ALMOST A MURDER.

THIBVES ON SATURDAY EVENING.

The eastern section of the city seems to be a favorite stamping ground for tramps and other hard characters at present. Around the reservoir and along East King Orange and other streets, tough looking individuals, not only strangers but men who live here, can frequently be seen standing about in bunches. The reason given for this is that the tramps naturally gather around the neighborhood of the almshouse and they are daily being discharged from the jail.

and they are daily being discharged from the jail.

There has been considerable thieving in the East End and one of the persons who has suffared to a considerable extent is Jacob F. Shaeffer, who has a distillery and liquor store on the south side of East King street at the corner of Franklin. Several times Mr. Shaeffer's distillery has been entered and robbed of money and liquors, but only once was he able to catch the thief. He proved to be a Lancaster man and he got a good term in jail some time ago. On Saturday evening the pisce was again robbed and the affair was one of the boldest and most desperate outrages of the kind that has been perpetrated in this city for some time. Abraham Breitigan, an old man, who lives on Ann street, is Mr. Shaeffer's distiller, and be has sole charge of the distillery and liquor store, where he remains all day. On Saturday evening about 6 o'clock he was getting ready to go home and had just locked the door of the store on the inside when he saw through the window three men walking up and down the pavement in front. Finally they came to the window and he asked them if they wanted anything. One said that they desired to purchase some whisky. Mr. Breitigan opened the door and admitted the trip. He went back to the rear of the store to draw the liquer, which they had bargained for, from a barrel. One of the men followed him and the others stood in the front part of the store. Breitigan stooped to draw the liquer from the barrel, the store to draw the liquor, which they had bargained for, from a barrel. One of the men followed him and the others stood in the front part of the store. Breitigan stooped to draw the liquor from the barret, and while he was in that position the man who had gone back with him struck him a terrible blow on the back of the head with a billy or some other weapon, and as he was falling struck him above the right eye, cutting it badly. Mr. Breitigan fell heavily to the floor, and in so doing scratched his face terribly. He was unconscious for a short time, and when he recovered the men had fled. He got his pistol and started out in search of them, but without success, as they had disappeared. He examined the store and found that the thieves had robbed the money drawer of between $15 and $20. They took with them the slide which was inside of the drawer and held the money. Had they been earlier they would have secured more, as Mr. Breitigan had taken $37.50 from the drawer and placed it in his pocket. The thieves evidently did not think of examining his clothing, as he lay on the floor, but were in haste to get away with what they had secured from the drawer.

The thieves were seen lurking about the distillery for some time before they attacked the distiller. They walked up Franklin street, coming from the direction of the Conestoga. After committing the robbery they were seen running away from the distillery by several boys who saw one of them with part of the money drawer. They ran down Franklin street, between the reservoir and prison, towards Orange street, and were soon out of sight. The boys suspected something was wrong and upon going into the liquor store found out. Mr. Breitigan was covered with blood which was flowing from cuts on his head made by the billy, and one of his eyes was almost swelled shut. He was taken home, where his wounds were dressed.

Mr. Shaeifer was notified of the robbery and he went to the station house and told.

where his wounds were dressed.

Mr. Shaeffer was notified of the robbery and be went to the station house and told the police. Sergeant Hartley and Officers Stormfeltz, Helss and Samson went in search of the men, but could not find them. stormfeltz, Heiss and Samson went in search of the men, but could not find them. Mr. Breitigan said one was a stout, we'll built man, about 5 feet 9 inches high, ard had no whiskers or moustache. The others were smaller men and the one that struck him had a very small face. The officers were given as good a description of the men as Breitigan was able, and they kept on the lookout all of Saturday night. On Sunday morning Mr. Breitigan saw a man passing his house who he thought was one of the party who had attacked him. He was a young man and when he looked at Breitigan he laughed. The old man notified Constable Price, who locked the fellow up and Mr. Breitigan positively identified him as one of the party who had been at the distillery. The man gave his name as John Holmer, and he had two companions with him just before his arrest. When they saw him taken they disappeared. Holmer is a stranger and looks something like a tramp. After this arrest Constables Jake Shaub, Price and others began arresting every tramp that they came across and by Sunday evening they had the big cells of the station house almost full. They were caught on the eastern outskirts of the by Sunday evening they had the big cells of the station house almost fuli. They were caught on the eastern outskirts of the city towards the Conestoga railroad bridge. Mr. Breitigan took a look at all of them, but was unable to identify anyone but Holmer. He was positive in regard to him. Two men who answered the description of the other pair of thieves are said to have boarded a freight train at Mill creek and gone east on Sunday.

and gone east on Sunday.

Mr. Schaeffer made complaint before
Alderman Deen against three unknown Alderman Deen against three unknown men, charging them with larceny, and one with assault and battery and carrying concealed weapons. The men who were arrested yesterday, in addition to John Holmer, gave their names as: James McGee, Samuel Watson, Jacob Gilmore, James Gleason, Charles Edwards, Richard Carroll and James Conners. The majority of these were captured by Officers Deen and Crawford who followed some of them all the way to Witmers Station. They handed all over to the constables, and Alderman Deen committed them for a hearing. It may be that one or two of thom were at the distillery and assisted in the larcey. Persons who saw the men hanging around the distillery on Saturday will take a look at the lot held by Alderman Deen when there is a hearing. In the meantime all the evidence obtainable will be received. It is said that one of these who attacked Breitegan had on light pantaloons, which he afterwards changed, as is supposed, so he could not be identified. The officers have a pair of light pantaloons, which they found in possession of one of the bums. men, charging them with larceny, and one

Their guilt has been established beyond a doubt, and they stand a few stands of the has been established beyond a doubt, and they stand a fine chance of going to jail or spending some time in the reformatory school. On Saturday Special Officer Gill, after acresting four boys, procured a search warrant. He went to the house where John Morrissey, one of the boys, lived on South Prince street. He made a thorough search and found a pair of pantaloots and the revelver that had been stolen from the rink. After finding these he took them to the station house and showed them to Morrissey. The young fellow weakened at once and confossed to everything. He said that he and John J. Lutz had committed the theft alone, and that the other mitted the theft alone, and that the other boys under arrest were innocent of everything. He said that Lutz had the remainder of the stolen property. Gill took out a search warrant for Lutz's house on Manor street. Upon making the search he found Prof. Gleason's rifle, the clothing and in fact everything else that was stolen that Morrissey did not have. The boys will have a hearing on Tuesday evening before Alderman Harshey, and one of Prof. Gleason's men has remained over to prosecute them. They consider themselves very fortunate in recovering all of their goods. It is likely that Lutz, and Morrissey will be the only ones held on the charges. mitted the theft alone, and that the othe

James Lynch Arrested—The Evidence Pointing to His Guitt.

James Lynch, colored, was arrested on Saturday evening by Chief Smelts and Officers Crawford and Deen on a warrant issued by Alderman Deen. He is charged with the felonious entry of the coffee reasting establishment of Mrs. Clara L. King, on East Mifflin street near Lime.

This place was entered twice in as many weeks. The first time a pair of gum boots and some wasted coffee were stolen, and the second, Wednesday night, about thirty pounds of coffee were taken. The entrance on last Wednesday night was effected by climbing to a shed in the yard and opening the window on the second floor.

Close to the shed was a bed of mortar, which the thief did not notice and he stepped into it, leaving the imprint of a gum boot. Suspicion was directed against Lynch, who works at the Locher stables on the opposite side of the alley, and a search warrant was taken out.

The officers found in the stable where Lynch is employed a gum boot with morter on it. This boot had a peculiar heel and the imprint in the mortar bears the same imprint as the boot found in Lynch's possession.

Supposed Stolen Jewelry.

At 9 o'clock on Sunday morning, a telephone message was received at the station house that a gang of tramps at the corner of Ann and Chestnut streets were displaying watches and jewelry, and offering them for sale at such prices as would indicate that they were stolen. Officer Gardner was sont out, and there Officer Crawford and Constable Price joined him. They saw three men there, arrested them and took them to the station house. They gave the names of James Bartley, William J. Ryan and J. Williams. In James Bartley's possession was found a handsome cameo ring, and in Ryan's a gold band ring. There were no watches in the possession of any of them. The authorities of neighboring cities will be communicated with, to ascertain whether any rings have been stolen.

Isaiah Aniba, a watchman for the Cornwall & Lebanon failroad at a street crossing at Lebanon, mysteriously disappeared from his post of duty last Tuesday. His body was found in the Quittapahilia creek on Saturday. He fell into the stream, which was much swollen at the time, and could not escape or give an alarm. Aniba was a resident of Mt. Joy for many years. Until four or five years ago he traveled through this and adjoining counties, giving exhibitions with the magic lantern. He was also a temperance lecturer, his audiences in the main being drawn from villages. He leaves a wife, two sons and a daughter. They reside in Philadelphia. Aniba and wife lived apart the past few years.

Using Corn For Fuel In Kansas. Using Corn For Fuel In Kansas.

The farmers around Hiswatha, Kan., are burning corn for fuel, finding it cheaper than coal. Corn is sold on the farm at 20 cents per bushel, while the average price of coal delivered at the farm ranges from 21 to 23 cents per bushel. The Farmers' Alliance brought the attention of the farmers to the relative prices of the two commodities, and advised that half the corn rorn be used as fuel, thus advancing the commodities, and as fuel, thus advancing the crop be used as fuel, thus advancing the price of the other half and saving money in their fuel bills. # A Boy Scalded.

Sunday evening William, a son of John Sechrist, of North Water street, aged 13 years, was badly scalded. He was playing around the electric light station, on Con cord alley, when a man came out with a bucket of hot water which he accidentally, or purposely, threw upon the boy. He was terribly scalded about the back and when his pantaloons were taken off a great part of the skin came with them. Dr. Kinard attended him.

Court met at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and the hearing of desertion and surety of the peace cases was resumed.

Andrew Braumgart, a German, who had a field for pasture adjoining Shoenberger's park, charged Thomas B. Shields with having threatened to kill him. The difficulty between these parties occurred last July. The only testimony bearing on the case was that Shields told Braumgart to come into a shed and he would kill him. Braumgart declined the invitation and was not killed. The court did not think Andrew was in any danger, and dismissed the complaint with each of the parties to pay half the costs.

The desertion case against Monroe Mellinger was continued until the December adjourned term. He was sued several months ago and claimed that his wife and he settled their differences, he agreeing to pay her $50 in full for all claims against him, and that he had done so. His wife was not in court and she will be sent for at the adjourned term.

William Price, constable of the Second ward, was charged by his wife Maggie with failure to support her. She claimed that she worked in the cotton mill and that he contributed very little towards her support since last May.

The defendant said he was willing to support his wife, and had offered to rent a house and go to housekeeping, but she refused to leave her mother's house. The court directed him to pay $2.50 per week as long as they remain apart.

James Logan prosecuted John Bagnell, of Columbia, for threatening him, but as James was sent to jail earlier in the week for felonious assault and battery, and cannot harm any one for the next sixteen months the case was dismissed.

At the last term of the court George Garber promised to provide a home for his wife. Instead of doing so he skipped away. The court's process will bring him back. Daniel Frey preferred a surety of the peace case against Christian Eckert. Frey aitled to appear to prosecute the case and the court issued a process for him.

ALMOST SUFFOCATED.

On Saturday night or Sunday morning - Mitchell and family, who reside at No. 704 North Queen street, made a narrow escape from suffocation by coal gas. During the night a pipe leading from the furnace in the cellar became disjointed and the house was soon filled with gas, up stairs as well as down. Very fortunately Mrs. Mitchell awoke and when she did she noticed the gas. She was very dizzy and when she attempted to get up she fell back upon the bed; she finally awakened her husband and he was also affected. The room of Harry and Grace, the two children, which is next to that of their parents, was opened and they were also found to be in danger. Dr. Muhlenberg was sent for and he attended the family. They were sick all day Sunday and had it gone a little longer some of them might have been dead. No. 704 North Queen street, made a narrow Prof. Gleason and His Men. Prof. O. R. Gleason, the popular horse rainer, who is now giving exhibitions at Prof. O. R. Gleason, the popular horse trainer, who is now giving exhibitions at the Lancaster rink, wasthe victim of thieves last night and he and several of his men suffered from their depredations.* The boys who did the stealing belong to a gang who loaf around the rink, despite the efforts of the managers to keep them away. This morning when Prof. Gleason's men went to the rink they made the discovery. In the drossing room in the front of the house, which was formerly a side entrance to the place when it was used as a theatre, stood a trunk, which was owned by Norton Smith, Prof. Gleason's first assistant. The lock had been pried from it and the following articles stolen: A fine overcoat valued at $40 and a Smith & Wesson revolver worth $12, belonging to Mr. Smith and a full suit of clothes of George Evans, another employe of Prof. Gleason, who kept things in Smith's trunk. A Colt's lightning repeating rifle, belonging to Prof. Gleason, was also stolen from a case in which it was kept, in the same room. This rifle the professor had made especially for himself in New York and used it for shooting glass balls, while giving exhibitions in the summer. He valued it at $50 and does not think that there is another gun like it in the city.

An examination of the building showed the city.

An examination of the building showed

An examination of the building showed that an entire sash in the western side of the building at the stage had been broken out. The window is some distance from the ground, but the tracks immediately under it showed that several persons had under it showed that several persons had come out of or gone into it. It is believed by some that thieves entered the building while last night's performance was going on, and secreted themselves between the pieces of scenery on the stage until atter Prof. Gleason's men had left after which they committed the theft and went out by the window. Some think, however, that they entered and left the building by the window. The thieves, whoever they were, were well acquainted with the rink and knew where Prof. Gleason kept everything. They did Prof. Gleason kept everything. They did not break into the ticket office where Prof. Gleason's trunk full of bits, bridles, books.

Gleason's trunk full of bits, bridles, books. &c., was kept, because they did not want that kind of articles.

Complaint was made before Alderman Hershey against a number of boys and Special Officer Gill arrested John J. Lutz, Harry Stevens, Walter Clemmens and John Morrissey, four boys who make the rink their headquarters. They were held on charges of felonious entry and larceny. In Lutz's house a good hat which had been stolen from the rink one day this week was found. Young Stevens gave bail and denied everything but blamed Lutz and Morrissoy for being the guilty ones.

The news of the appointment of Major Griest was first made known to the people

The news of the appointment of Major Griest was first made known to the people of Lancaster by the Intelligences. It was placed on the bulletin board, but neither of the Republican offices saw fit to make the matter public.

The appointment was not much of a surprise to the people here as it was generally believed that it would be made after Griest had received the endorsement of Congressman Brosius. The other candidates give up the fight at that time. The sppointment is very distasteful to the anti-Quaymen and they were very angry when the news reached Lancaster to day. They declare that nothing will be left undone to defeat Brosius for a second term and they have several men in training to run against him. This is a victory for Griest and the congressman over both the Republican papers who have been keeping their pens off until after the appointment was made.

The news was very warmly received by the army of men in this city who are anxious to serve as letter carriers and clerks, and are already stirring themselves about very lively and petitions "will be flying in the air" by Monday.

Mysteries of Fairfield.

There is a good deal of excitement in the lower end of the county over the depredations and small robberies in the neighborhood of Fairfield. Frank's store at Lyles was entered not long ago and several pairs of overalls stolen were found in a field near Fairfield. The store of Hiram Wilson & Sons at Wakefield has also been entered and there have been many small robberies at neighboring farm houses. The cellar of Mr. N. N. Hensel has been entered every week and pies and other provisions cellar of Mr. N. N. Hensel has been entered every week and pies and other provisions carried off. Suspicion rests upon three mysferious men with no visible means of support who have been living in an old school house at Fairfield. One of them was formerly enployed for a short time in McSparran's cannery but claims to be a literary man, expert in the mixing of advertisements and literature. In a story now appearing in the New Era he advertises Mr. McSparran's cannery, and received ten dollars for doing so.

The people of the neighborhood appealed to the constable to search the school house and on Thursday he made a thorough examination, but found no evidence against the men and the mystery remains unsolved.
