A WOMAN'S CRIB BITTEN BY THE NEIGH-BOUR ON LOCUST ABOVE FRANKLIN.

She Leaves Her Home Half Dead and Calls Upon Officers for Protection.

Victory for the Rifle Club.

COLUMBIA, Jan. 2.—About 10 o'clock last night cries were heard issuing from the second story of a dwelling on Locust street, above Front. The cries were from a woman in distress, and the appeal was "Send for an officer."

The woman's husband had made her appearance at the front door. A voice from a young man in the rear said: "I came here on a visit and here is a nice carrying on; come in and take care of you," addressing the woman.

Officer Dinsinger was appealed to but could not leave his beat. A constable was called for who employ him. Officer Kip was called, but he said "I keep hands off such matters."

The place was shut up a few moments later and the mystery was solved. This morning the woman was interviewed and, with tears in her eyes, said that her husband had given her a beating and then hurried for a razor to continue his desperate work.

The woman's husband was a young man, a brother of the woman and is here on a visit. He is a well-to-do man, and the husband, who weighs nearly two hundred pounds.

A HUMAN SKELETON. Mr. William Cole tells a Reporter a remarkable True Story About His Sufferings—A Well-Known Young Gentleman of Heading Who Didn't Approve of Wasting Through Life a Human Skeleton.

Mr. William Cole, of 201 Franklin St., Reading, told a reporter last night how he became in the true sense of the word a walking skeleton. Mr. Cole is the youngest son of Charles Cole, a well-to-do and prosperous business man.

He is the youngest of two children. Perhaps there was never a happier family than the Coles and neither father or mother knew what trouble and worryment meant until about seven years ago, when their fifteen-year-old son Willie, the parents' pride and beloved child, became from a very healthy and strong youth, a languid sick boy.

Mr. Cole employed the best physicians and Homeopathic but without avail, the case puzzling our leading physicians, medicines did no good. Mr. Cole was reduced to a mere skeleton and became so weak rendering him unable to walk. He says he was suffering from pains all over his body, his stomach seemed as though a mass of steel rods were sticking into his torso, he had to be lifted and handled like an infant.

One leading professor of a medical college, of Philadelphia, was unable to give him relief, like many other physicians he had many other physicians, and after finding that no physician could do any good he submitted to taking quinine medicine, and his kidneys, etc., spending a small fortune, and the medicine he took would be enough to fill a drug store, but neither help nor cure would come. But, oh! how fortunately, in 1888, a friend of mine brought a physician, Dr. C. F. Theel, from Philadelphia to our house. He wished me to be allowed to be examined by him, and I can tell you he was the first physician who made a most thorough and careful examination of my whole body and urine, and my dear sister, who report that from that very moment I know that Dr. Theel had found the cause of my illness. But as he is an advertising physician my friends and parents had not much faith in him, but I begged my parents to allow Dr. Theel to treat me, and finally my request was granted. When I placed myself under his care the people in Reading said, "Oh, he is no good, like all other advertising doctors," etc. But I could not listen to them, I knew that I was in the hands of a man who was not only a physician but a scientist as well. Dr. Theel did have my good reward for my belief. Dr. Theel cured me in four months. After being under his treatment for two months I was able to march over two miles in the last presidential parade. I am thankful to Dr. Theel and grateful to God. Dr. Theel saved me from an early grave, and I assure you he is the greatest of all earthly physicians and perfect master of all ailments.

Dr. Theel, his son and associates will be here to-day, Thursday, Jan. 2, and remain here until Monday, Jan. 6, at the AMERICAN HOTEL, 215 North Queen St., Lancaster, Pa. The office hours are from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Evenings from 6 to 9 p. m. All those who cannot make a personal call, send all sufferers to go and see these learned physicians and specialists, but not to forget to take a clean bill of health from the doctor.
