on a broken down bedstead, beneath the metta "God Bless Our Home." There were fresh bruises about the forehead and a wound on the big of the head and a wound on the chin of the corpse, In another room were the husband, John, aged 65 years, and the two daughters, Mary and Julia, all of whom were too drunk to talk intelligibly. The neighbors said that three hours before the police were summoned the daughters had beaten their mother about the head and face with their fists and the bushand had struck her over the heart. An autopsy will be held.

The Vain Regrets of a Sorrowful Hus-band Over the Needless Loss of His Wife, and the Warning it Conveys to

Wife, and the Warning it Conveys to Others.

Probably the saddest, most unhappy man in New York city to-day, is Mr. G. V. Remington, whe resides on East 86th street. A few weeks ago he had a beautiful wife and a happy home; now his ears are pained by the criss of his motheriess children. Mrs. Remington passed through the summer in good health and spirits, but the first change in the weather chilled her, caused her to cough, quickened her pulse and brought on a general feeling of weariness, Mr. Remington thought it was only a cold and so neglected it.

on a general feeling of wearlness, Mr. Remington thought it was only a cold and so neglected to thought it was only a cold and so neglected it. "Oh! Why didn't I do something before it was too late?" he exclaimed bitterly. "I knew she was weakened by the heat of the Summer, all the pores of the skin were open and she was an easy victim to disease, but I might have saved her if I had only assisted Nature in time, instead of waiting, and then sending for the doctor when it was too late."

Nearly every man or woman who has passed through the Summer months is specially liable to the attack of this same demon, Pneumonia, which comes so quickly, so unexpectedly and often ends so fatally. Immediate assistance to nature of a strong stimulant is the only way by which it can be avoided, and it is for this very purpose that Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey has achieved such a national reputation and become so popular. The dangerous, often fatal diseases, which attack the system when it is specially weak, can be quickly thrown off by this pure stimulating whiskey. The highest testimony of the leading physicians of the land simply prove this, and the thousands who have been saved from untimely graves, also attest it. Great care should be exercised to secure only the genuine, as it is the only preparation on the market which has the power to cure and which does so invariably.
