On Friday a score of sdult negrous accompanied by half a hundred black children, went to the high school and demanded sadmission.

Buperintendent Powell is a mild-manner if man and offered no obstruction. The mast children walked in and took possession of all the desks they found unocented. The white pupils protested, and beans to pack up their books and make preparations to leave. Some of the colored boys grinsed at the white girls and as soon as the marro men left the building the white papils assaulted the blacks.

There was a hard fight for fifteen minutes, during which books, lukstands, rulers, alates and hair filled the sir. The white finally drove the blacks cut of the room, chasel them cut of the yard, and continued the fight in the street. The white girls arged their champions on with encouraging shouts, and brought them munitions of war when possible.
