Frank Henry, of Palmyra, Lebanon County, was tried for the larceny of a road vart and harness, the property of John Ready, who pleaded guilty on Monday to horse stealing and larceny and is under sentence of four years and two mouths in the Eastern panitentiary. According to Ready's testimony he met Henry at Palmyra and he went with witness through when Collins Station was reached. vitcess went into a cigar store to get some obacco and cigars and while he was in the ore making the purchase Henry drove off the cart and that was the last he saw of his cart and harness. It was found the mme night at Adam Reinhold's hotel in farietta, where it had been abandoned by Henry.

The defendant showed that Ready enmaged him at Palmyra to take two horses anon, and he drove with him for five When Collins Station was read Henry said to Ready that he was going to save him, as he did not think matters were straight the way he acted, and at that station he got out of the cart and Ready drove off. Henry walked to Middletown, where e took the train for Palmyrs and reached that town before the alleged stolen cart and barness were found at Marietta. Many citizens of Palmyra, who had known Henry from his boyhood, gave him the very best character for honesty, and in addition Constable Bell testified that the cart and harness claimed by Ready as his property was not his, as it has been claimed by Adam Barnhart, of Aunville, Lebanon county, and given to him. The district attorney abandoned the case, and the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

Frank Leisy entered a plea of guilty of fornication committed with Mrs. Mary Alice Wanamaker, and the court sentenced him to pay a fine of $50 and costs. Henry Moyer, of Millport, Warwick township, was tried for the larceny of half a dozen leghorn chickens, the property of Jacob Brendinger. The commonwealth proved that prosecutor lost the chickens, that Moyer sold chickens at Frymoyer's store, which were identified by Brendinger as the ones stolen from him by peculiar marks he had put on them.

The defense was that Moyer bought the chickens, not knowing that they were stolen. He denied having stolen the chickens, and in his testimony as to purchasing them he was corroborated by wife. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

Lewis Weber, a stranger, was put on trial for stealing a satchel from Augustus Kiehl. The testimony showed that on the 7th of November Kiehl and half a dozen other men slept at the brewery in Manheim borough. During the night Weber left and the next morning Kiehl missed his satchel. Weber's description furnished to the constables of Man-

Mr. Jacob S. Smith, is to be counnended for the manner he manages this institution. It is but just to the officials of this institu-tion to make special memiors of the good condition in which we found, not only the building, but, also, its surroundings. In the home for friendiess children there are 50 boys, 37 girls; 4otal 107. Of these 10 are colored boys and 5 are colored girls. Gi of the above number have been attacked with "in gripps," but no deaths have co-curred. There have been no deaths in the institution within the last two years, and only five deaths have occurred in the last eleven years. This heme is well managed, and Miss Martha S. Kieffer and her assist-ants could not be excelled for the respon-sible position of matron and teschers. The grand inquest would repeat the mede to the apartments for the secommo-dation of the commonwealth's witnesses so that they may be beiter kept for the con-venience of all grand inquests and the court in general.

The court thanked the grand inquest for the efficient manner in which they disthe efficient manner in which they discharged their duties. The court did not see the necessity for a new county building. The report showed that there are a number of insane which could be sent to the asylum at Harrisburg, and kept there cheaper than at the institution, and by removing them that much room would gained. As to proper accommodations for witnesses appearing before the grand in-quest, the court thought that an annex would be built by the commissioners in the near future. DESERTION AND SURETY CASES.

Sarah Birely, of Eden township, was charged by her mother-in-law, Louisa Birely, with surety of the peace. The prosecutor testified that on the 17th of Deember her daughter-in-law raised a stove-lifter and threatened to knock out her brains. The defendant testified that her motherin-law and father-in-law came to her house on the above named date and attempted to take possession. She ordered them eut, but denied having made any threats,

A desertion case against Daniel G.Birely, husband of the defendant in the above case, was next heard. Mrs. Birely testified that the was afraid to remain at home and went to her father's. On cross-examination she dmitted that she went from her home voluntarily and left her children in the house for her husband to care for, and said that when she returned to her home, after being advised, was not allowed to enter. The husband said he was willing to take his wife and provide a home for her, providing she would do her part as a wife, and the court continued both cases to the March term to give the parties an opportunity to adjust their differences. The desertion case against Monroe Imhoff, of Mt. Joy, was continued to the A Postoffor Official's Suicide.

A Postoffice Official's Suicide. George Lounsberry, cashier of the post-office in New York city, committed suicide Friday at his home in Hackensack, N. J., and it was discovered that he was a de-hultor. He had been absent from duty for three days, and on Friday morning tele-graphed to Postmaster Van Cott that he was confined to his homes by Illness and would attend to his duties as soon as he pot better. It was then that the investiga-tion are made, and it was estimated that $20,000 were gone. not live a clergyman was sent for and Rev. Mr. Holly answered the summons.

Besides the clergyman there were present in the death chamber Doctors Adams and St. John and Inspector Wheeler, Hartshorn and Morris, of the United States postoffice. The inspectors remained in the house until physicians announced the death of their patient.

The Mayoralty Fight

Dr. S. T. Davis has announced himself as candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor, and others in the race are ex-Sheriff High and Charles Denues. It will likely be quite a hot fight. Davis is to be the candidate of the Mentzer faction, and Denues that of the Hartman people. Sheriff High says he will not withdraw, as the ago. The Morning News mays of Davis: "His cause has been espoused by Pro-thonotary Mentzer and Postmaster Griest. It is said that pledges for Davis have been elicited from the postoffice employes, and that they and their friends will make the fight for him." Sold By the Sheriff.

Sheriff Burkholder sold the following properties at the court house this afternoon: A tract of 44 acres and 100 perche land, situated in Ephrata township, with two-story stone house, barn, summer house and other buildings, as the property of Samuel Shirk, to John F. Haines for $500.

A CROWD TO SEE NELLIE THE WORLD'S TRAVELER PASSES THROUGH

HERR ON ATLANTIC EXPRESS.

And the Shakes the Hands of a Large Number While the Train Waltant the Station-A Reception in Harrisburg.

Miss Nellie Bly, the young woman who became famous by making a quick trip around the world, will have completed her task by the time the INTELLIGENCER reaches its readers this evening. The young lady left Chicago on one of the regular trains of the Fonnsylvanis railroad yesterday morning, and it was known that she would pass through Lancaster, unless she would take the Limited Express, which man around the city by way of the out of runs around the city by way of the cut off. This forenoon is was learned that ale was a passenger on Atlantic Express, which was due here at 11:35. This fact soon became known about town, as it was announced upon the bulletin board in the P. R. R. station which is used for giving the times of departure for different trains. On the other side of the board were the words "On Time" for Atlantic Express. Long before 11 o'clock people began to wend their way to the station, and there must have been considerably over a thou-sand people in an about the station when the train arrived. There were a great number of ladies all anxious to see the young traveler. A dispatch from Harris-urg stated that she was in the last car of the train, which was a vestibule. As soon as the engine put in an appearance a howl from the hundreds of small boys, that had assembled, went up. Everybody rushed for the rear of the train which was up in the neighborhood of Miller & Hartman's warehouse. As soon as the train stopped there was a rush to take Miss Nel lie by the hand and the car was surrounded by a great crowd, some of whom acted like wild people. Miss Bly soon made her appearance on the platform. She is a young woman in her twen-ties and of rather slight build. She wore a checkered ulster and a double rimmed cap. She has a very pleasant face and looks like a whole souled young woman. While the train was standing she was kept as busy as a bee shaking hands with the big crowd, and it was impossible for any one to hold a conversation with her, although coveral newspaper men tried it very hard. She seemed greatly pleased with her reception, and her face was covered with smiles as long as the train remained. While Miss Bly was busy shaking people by the hand some one in the crowd proposed three cheers for her and they were given with a will. Those who could not shake the girl by the hand were obliged to sontent themselves cheer-ing for her. It was surprising, however, what a large number were able to get her hand, and they hung on the car platform like flies. Those who got to the girl's side were scarcely able to get away, so dense was the crowd. This thing was kept up until the train started, and as it left Miss

Bly remained upon the platform waving her cap to the crowd as long as they were in sight.

The only newspaper man from a dis-tance that met Miss Bly here was Rufus Reed, of the Philadelphia News. He came up in a morning train specially to meet Miss Bly, and his intention was to inter-view her between this city and Philadelphia, where the newspaper men gave her a varm reception. There were many funny little incidents while Miss Bly's train stood in the station From the Northwestern Magazine. It may not be generally known that when exposed to severe cold a feeling of warmth is readily created by repeatedly filling the lungs to their utmost extent in the following manner: Throw the shoulders well back and hold the head well up. Inflate the lungs slewly, the air entering entirely through the nose. When the lungs are completely filled, hold the breath for ten seconds or longer, and then expire it quickly through the mouth. After repeating the exercise while one is chilly, a feeling of warmth will be felt over the entire body, and even in the feet and hands. It is important to practice the exercise many times each day, and es-pecially when in the open air. If the habit ever becomes universal, then consumption and many other diseases will rarely, if ever be heard of. Not only while practicing the loose over the chest, but beginners will do well to remember in having their clothing fitted to allow for the permanent expan-sion of one, two or even three inches which will follow. and it was curious to watch how anxious the people were to get up to the young isdy. One little fellow, who had a tin bucket filled with dinner, which he was probably carrying to his father, got in the crowd. He was hustled around so much that the lid finally came off the kettle and the dinner was spilled all over the platform. It was too late to save any of it, as the pushing, surging crowd walked right over it. The party for whom the dinner was intended probably went hungry, but the boy had a shake of Nellie Bly's hand; that was all he cared for. A young fellow was asked by a friend whether he had haken Nelly. He replied : "I was in the crowd almost up to her when a darkey that weighed about 200 pounds stepped on my foot. On account of the pain I forgot al about the young traveler, and I am not over it yet." The Reception at Harrisburg. A CONSTABLE DIES.

Christian Herr, of The Eighth Ward,

Passes Away From Pneumopia. Christian Herr, constable of the Eighth ward, died at the home of Albert Iske, on West King street, with whom he boarded, about half past two o'clock on Friday afternoon. About a week ago he was taken with an attack of is grippe, and was out for the last time on Monday, when he made his return to the quarter sessions court. After going home he grew worse and on Wednesday pneumonia developed, causing his death. He was con-scious to the last and spoke to his son just a short time before he died. The deceased was in the 63d year of his age. He was born in Germany and came to this country with his father when a little boy. They settled in Lancaster. Christian became a brickmaker. He worked for the late Henry P. Carson and others for years, and in 1990 moved to Elizabethtown. From that place he went to Harrisburg in 1985, returning to Lancaster in 1867. For about eight years he worked in the yards of Jacob Pontz, and last summer was employed by Prangley & Son. Two years ago he was elected constable of the Eighth ward, a position that he filled very well. He served in the army and was first lieutenant of a company that started from Elizabethtown. He was also member of the old Jackson Rifles. He leaves two children. One of these is ex-Policeman John Herr and the other Mrs. Catherine St. Clair. He was a man of jovial disposition and had many friends, especially among young folks, who will greatly miss him.

HUNTOON, esq., president—Dear Sir : I thank you for sonding me your ad-dress made at the convention of the Cus-tom Foremen Tailors' association, and I have read the same with interest. "The question of tariff reform directly affects all the people of the land in a sub-stantial way, and they ought to be inter-ested in its discussion. I am afraid that a great many of our feilow-eitizens are too apt to regard this as a political question, intricate and complex, affecting them in a remote way, and one which may well over. This induces a neglect of the subject on the part of a great number of our people, and a willingness to blindly follow the party to which they happen to belong in their action upon it. "It is a good sign to see practical men, such as belong to your association, discuss-ing the question for themselves. The commission of J. Harold Wicker-sham, re-appointed a notary public by Governor Beaver, has been received at the

A $500,000 LAMP POST. To Be Planted By Uncle Sam in Sand

And Water. Bids will be opened in the office of the lighthouse beard, at Washington, D. C., July I, for the erection of a lighthouse on the Outer Diamond shoal, off Cape Hatteras, N. C. The total cost of the structure is limited by act of Congress to half a million dollars. The Diamond shoals, which lie southeasterly of Cape Hatteras, have always been dreaded by mariners as the most ex-posed and dangerous locality on the estire Atlantic coast, and a large number of ves-sels have been wrocked there annually, in-volving enormous losses of life and prop-serty. And Water.

volving enormous losses of life and prop-erty. A lighthouse on the outer shoal would have undoubledly saved many of these vessels, as the nearest light on Cape Hat-teras is invisible in bad weather. A light has never been erected in this shoal before on account of the extraordinary engineer-ing difficulties in the way, and the work now contemplated will be the greatest undertaking in the line of lighthouse-building in the world. There are but two lighthouses in the world that can be at all compared with it. These are the, Rother-mand light at the mouth of the Weser river, Holland, in the North See, and the four-teen-foot light at the mouth of the Dela-ware bay.

Holland, in the North Sea, and the four-teen-foot light at the mouth of the Dela-ware bay. The tower is to be one hundred and fifty feet high from low water mark to the light in the lantern. It will have to be of great strength to withstand the action of the sea, and will have to rest on solid rock beneath the ever-shifting sands of the aboal. To obtain this solid foundation and get the structure to such a height that the first rough weather will not destroy it utterly is the great problem that the builders will have to solve. When all the edges rest firmly on the rock the entire calsson and tube will be filled with concrete to a height of thirty feet above the sea level, converting it into a solid block and column of stone almost as firm as a granite monolith. The action of the seas and the constant scouring of the structubel. It will be protected, however, by a rip-rap packing of granite blocks weighing not less than two tons each. Above this solid structure will rise an iron and steel tower divided into ten stories, including the wateh-room and the lanter. After getting the caleson towed out to its lantern.

iron and steel tower divided into ten stories, including the watch-room and the lantern. After getting the caisson towed out to its final resting place the contractors will have to work night and day, without a moment's intermission until it rests on its foundation and the concrete is filled in, for if a storm should arise before this work was done everything would be destroyed. At the Rothersand light, which was built on this principle, the first caisson was thus de-stroyed and the contractor was financially ruined by the loss. In this lighthouse the first floor will be devoted to stores, the second to the fog signal machinery. The third floor will be a fireproof storehouse for oil for the lamps. The next four floors will contain the living rooms for the keeper and his assistants. The eighth floor will be the service room, and above is will rise the watch room and the lastern. The lighthouse board does not specify what method shall be adopted, built it is generally understood that an immense caisson, eighty or one hundred foet in dia-moter, with a hollow iron cliinder project-ing from its centre, will be built at the most convenient port. This will resemble a signatic iron pan turned upside down, with a tabe running from its centre. This caission will have to be towed out to the site, being lifted on the way over a bar where there is but eight feet of water at high tide. When it is finally at the site it will be sank rapidly until its cutting edges rest on the sands of the shoal. Then the work of excavation will be begun and car-ried on as fast as the most modern appli-ances will admit. As the sand beneath the caisson is excavated and carried up through the tabe the sharp edges will aink lower until finally bed rock is reached. FIGHTING FOR LIBERTY. HERR NOST TO APPRAL TO THE BIGBERT TRIBUNAL IN NEW YORK.

The Supreme Court Approves Ris Sentence Of a Year In the Penitentiary For Using Seditious Language.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 .- Herr John Most the Anarchist, whose conviction and sentence to one year in the penititiary was affirmed yesterday by the get eral term of the supreme court, was ar-rested to-day. He was captured by detectives as he was leaving the house of Mrs. Ida Hoffman, who was on his bond pend-ing the decision of the general term. He expects his counsel to obtain a further stay of the proceedings and another release on bail while his case is carried to the court of appeals. Most was convicted of using language tending to incite riot while making a speech at a meeting of Anarchists held in guage tending to incite riot while m November, 1887, to denounce the hanging of Chicago Anarchists.

Judge O'Brien, of the supreme court, this morning granted a writ of habeau corpus requiring John Most's production in chambers on Monday. The petition set forth that as there are grave constitutional questions involved in Most's sentence, he is desirous of having the case passed upon by the court of appeals. His counsel will ask on Monday that he be admitted to ball pending the appeal.

The court fixed next Saturday for a further hearing of the case. The facts in the desertion case of Leopold Bender were similar and this case was lso continued until next Saturday. Fred Merz, of Providence township, was charged by his wife, Minnie, with having threatened to kill her, and also with desertion. According to her testimony her husband ill-treated, abused and threatened her, in consequence of which she was obliged to withdraw from his home in December last.

If the testimony of the husband was to be believed, all the trouble was caused by his wife, who on several occasions struck him. It was shown in his behalf that he was a good provider for his family. Merz was directed to pay $1.25 per week for the maintenance of his wife and child.

The surety of the peace case was dismissed. CURRENT BUSINESS. Horace G. Slote, who served a term for costs in an assault and battery case, was discharged under the insolvent law. H. M. North presented a petition signed by the members of the bar praying the court to make an order for the indexing of the records in the orphans' court office Mr. North referred to the great necessity for such indexing. The court took the petition and said they would examine the matter

TALMAGE AND GLADSTONE.

The Minister Spends An Afternoon With the Statesman.

the statesman. On Friday Dr. Talmage, of Brooklyn, took luncheon and spent the afternoon with Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden Castle. Mr. Gladstone had telegraphed him yes-terday, " Pray come to Hawarden to-mor-row." Dr. Talmage was received very cor-dially by the ex-premier and the two gen-men had a long talk on religious and politi-cal questions. Mr. Gladstone said : " Talk about questions of the day, there is but one question, and that is the gospel. It can and rules. about questions of the day, there is but one question, and that is the gospel. It can and will correct everything needing correction. All men at the head of great movements are Christian men. During the many years I was in the cabinet I was brought into association with sixty master minds, and all but five of them are Christians. My only hope for the world is in bringing the human mind into contact with divine buman mind into contact with divine revelation." Then, placing his hand on Dr. Talmage's shoulder, Mr. Gladstone warmly eulogized the doctor's Christian zeal and expressed his great gra'ification at the marvellous publicity given to his sermons which are now distributed in all hands and react in all languages.

victorious. Mr. Gladstone brightened up and re-sponded emphatically: "Yes, when next election comes." He continued: "It seems to be a dispensation of God that I should be engaged in battle. At my time of life I should be resting. I never had any option in these matters. I dislike contest, but when Ireland, once the refuge of persecuted Englishmen, showed herself ready to adopt a richteous constitution and do her full a righteous constitution and do her full duty, I hesitated not a moment to espouse her cause." Concerning America he said: "No one outside of the United States is bound to love it more than I am."

Pointing to numerous beautiful gifts from America, he went on to say: "Everyfrom America, he went on to say: "Every-where I have practical expression of the tender thoughtfulness and kindness of the American people." Towards evening,

The Mt. Joy Star prints an extract from a letter from Mrs. Philip Figyelmesy [who is a daughter of the late Prof. S. S Haldeman,] of Tarin, Italy, lately o Marietta. The letter was written on Christmay Day. She says: "When tramp ing about the cold palaces and museums, often think of the warm Stauffer mansion and how brother Stauffer would shiv and shake if fie had to spend a month he I am at present writing on top of the stove in order to keep warm. Yesterday when in the Museum of Natural History with Haide, we saw a shell with father's name on it—one of those he had described. We have been to break fast at Kossuth's (the exiled Hungarian patriot,] and colonel is there every evening; Halde and I go also, but not quito so often. The old gentleman is 78, and is really astonishing. He plays billiards two or three hours a day, and can read and write without spectacles. His sister lives with him; she was many years in the states, and likes America very much."

Almost a Fire.

Last evening there was almost a fire in the office of George N. Reynolds, the in-surance agent, which is in the Jeffries building, next door to the Lancaster County house. The Jeffries family live in the other part of the house and they smelled smoke. They thought the house was on fire, but did not know where it was. Charles W. Eckert passed by at the time and he was told of the state of affairs. He union ; that make 100 a quorum of the com-mittee of the whole; that re-establish the old morning hour rule when business must be considered in the order of the commit-tee list and bills must be regarded as pend-ing until disposed of, and that fail to make privileged the motions to adjourn to a fixed day or take a recess. There was a long discussion over these proposed changes, which failed to result in the advancement of any practical scheme for the ameliora-tion of the repugnant feature of the new rules. looked into the window of Mr. Reynolds' office and saw the stove was red hot. He did not wait to go home for his old fireman's hat, but jumped in through the window and opened the stove door. The wood work around the door was smoking hot and the paint was cracked off. Had it not been for Mr. Eckert's timely arrival a bad fire might have taken place. By some mistake the person who was in the office last had neglected to open the stove door Then the contested election cases were and that caused the trouble.

Then the contested election cases were talked over, and Mr. Crisp told of the pur-pose of the Republicans to call up the first of the West Virginia cases. It is generally agreed that the intention of the Republi-cans is to unseat as many Democrats and seat as many Republicans as will give them for magnitude mainting the sector. Went To The Wrong Place. Alderman Deen heard a noise seat as many Republicans as will give them a fair working majority and insure a quorum, in order to force through the rules. Although no formal resolution was adopted, it was a matter of under-standing among the Democratic members when the caucus adjourned that this Rs-publican plan should be resisted to the utmost, and that the minority should exer-cise all of its constitutional rights to pre-vent its success. In other words, the deat his back door, and Constable Pyle, who was sitting in the office, went to the and found Miller falling around and acting as though he desired to stand on his head. When the officer spoke to him he was very impertinent, so he was taken to the station house. This morning Alderman Deen sent him to jail for twenty cise an of its constitutional rights to pre-termination is to fight the rules legitimately when obnoxious sections are reached, and to refrain from voting and leave the House without a quorum if an attempt is made to unseat Democratic members before the rules are adouted. days.
