

NEGRO THIEVES SENTENCED.

THE MEN WHO ROBBED JUSTICE DEBARRETT'S HOUSE IN COLUMBIA ARE CONVICTED.
Dick Geddes, of the Fayetteville gang, to go to jail for a year—Albert Zell Acquitted of Larceny.

Monday Afternoon.—The trial of Jacob Warfel, for violating the liquor law, by selling to minors, on Sunday and without license at Shenk's Ferry, was resumed when court re-assembled at 2:30. A number of witnesses testified to getting liquor at his place in May, 1887, after the expiration of his license. The defendant testified that he was unable to get a license in '87 for his hotel and that he was in the habit of selling without license. He denied that he violated the law after he returned from the hotel business. He said there was a party given at his place on Sunday last, when he, Jacob, and Henry Boatman, a party in-law, and Henry Boatman, a party in-law, were present. He admitted having given a couple of bottles of beer to the party, but that he bought them from him, but he denied having received any pay for it. He claimed that it was part of the stock that remained unsold, when he went out to business. Upon cross-examination he admitted that he had been a fugitive from justice since the expiration of his license. He said he remained away because he could not get bail and expected to get the case sent without its getting into court. The jury rendered a verdict guilty of selling liquor without license and guilty of selling liquor on Sunday and to minors, by county for costs. Warfel was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and to the imprisonment of four months in the county jail.

A verdict of not guilty was taken in the case of Com. vs. E. J. Weimer, Edna township election officers, and also in the case of Com. vs. Edw. Weimer, same charge.

Wm. Thomas was charged with carrying concealed deadly weapons. George Finnefrack was the prosecutor and he testified that he saw the defendant with a pistol on the corner of East King streets, and that he had struck him with a weapon at James and Mulberry streets, but he did not tell what the weapon was. The defendant denied that he had carried a concealed deadly weapon, and that he had struck him with a pistol on the corner of East King streets, and during the row he picked up a stone and struck the prosecutor with it. The jury after a few minutes' deliberation rendered a verdict of guilty. Sentence was deferred, as there are other cases pending against him.

The following were granted by the register of wills for the week ending Tuesday, November 19:

ADMINISTRATION.—Robert R. Montgomery, deceased, late of Little Britain township; James S. Patterson, Little Britain, administrator.

TESTAMENTARY.—Samuel Kending, deceased, late of East Drumore township; Harry H. Aumont, East Drumore, executor.

Levi Joh, late of Ephrata township; Benjamin Joh, Ephrata, executor.

What the Street Committee Did.—The street committee of councils met last Monday evening and decided to advertise for proposals for the paving of the diamond at Duke and Orange streets with asphalt blocks and the diamond at Duke and Chestnut streets with Belgian blocks. Bids will be opened on Thursday evening.

To Withdraw Public Funds.—Secretary Tindal said in regard to a report that he had received from the Treasurer that $100,000 of public funds now on deposit with national banks, that it certainly was his purpose to make any such withdrawal of public funds as could be withdrawn from the banks without inconvenience to trade or commercial interests as early as practicable. The withdrawal of public funds will be for the purpose of reinvestment in the U. S. bonds. For many years past the government has had on deposit with banks $100,000,000 of public funds, and it has been transacted from ten to twenty million dollars, and he saw no good reason why this policy should be changed.

He Is a Lancaster Man.
John Henry Meyer, the insane man who has been locked up in a San Francisco asylum, seems to be pretty well known here after all. His parents reside on High street, and he has been in the news with Ed. Kappler in Centre Square, with whom he spent three years from 1876, and was a good workman. He then left and went to Boston, where he had been locked up at times. His folks were obliged to put him in an asylum several times.

Prosecution Withdrawn.
Harry Springer, prosecuted before Alderman A. F. Donnelly for an unprovoked assault on the plaintiff, on Monday evening, was to have been heard on Monday evening, but before the hour designated for the hearing Springer induced the prosecutor to withdraw the suit. Springer paid the costs.

Disorderly at the Railroad Station.
George M. Bush, of Mountville, was on the Pennsylvania railroad station on Monday evening and behaved in a very disorderly manner, and when Officer Frye locked him up and this morning Alderman Halbach discharged him upon payment of costs.

Before the Pardon Board.
Frank Esbleman went to Harrisburg to appear before the pardon board to argue an application for the pardon of Jacob M. Rutt, serving a term for forgery. An application for a rehearing in the case of Joe Buzzard, whose pardon was denied last month, will be argued by A. B. Hassler.

Electric Light in the Northern Market.
The incandescent electric light has been placed on the Northern market, which has been a success. It was introduced at the market, and was greeted with great cheering by persons in attendance at the market.

BUYING AND SELLING.

LOCAL TOBACCO DEALERS KEPT QUITE BUSY DURING THE PAST WEEK.

The Total Sales Nearly 2,000 Cases. Trade in New York Dull—The '88 Crop of Pennsylvania in High Favor.

The past week in the local tobacco market was a busy one. Skilles & Frey bought 650 cases of Havana and seed leaf, crops of 1888 and 1889, and sold 100 cases of small leaf or main-crops. David Lederman sold 100 cases of '87 seed. Daniel A. Mayor sold 217 cases and bought 314 cases of '87 and '88 seed and Havana, and another firm sold 210 and bought 240 of '87 and '88 crops, making the aggregate transactions 1,880 cases.

The weather has been favorable for shipping the past week. There were no buyers in the market for some time, but Charles E. Eggleston, representing the firm of J. P. Wolf, of Dayton, Ohio, is in town looking at the stock of tobacco in the hands of dealers. He is also trying to sell a lot of old tobacco.

A Ledger, who represents the United States Tobacco Journal, is in town looking after the interests of his paper, which has a large circulation among tobacco men.

New York Market.
From the United States Tobacco Journal.

Business here has improved somewhat, though transactions are still limited to small quantities. The holders of old stock are not weakening by any means, because the '88 crop is regarded as to be defective in some way or another. There is hardly any more about that both the '88 wrapper and filler average will be about 500 to 600 cases, which is a very small quantity.

The market for the past week was exceedingly dull, but this spell of quietude must be explained as a result of the fact of business which has been transacted during the past four months. "When the storm is over, calmness reigns." The few sales which were made were for small quantities, such as the '88 Pennsylvania seed leaf and Onondaga. The seed leaf of '88 crop of Pennsylvania makes an excellent filler and binder for cigars, and in fact conditions the market still remains firm in price.

Gains Report.
Sales of seed leaf tobacco reported by J. S. Gans, Secretary of the Pennsylvania Water, New York, for the week ending November 18:

290 cases 1888 New England Havana, 10 to 12c; 180 cases 1888 seed leaf, 12c to 14c; 200 cases 1888 Wisconsin Havana, 11 to 12c; 150 cases 1888 Pennsylvania seed leaf, 15c to 16c; 150 cases sundries, 15c to 40c. Total, 1,180 cases. Market very dull.

The Philadelphia Market.
From the Tobacco Leaf.

It is usual for the month of November to show dullness in handling cigar leaf, so that the market for cigars is quiet. It is customary. Nevertheless, sales have been made which aggregate handsomely. It's and C's still holds the fort and find a ready market for cigars. There are a goodly number of domestic Havana wrappers have been placed, while inquiries are constantly increasing. Prices firm and steady.

Samtara shows a regular daily demand.
Havana sells well and satisfactorily at full prices.

Receipts for the week—88 cases Connecticut, 420 cases Pennsylvania, 53 cases Ohio, 116 cases Little Dutch, 369 cases Wisconsin, 84 cases Virginia, 372 cases matra, 372 bales Havana and 284 lbs Virginia and Western leaf tobacco.

Sales have been—91 cases Connecticut, 308 cases Pennsylvania, 45 cases Ohio, 45 cases Little Dutch, 210 cases Wisconsin, 65 cases York state, 91 bales Sumatra, 201 cases Havana, and 16 bales Virginia and Western leaf tobacco in transit direct to manufacturers.

GOLDEN IN "OLD JED PROUTY."
A Fine Play by a Strong Company That Gave the Greatest Satisfaction.

The evening at Fulton opera house there was an unusually large and no means as large as Richard Golden and his company in "Old Jed Prouty" deserved. The house was not full by any means, yet it should have been packed, as the star, the play and the company were first-class.

The play is a clean, pure story of home and heart interest, and is the most typical New England hotel-keeper. His quaint sayings and funny adventures in his own little village of Buckport as well as while on a short visit to Boston, are admirably portrayed. Mr. Golden was brought up in a town of this kind "away down East," and he has plenty of opportunities of observing and studying the funny characters who lived there. He and William Gill wrote this play and it is bound to succeed. While there is a little plot the people do not look for that, as there is so much that is funny, while at times it is filled with pathos and tears follow quickly in the wake of smiles. There are many things that are real and true to life, and any person that has ever spent time at a country hotel, even in this part of the State, can appreciate the queer characters that are introduced.

Mr. Golden has the part of Jed Prouty, the single-hearted and somewhat eccentric hotel-keeper, who is the heart of the play, and he plays it admirably. He plays the part in an easy, natural way and almost convinces the audience that he is a real hotel-keeper. He is a great success in the piece and he was twice called before the curtain by the enthusiastic audience last evening.

The company in support is very strong with Joseph Cass as Beacon Hill, Harry Rich as John Todd, Frank R. Jackson as Zach Wilson, H. M. Morse as Zeb Hardy, etc. The music is furnished by a curious lot of old boys, but quite natural and fit companions for Old Jed. Pretty Louise Sanford, who has often appeared in Lancaster and is a well-deserving part in her work, played the part of Martina Collins capably and she was especially funny in her part, after she had become Mrs. Hill and assumed the part of Ma. The scenery used in the production of the play was very appropriate, especially in the first and third acts, and the best features of the play was the fine singing of a quartette composed of Misses Sanford and Alma and Messrs Morse and Peters. They were cheered at every time when they sang, and their voices were heard. The play will be produced again this evening, and it should be seen by everybody.

The Number is Large.
The county institutions seem to be very popular resorts now. In the hospital and insane asylum there are now 150 inmates, while there are 21 in the almshouse proper. Superintendent Wood says this is 64 more in the three buildings than at this time last year.

A Car Crimpeled.
The East End car line seems to be improving backwards. One of its cars has a wheel off or damaged. It is only running one at present. A trip is now made once every thirty-five or forty minutes. The patrons of the car line are complaining why a car could not be borrowed or hired for a few days from some other line.

PROF. GLEASON AT THE RINK.

A House of Gymnastics Miss Greete the Great Horse Trainer.

At the King street rink last evening there was an audience of tremendous size to see Prof. Gleason, who claims, and not without good cause, to be the king of animal trainers. The building was packed with people. Not only was the rink taken down stairs, but the gallery and stage were filled. The exhibition was much like those given before by the professor and was very entertaining. The rink has been well fitted up for the exhibition and on the floor is a heavy coating of sawdust.

The first horse upon which an experiment was made was a halter pailer. He was heavy, strong and gamey, and two of his tricks were to walk on his hind legs and to stand upon his hind legs. He succeeded in throwing him. The professor then threw him single handed after a little resistance from the animal. He then rode upon his hind legs and cracked the whip. When he got upon his feet the throwing strap was put over his head and the strap was used upon him. He was thrown a second time, and tin pans, bass drums, etc., were pounded over him, but he was brought to stop at the word. The drum and pans were again used, but the horse did not move even after the professor pulled at the lines. He was then brought up in a wagon which the professor upset, but the animal at once stopped. A spirited bay horse was next taught to follow the instructor in a circle and to come brought to terms after he had kicked his heels off.

The professor will appear again to-night when a very savage horse, which nearly everybody is afraid of, will be operated upon.

THE HEAVY RAIN.
All the streams here—High, Centre, Flooded in the Northern Part of the County. Owing to the very heavy rain which lasted nearly all night the streams of the county, including the Conestoga, were all very high to-day. The rain seems to have been very hard all over this section, and reports from different places are the same.

Some of the streams that are overflowing are putting on as many airs as the big ones, and fields are badly flooded. The streets here are also very high this afternoon, as it has been since this summer, but it is rising and by evening may be up to the standard.

The damage done in the northern part of the city and especially in that section which is known as Faegleyville, Old Clay street from North Quay to Pine street, is of a serious nature. The water with considerable depth and all the cellars in the neighborhood are flooded. At some houses the water is running out in the streets, and at others it is running all over the streets and in the lots and gardens. Some of the lots have ponds upon them and the water is high to the roof, although the rain had stopped, the water was still having its imbrings and was covering everything. The water is running in a number of places a good chance to collect there. The falets to the sewer are not sufficiently large and the sewers are not properly constructed, so that the water is overflowing from the people of that section were greatly excited over the state of affairs this forenoon and many are growling over the condition of their cellars.

THEY DID NOT COME BACK.
Two Negroes Hired a Horse to Buy Bones and Fall to Betrayer.

On Monday last week James K. Kiehl, a young man residing in the city of Lancaster and wagon from John O. Stewart, who is also colored, and lives at Lemon and Oyster streets. Kiehl had wanted to buy a horse and had been to Quaryville to purchase a load of bones and he left town taking another young man with him. Instead of going to Quaryville they took another direction and went to York county. They were seen to cross the river at Columbia between eight and nine o'clock and returned to the city at 10 o'clock, and not come back to Lancaster since, nor has Stewart heard anything of his team. He has an idea that the man sold it and then returned to the city, and he has been in the hands of Chief of Police Smeltz, who is trying to find the property and thieves.

Knocked His Wife Down.
Emanuel Hammond is the name of a young man residing in the northern part of the city and at times amuses himself by thumping his wife. Last evening he attended the performance at the opera house and took a seat in the gallery. His wife went there after him for some reason. She sat in the gallery and he went to meet her. She was standing in front of the opera house when she was struck by a brick which he threw at her. She fell in the gutter and he went back to the gallery. The brick struck her on the back of the head and she was brought out of the gallery and would have been taken to the station, but she was not taken there, and he returned to see the show out, as though nothing had happened. The wife went home.

Passengers in a Burning Car.
As the Eastern express on the Pennsylvania Railroad was riding through Harrisburg, on Monday evening, one of the passenger coaches left the track, owing to the spreading of the rails, and turned completely over. The car was full of passengers and in the centre. There were between forty and fifty persons in the car and a wild scene followed. Trainmen and crews from other trains were close at hand and the flames were soon extinguished and the passengers rescued. Nearly every one in the car was injured, but only one, Joseph Broecker, fatally.

St. Michael's Society Officers.
At the meeting of St. Michael's society on Monday evening the following were elected officers: President, George F. Wagner; Secretary, G. E. W. Heger; Vice-president, George F. Wagner; Secretary, Thos. F. McElligott; Treasurer, Fred. Judith; Standing committee, Messrs. Wagner, Heger, Wacker, Martin Deitcher; northeast ward, Ben. Houser, Jerome Heimezz; southeast ward, A. F. Hill, Edward Hiss; southwest ward, George Fritz, Peter Diel, second; Edward Parker, Fred. Kirsch; messenger, Martin Deitcher.

Marietta Sand Company.
Articles of agreement of the Marietta Sand company, a limited partnership, with a capital of $1,000, were filed at the recorder's office of this county on Monday. The company are: President, John H. McMullen; secretary, Bayard Taylor Brandt; treasurer, H. M. Alexander. The business of the company is the shipping of river sand.

Death of Mrs. Miles Downs.
Mrs. Margaret Downs, wife of Miles Downs, of the Rock, was buried at St. Catherine Catholic church, near Quarryville, to-day. She was 75 years old and was the mother of William and James Downs, two of the best known young men in the lower end of the county. Her aged husband has been a member of St. Catherine church since its erection.

Hurt in Strasburg.
Last week Mrs. D. S. Sweeton and her daughters, Sallie and Gertrude, went to visit relatives in Strasburg. Mr. Sweeton has been ill for some time and was very weak. He was badly hurt by falling through the hayrack while playing in the barn. She will be brought home to-morrow.

Inventory Filed.
The inventory of the estate of John Graver, miller, of Ephrata, who made an agreement of a few years ago to sell the mill and the propertaries' office to-day. It aggregates $6,350.15.

JACOB BUZZARD DIES.

ONE OF THE INFAMOUS WELSH MOUNTAIN GANG A VICTIM OF CONSUMPTION.

His End Comes While in Confinement In the Penitentiary—A Young Man Who Committed Various Crimes.

Jacob Buzzard, one of the famous brothers, who in former years made their headquarters in the Welsh mountain and were a terror to the people residing in the western section of the county, is dead. The news of his death which took place on Sunday last, exactly one year and two months after he was confined in this morning's jail, was a great loss to the county. He was a fine specimen of a man, and his confinement in all probability greatly hastened his death. His wife had been expecting to hear the news of his end for some time, and she was very glad that she had then found him to be sinking very rapidly. After receiving the dispatch this morning, she telegraphed to the warden of the penitentiary to ship the body to this city, where the funeral will take place.

The deceased was but thirty-three years of age. He had a long and a hard life. He had five brothers, viz: Mart, Abe, Ike, Jake and Joe, and their father died when the boys were but young. They were brought to terms after he had kicked his heels off. The stories of their doings have been published in nearly every issue of this county paper for many years. He was a fine specimen of a man, and his confinement in all probability greatly hastened his death.

Some years ago it became evident that Buzzard was suffering from consumption and the officers watched him closely. During the term of Mayor Morton they became convinced that he was doing a great deal of mischief in the county. He was very devoted to a bad crowd of young men who were working with him. They would make raids into the country almost nightly, and would take a number of young men and bring their goods to this city, and usually took it to Buzzard's house. Finally a number of young men were arrested, including Buzzard, and a large number of people of that section were greatly excited over the state of affairs this forenoon and many are growling over the condition of their cellars.

Brazil's Enormous Territory.
In extent of territory Brazil is nearly as large as Europe. It covers an area of three million two hundred and eighty-eight thousand English miles. The greatest river of the globe, the Amazon, winds its way through the country for three thousand miles of free navigation in Brazilian territory. The metallic and mineral products of the country are of a rich quality. Brazil is also rich in its richness in diamonds and other gems, and the fields from which they are taken are of a rich quality. Brazil is also rich in the loftiest mountains, the vegetation, and luxuriant beyond description. The forests of the country contain all the kinds of trees that are found in ornamental wood. The varieties of animal life are more numerous perhaps than in any other region of the world.

THE NEWS CONFIRMED.

Establishment of the United States of Brazil—A Revolution Without Bloodshed.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 15, via Galveston.—Dom Pedro and the imperial family left yesterday for Lisbon on the steamer Amazon.

The governors named by the provisional government are all military men. The denunciation adopted by the government of the republic by the United States of Brazil. The province of Bahia has proclaimed for the republic. Peace and quietness reigns. The republic will allow the proposed emperor to do as he pleases for an annuum during his life.

The five articles of the government decree are: First, The republic is proclaimed. Second, Brazil is divided into all, united by federation, compose the United States of Brazil. Third, Each state will form its own local government. Fourth, The state will send representatives to the Congress, which will convene shortly, and the final decision of which the provisional government will await. Fifth, The state will maintain order and protect the citizens' rights.

The national and external relations will be represented meanwhile by the provisional government.

Rio Janeiro awoke on Friday to hear the Republic proclaimed. General Da Fonseca, Senor Constant and others proceeded to Petropolis in the morning and informed the emperor that he had been dethroned. The emperor, supported by his family, received the declaration with absolute composure. General Da Fonseca was advanced far enough in the past to be able to dispose with the monarchy. The country, while grateful to the emperor for his services, was not willing to recognize only the republic.

Dom Pedro made a dignified reply. He declined to abdicate, but said he would not resist, and he would remain in the country until he was allowed one hour to prepare for their departure. Carriages, escorted by soldiers, were waiting to take them to the center of the city. The emperor was conveyed under steam. The captain had been instructed to sail as soon as the imperial family was embarked. He had received the emperor's orders and was ready to take it. It is supposed that Lisbon is the destination of the vessel.

Dom Pedro, the deposed emperor, is the oldest monarch in point of service in the world, he having been declared emperor six years before Victoria was called to the throne of Great Britain. He is the junior of Prince Albert's relief by three or four years. Stormy times rested upon Brazil from the year 1821 until 1881, the former emperor, Dom Pedro I., led to his practical abdication in 1822, and leaving for Portugal, the crown which he had succeeded. The popularity of Dom Pedro I. began to wane soon after he assumed the throne, and in 1831 he was expelled from Brazil. He then spent five years in exile in the United States, and returned to Brazil in 1836, and then five years old, and his three sisters to the tender mercies of his subjects. Thus, for forty-eight years Dom Pedro I. reigned over Brazil, and the Brazilian empire, and now he has also been compelled to seek refuge in Europe.

PATRIOTS TO THE RESCUE

THE NATIONAL JACKSON CLUB FORMED IN NASHVILLE ON MONDAY.

A Non-Partisan Organization to Turn the Tide of Indifference Among Citizens—Editor McClure President.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 18.—The National Jackson club, which was organized here yesterday, has issued the following address:

The perpetuity of a republican free government rests in the patriotism of the people. In proportion as patriotism degenerates, in proportion as men forget they desire the danger of a disunion of the States. The forces that created our government and developed it into self-sustaining strength were evolved under conditions of oppression and tyranny, from patriotism unadulterated with selfish motives and without the slightest purpose of personal advancement or any other selfish purpose. The founders, sustained and projected it upon its career.

Unhappily, evidences of decay are beginning to be manifest, which, unless speedily arrested, may result disastrously. We have, therefore, men sought to serve the country, and to turn the tide of our decline. We seek first their own gain, and patriotic instinct is lost in the pell-mell scramble for place and emolument. Political parties, all of them, make "spoils" their first object, and it is gradually being instilled into the public mind that a proper reward of government is to be given to the victors.

How may the danger be arrested? A manly movement for self-reliance and self-respect is needed. The first step is to give opportunity to the first patriots to lead. It is supposed that Lisbon is the destination of the vessel.

Dom Pedro, the deposed emperor, is the oldest monarch in point of service in the world, he having been declared emperor six years before Victoria was called to the throne of Great Britain. He is the junior of Prince Albert's relief by three or four years. Stormy times rested upon Brazil from the year 1821 until 1881, the former emperor, Dom Pedro I., led to his practical abdication in 1822, and leaving for Portugal, the crown which he had succeeded. The popularity of Dom Pedro I. began to wane soon after he assumed the throne, and in 1831 he was expelled from Brazil. He then spent five years in exile in the United States, and returned to Brazil in 1836, and then five years old, and his three sisters to the tender mercies of his subjects. Thus, for forty-eight years Dom Pedro I. reigned over Brazil, and the Brazilian empire, and now he has also been compelled to seek refuge in Europe.

Brazil's Enormous Territory.
In extent of territory Brazil is nearly as large as Europe. It covers an area of three million two hundred and eighty-eight thousand English miles. The greatest river of the globe, the Amazon, winds its way through the country for three thousand miles of free navigation in Brazilian territory. The metallic and mineral products of the country are of a rich quality. Brazil is also rich in its richness in diamonds and other gems, and the fields from which they are taken are of a rich quality. Brazil is also rich in the loftiest mountains, the vegetation, and luxuriant beyond description. The forests of the country contain all the kinds of trees that are found in ornamental wood. The varieties of animal life are more numerous perhaps than in any other region of the world.
