Wrongs of the Utes.

There are signs of trouble between the in 1887 the country was startled with dire reports of an outbreak of the Ute Indians, and after being treated to wild tales of massacres of defenseless settlers by fiendish redskins, the shameful truth white horse thieves and gamblers against peaceable and law abiding In-dians, and the only massacre was by a body of Colorado militia. The facts of that episode of border history are briefly recited in the current number of the Forum, and it is added that the Indians have never been paid for the horses and sheep then stolen from them and property destroyed. Gen.Crook, Indian Com-Indian Agent Byrnes all urged the payment of these just claims, and yet nothing has been done by wealthy Uncle to pick a quarrel. The motives that

A more potent argument probably was the rapid approach of a small force of United States troops those atrocities, but the first step has yet to be taken towards fulfilling the promise of Byrnes in cash or ponies. Instead we have the governor of Colorade proclaiming the rumor that Indians are hunting in his mountains.

Piollet on the Tariff. Victor E. Piollet appeared before the tariff committee appealing for protection and the Chicago platform. A Democrat all his life he had succumbed to the tariff scare, and now with the courage of his convictions indignantly remarked that he thought the farmers had settled this tariff question at the polls in 1888. He demanded an increase of duties on agricultural products, and when asked how beef could be protected when two bundred million pounds are annually exported he replied : "Build up our manufactures, create a home rket and let us eat our beef here.' Colonel Piollet should have been refor the undertaking. The congressional committee and an interested lus and the appeals of suffering manuwrers for free raw material. Men of ale mould can find no middle ground tween a Chinese wall of taxation and ree trade. Their sincerity and zeal command respect, their arguments bur-lesque the Republican position and do more for the cause of tariff reform than refumes of more sober discussion.

Portugal's Quarrel. The dispute between England and tives. Major Pinto, with a strong force and Gatling guns, at once pacified the Makolalo. The Portuguese blame the English for instigating the native outbreak and the English accuse the Portuguese of hauling down their flag and illtreating their missionaries.

Rumor now has it that two of England's most powerful warships are to Ir has often been told that old Benjamin Franklin went to the court of France as a plain American without the prescribed court costume, and that all Europe ap planded his republican spirit. The fact, however, is noted in the Mogazine of American History that "the plain American" appeared among the nobles in a suit of black velvet with snowy ruffles at the wrist and bosom, white silk stockings and silver shoe buckles. Such was the fash-onable costume at that date for any gentleman at dinners and fetes in republican

America. The occasion of Franklin's appearance at court was the public acknowledgement by France of treaties with America, which had just been signed. The American envoys were to be presented to the occasion which did not fit. The wig-maker tugged and manipulated until Franklin binted that the wig was too small. "Ob, no, impossible!" was the reply, but after a few more efforts the man exclaimed: "No, it is not the wig that is oo small, it is your head that is too large!"

It being too late to get another wig, Frank lin went without a court dress, but in the costume of equal elegance and greater com-

HOOD'S SARSAPARITLA.

The Plain Truth Is that Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured thou-sands of people who suffered severely with rheumatism. It neutralizes the factic acid in the blood, which causes these terrible pains and aches, and also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus preventing the recurrence of the disease. These facts warrant us in urging you, if you suffer with rheumatism, to give stood's parille a trial.

"For 25 years I have suffered with sciation rhenmatism. Last November I was taken worse than ever, and was unable to get out of the house. I was almost

THAT TERRIBLE " GRIPPE,"

What It Really Is Explained by One of othe Best Informed Men in America. The president of one of the leading New York Medical colleges, in conversation with the writer, the other evening, said:

"La Grippe,' the Russian influenza, that has caused so much talk, is a more severe affliction than people usually think. It arises mysteriously and appears to have its origin in the atmosphere. The last time it visited America was in 180, and it came then, as now, from Asia. The name 'influenza' comes from the suggestion that the malady was due to the 'influences' of the heavenly bodies, but more modern science has discovered that is due to the changes in the electrical conditions. Whatever may be the cause, it is a strong congestion of the blood vessels and nucous membrane, principally in the head and throat, and nothing but strong stimulants will check this congestion and keep the blood actively circulating. For this purpose I know of nothing better than pure whiskey, and I believe Duffy's Pure Maltio be the best and purest whiskey known in the pure whiskey, and I believe Duny's Pure Matt to be the best and purest whiskey known in the world.

Formerly this influenza was said to precede an epidemic of the plague, and the person who was about to be taken with the latter, had as a preliminary a fit of successing. Now it precedes a worse epidemic than the plague, namely, the terrible pneumonia. Its beginning is slight but its ending is often terrible. Pains in the himbs, back, chest and head; a sore throat and lach of appetite; copious discharges of the nose; these are some of the symptoms of this dread disease. Upon the slightest approach of any of these symptoms, a nervous feeling, or inssitude, resort should be had to a pure whiskey, which is the only certain means of breaking up this epidemic before it secures a hold upon the system, or check it when it has become started. Care should be taken, however, to secure only that which is pure, as the article above named certainly is. to be the best and purest whiskey known in the

Shortly after breaking out it spread rapidly all over her body. The scabs on the sores would peal off on the slightest touch, and the odor that would arise would make the atmosphere of the room sickening and unbearable. The disease next attacked the eyes and we feared she would lose her sight. Eminent physicians of the country were consuited, but could do nothing to relieve the little innocent, and gave it as their opinion, that the case was hopeless and impossible to save the child's eyesight. Old Chief Colorow is dead, and it would not be strange if, brooding upon their wrongs, the younger braves are less careful to give their savage white enemies a chance urge the border desperadoes are plain enough. Not only may Indian live stock be selzed, but at the first sign of trouble bounties might be gained for Indian scalps. In 1886 several counties offered over two hundred dollars apiece for Indian scalps. Then an Indian war brings troops and troops bring money to pay for supplies and various services. It is also shrewdly noted that Indian wars usually mean more laud thrown open to the claims and speculations of of the whites. In justice to the scalphunting counties it should be said that the people had horrible memories of savage warfare that were not calculated to develop merciful sentiments towards old Colorow and his band. The offense now charged against the Utes is the same that found the excuse for the disgraceful attack upon them in 1886. They are said to be hunting in the state of Colorado, a privilege allowed them at certain easons by United States law; although the state has announced that if any Ute shot at sight. In 1887 the Indians sold a score of ponies to two well known gamblers; two of these ponies were laimed by a white man who said they had been stolen from him. The Indians denied this, but gave the gamblers two more horses. It was on the charge of the theft of these returned ponies that Sheriff Kendall, three months later, attacked the Indians with a force of Colorado militia. Meanwhile a game warden went to their hunting camps and watched for violations of the state dozen Indians and returned with astrong posse, but instead of explaining his errand and arresting his men, provoked the Utes by seizing the little son of a chief. The father interfered and was shot, and the Indians fled into the bush. The posse then attacked another camp, from which all the braves were absent. They insulted and drove out the women and children, and burned and destroyed everything. Colorow asked for an explanation and was ordered to leave within fifteen days. While on full retreat, seven days later, he was overtaken by Sheriff Kendall and the force of state militia, and asked to wait until the next morning. The next morning while at breakfast the Indians were suddenly fired upon by the whites who had stealthily crept towards them. Chief Achee ran towards the line of Colorado riflemen, imploring them not to shoot until the women and children could be removed. He was shot. There were only twenty-five fighting men in this body of Indians, and the whites, numbering one hundred and eighty, fired on them for three hours, and then seized their herd of three hundred ponies. That night Colorow was joined

The free use of the German drug antipyriue in the treatment of "la grippe" has given rise to many questions as to the effects of its promiscuous use. Professor Pancoast stated last night that it is a powerful drug and must be handled gingerly, but that in the hands of a physician it is perfectly safe to use in treating influenza. Dr. Robert Bartholow, who has made a Dr. Robert Bartholow, who has made a careful stady of "la grippe" and its cure, said of antipyrine: "It is a product of the laboratory, and physicians know as well what its effects are as they do of opium and other drugs. The dose should be regulated by the disease and the temperament of of the patient." Dr. James E. Garretson says: "It is a powerful drug, and should only be used under the direct supervision of the physician. Like morphia, it is dangerous to handle, and is an edged tool in the hands of the mass of the people. The use of too much of it would affect the action of the heart and the circu-people. The use of too much of it would affect the action of the heart and the circu lation, and have a bad and depressing effect on the whole system." Released on Ball.

Dr. Kniffin and Miss Purcell, arrested on suspicion for the murder of Mrs. Kniffin, at Trenton, New Jersey, were released on Thursday by Chief Justice Beasley in £20,090 ball each.
