ADDRESS, THE INTELLIGENCER, Lancaster, Pa.

LANGASTER, PA., December 30, 1889.

Au Illino's Decision.

A decision of the Illinois supreme court dissolving a trust that had gath-bred all the Chicago gas companies un-der its cover, and declaring that corporstions in Illinois could not be so licked together has created a great impression upon stock operators and has sent the taken of his other trusts rapidly downward. The property of the trust has not been diminished by the decision, as it owns all that it did before; but it has lost the power to monopolize and control the gas business of Chi-cago, which has been a chief element in the value of its greatly watered stock; and hence its rapid decline in price. Yet this decision is one which any one at all appreciative of the underlying principles of the law would have seen to be inevitable, when the question of trusts reached an unbiased and learned tribunal for its decision. It is a fact that the law as it stands, and has stood for ages, suffices under an honest and enlightened construction to protect the community from the gross impositions of combined capital which have become so common and so oppressive. It has not been enough that overgrown corporations should seek to unfairly use the power of their excessive capital; but a new device was called for to combine in one overwhelming mass all the corporations engaged in competitive business and the trust was the scheme adopted. Under it the corporations resigned their powers and property into the hands of a central directory, which administered their affairs and divided the accrued profits.

This was done in total disregard of the corporate obligations assumed to the state under the charter, in return for the powers which it conferred. Obviously the prime agreement made with the state, when these powers were obtained, was that they would be used by those receiving them and in a cordance with their stipulations. It requires little learning to see that when a corporation surrenders its powers to another corporation, and par alyzes itself, it has voluntarily forfeited its charter. It has not been granted the liberty it has taken to pass to others the control over its business which was granted to itself. It has not been given the power of transferring its franchise, or of leaving it in abeyance, while another power manipulates its property. It was given its privileges for use, not to lay away in a napkin while it put its property under other control. When it has no use for its privileges, its proper course is to go into liquidation and so release its property for any other use that may may await it.

The corporation is the state's creature. organized only for the purpose of making the capital of the people conveniently available. No advantage to the people comes from the massing or corporations into trusts; but decided disadvantages. And at any rate the thing cannot be done at the dictation of the corporations themselves; as this Illinois decision demonstrates.

The Congress.

This Congress being Republican in both branches with a Republican president, that party will of course be entirely responsible for the conduct of the government and the quality of legislation. The peculiarity of its position is that it has no majority to spare in Congress and will need to be united in its measures to secure their adoption against the Democratic sentiment. The situation promises safety to the country from radical legislation. The party in power is not strong enough to do any grievous wrong, however disposed. The opposition party is strong enough to hold it in check and so compel its moderation The time is opportune for beneficial and non-partisan legislation. No election is immediately pending to affect which clap-trap declarations are needed. As much consideration will be given to the merit of questions as the wisdom of the party in power will permit it to show. If there is any good in it, it has a fair chance for exhibition. It will need to compromise its opinions to bring them to fruitful legislation; or Democratic istance will have to be sought to settle the questions upon which the dominant party cannot agree. The Democratic a de will enjoy full opportunity to influence the legislation and will have a more comfortable time, by a good deal, than its opponents will have under the narrow majority which will keep them ever in hot water to maintain the supremacy which they hold by so frail a tenure. It is well that the Republican party has the Congress with the execu-tive, since it is so leashed that it can do no great harm. It must shoulder its full responsibility and let the country judge how fit it is to do what it has undertaken. This session of Congress will certainly be interesting, if not useful. If it develops Republican unity, and shows Republican wisdom, it will be well indeed for that party; but otherwise very ill.

The News for Stanley. Stanley calls for newspapers for the last three years so that he may learn what has been going on in the world during his absence. He has in that time been out of the world of progressive thought and action and away back in the barbarous world that the best part of the race escaped from long ago. He comes out of that dark continent of eternal war, triumphant violence and superstition into the full blaze of electric lighted, steel bound, steam power civilination, and asks for a report of progress and disaster. It is easy to imagine Stanley's eagerness to learn what empires have fallen or wars been fought, astions born and great discoveries made a that large slice of these very rapid

Three years ago a flerce debate was in che increase of the taxation and the huge military expenses. A member had called attention to the United States as model of a wise government, reducing ational debt, and in reply the old eter-al European war scare had been trotted out and put through the usual paces with the usual result of higher taxes.

After three years Stanley finds the warscare as Vigorous and taxation for armies heavier than ever. Von Moltke then startled Europe by declaring that the great expense of the existing military establishments warranted the belief that war must soon come. Decisive events must happen soon because Eu-rope could not stand the strain. Europe continues to stand the strain and in the news of the day is found an item describing the conferring of another deco-ration upon Von Moltke on his return from a visit to Turkey. Very little has happened in a military way since Stan-ley plunged into the African wilderness, but the world has been swinging right along nevertheless and nations have made blunders, met disasters and re-corded triumphs. France has just been celebrating her prosperity; three years ago she thought most of war and of Boulanger's duel with Eleguet: In America have had President Cleveland's message, the shortest on record but introducing the great issue of revenue reform, the Read-ing strike, the death of Roscoe Conkling and then of Phil Sheridan, yellow fever, Haytien troubles, Cleveland's message on the Canadian questions, the dismissal of Lord Sackville West the tth quotes a Russian doctor as authority for the statement that strychnine injected beneath the skin is a sure cure for drunkenness.

"The effect of the strychnine solution is to change the craving for drink into positive aversion, and this change is effected in a day. After a treatment of eight or ten days a patient may be discharged. The strychnine is administered by dissolving one grain in two hundred drops of water and injecting five drops of the solution every twenty-four hours."

Considering the numerous "certain cures" published from time to time, it is strange that so many people fail to be cured of drunkenness,

THE state department has been notified that American officers instructing the Corean army would be no longer needed in that country, and at the same time we learn that the Corean troops are being instructed in Russian tactics. This can hardly mean any emnity to the United States, but is simply one of the many signs of Russian advance on her Chinese frontier where she has found it hard to keep the peace, and where a large population would e fine prey for taxation if conquered. Corca is not in the dispute, but she may seem to lean a little towards Russia by way of warning the Celestial empire, that it won't do to interfere in Corean affairs or to make much of the ancient claim to severeignty over Corea.

OVER 2,000,000 FARMERS TO UNITE Agriculturists Throughout the Country to Combine for Mutual Protection. Evan Jones, of Texas, president of the National Farmers' and Laborers' union of America, arrived in St. Louis on Saturday. In reply to some interrogatories he said:

"Our dealing with the question of cotton bagging is a complete success. Up to the beginning of this year the jute men had it all their own way, but now the planters are all using cotton bagging, which will save to the farmers of the South anunally more than $2,000,000, and to the entire country, from $8,000,000 to $15,000,000.

"There are 50,000,000 yards of bagging used annually, and the demand is increasing, but after this year, there will be a superior.

ing, but after this year there will be no more jute bagging used, and the prices of low grade cotton will thereby be increased at least 25 per cent, which will make it a paying product, will increase the manufacturing industry of the country, and generally be a big thing for the South. But our work does not end here. As cotton growers we are interested in the welfare of the work does not end here. As cotton growers we are interested in the welfare of the whole country, and we came to St. Louis to unite with the farmers of the North and Northwest for our mutual welfare.

"The Northwestern Farmers Alliance, numbering $00,000 in membership, and representing the agricultural interests of the North and West, along with the Mutual Benefit association, which has a membership of between 50,000 and 100,000, have already signified their willingness to join us, and the Knights of Labor will have a special delegation here with that object. The Patrons of Husbandry, of whom there are about 1,500,000 in the country, also have been invited into our fraternity, and from my knowledge I have no doubt that they will be able to accept before long, though thay were not ready to act decisively in time for this convention."

A Bank Messenger Robbod. A Bank Messenger Robbed.

In Cleveland, Ohio, on Saturday, J. W. Brainard, messenger of the Commercial National bank, went to the German American bank and was paid $2,800. There were four packages of $500 each, and the remainder in bills. While counting the mioney a stranger standing by him called his attention to a certain check in the pile, While the missenger was answering the While the messenger was answering the question his eyes for a moment were off the pile of money on the desk before him. When he commenced counting again he discovered the loss of the four packages containing $2,000. The stranger had all of

There is no question about it-blood will tell—especially. If it be inspire blood. Blot hes, eruptions, pimples and boils, are all symptems of an impure blood, due to the improper action of the liver. When this important organ falls to properly perform its function of purifying and cleansing the blood, impurities are carried to all parts of the system, and the symptoms above referred to are merely evidences of the struggle of Nature to throw off the poisonous germs. Unless her warning be headed in time, serious results are certain to follow, culminating in liver or kidney disorders, or even in consumption. HOODS SARSAPARILLA.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a complaint which affects nearly everybody, more or less. It originates in a cold, or succession of colds, combined with impure blood. Disagreeable flow from the nose, tickling in the throat, offensive breath, pain over and between the eyes, ringing and bursting noises in the ears, are the more common symptoms. Catarch is cured by flood's Barsaparlila, which strikes directly at its cause by removing all impurities from the blood, building up the diseased tissues and giving healthy tone to the whole system. Hundreds of testimonials prove beyond question that a positive cure for catarch is found in Dangerous tendencies characterise that very common affection, estarrh in the head. The foul matter dropping into the bronchial tubes or lungs is very liable to lead to bronchials or consumption. As estarrh originated in impurities in the blood, local applications can do but little good. The common sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. The powerful action of this medicine upon the blood expels the scrotulous taint which feeds and sustains catarrhal disease, while it tones and builds up the affected membrane.
