Paschal tal., libel; Elias Snyder et al., violating

The first case called for trial was that cally libel; Elias Snyder et al., violating liquer law; S. M. Paschal tal., libel; Elias Snyder et al., violating chara.

The first case called for trial was that called James Bryson, of Ephrata, fer larcery. The testlimony of the commonwealth was that Bryson, on the 19th of August bought for cash from H. C. Lintner, of Millersville, a pair of mules for $237-50. Bryson wrote what Lintner thought was a check and handed it to him. He put it in his pocketbook and Bryson took the mules away. When Lintner examined the paper given by Bryson and found it to be a note payable in sixty days he went before a justice of the peace, entered snit for larceny, (Bryson having procured the mules by a trick, and had a search warrant issued, on which the mules were recovered near Churchtown. At the conclusion of the testimony for the commonwealth District Attorney Weaver and his associate stated to the court that the case could not be made out, and a verdict of not guilty was entered.

James Bryson and his son John Bryson, were put on trial on charges of felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods. The testimony of the commonwealth's witnesses was that Samuel Campbell had a male of live stock at Bird-in-Hand on Angust 17th, which was attended by James Bryson, one of the defendants in the case, and Oscar B. Roth, the prosecutor. Bryson bought a horse at this sale and Roth a pair of mules. Bryson went on Roth's note and Roth went on Bryson's note. On the road home from the sale it was agreed between the parties that Bryson should have the mules at the price Roth paid for them and Roth was to take a horse owned by Bryson, providing he proved satisfactory. The mules were left at the firm of Ida Rudy. Roth claimed that the horse of Bryson he had on trial did not work satisfactory, he returned it and took the mules from Rudy's stable to his own. On the night of the 25th of August the mules were securely locked in Roth's stable and on the next morning the the lock of the stable door was f
