Reaching for a Majority.

Speaker Reed relieves his pent-up feelings with an explanation. He has done what he has done for the public good and for the benefit of his party.

Democrats in Congress who are drawing their thirteen dollars a day for doing nothing. The Republican flock which he is caring is a sickly lot which is forced to gather together into the House in solid phalanx to keep the healthy Democrats from running away with it.

He thought he had the thing nicely arranged when he prevented the establishment of rules and counted in the Democrats to make the quorum, as no speaker before him had ever done. He was not even embarrassed by this fact that ten years ago the Democratic party was in the situation in the House that the Republican party holds now.

A DOUBLE DUEL.

In Virginia With Mississippi Rifles at Forty Paces. A party of Southern congressmen are discussing the recent Calhoun-Williams duel in the Metropolitan hotel lobby recently, writes a Washington correspondent.

Speaking of duels, I remember a remarkable one fought with Mississippi rifles, at forty paces, by the way, Colonel A. H. Belo, of the Galveston News, was one of the principals.

It was in March, 1853, just previous to the battle of Fort Sumter. The two street troops were besieging Suffolk. One night when the Fifty-fifth North Carolina regiment was on duty the Yankees charged, captured the battery and raised the blockade.

Next day Colonel Connolly, of that regiment, rode up to the headquarters of General Law, of Alabama, and inquired if Law had reported that his regiment behaved badly the night before. Law said he had made a report, and it came to him from Captain Cousins and Terrell, of his staff.

Connolly replied to the colonel's question with a light smile. "No, colonel, I do not remember having made such a report, but I will tell you what I do say—if your regiment had been in front of me last night very promptly."

"Cousins," replied the colonel, "for that matter, I will hold you personally responsible." Cousins bowed and said, "All right, colonel, I shall be happy to accommodate you."

The colonel made a mistake. Capt. Terrell was about as recklessly brave as Cousins; there were not two braver men in his army.

Connolly retired, and a short time afterwards Major Belo returned with a note to each. Both accepted the challenge, when Belo, as an act of courtesy, took Cousins to the field.

The next day the meeting occurred in an old field near Suffolk. It was a gloomy, misty day. The spectators were few and remained at a respectful distance. Mississippi rifles were the weapons used and forty paces the distance.

While Connolly and Terrell were getting ready to fight on one side of the field, Belo and Cousins without delay got at their work on the other. They exchanged two shots each. Cousins' second shot hit Belo slightly across the neck. Thereupon the weapons were handed the seconds to be reloaded, when Cousins remarked to Belo that he had been shot in the neck.

"Major," he was doing very poor shooting to-day. If we don't do better at the Yankees we won't get any meat." This being replied, Cousins and Terrell said he was not hurt. Just as they were preparing to fire a third time a runner came up from the other combat announcing that the duel had been called off.

Connolly and Terrell went to fight with double-barrelled shotguns. The weapons were loaded and placed in their hands a parley was had between the seconds, and after considerable talk Connolly's second withdrew the challenge, which of course ended the matter.

Connolly, whose courage was somewhat doubted on account of the settlement afterwards, behaved most gallantly, and lost an arm leading his regiment in a charge at Gettysburg. After the close of the war he married a wealthy Virginia lady, and became a senator in Virginia. He was one of those who escaped unhurt when the ceiling fell in the state house. After that event, Connolly said God had been good to him, and spared his life so often that henceforth he would devote his life to His service.

John Wanamaker.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Feb. 3, 1890. The distinction which he is now trying to emphasize between Oriental Silks and the common imitations is having effect. If Philadelphians are deceived this concern it will probably be their own fault.

The real and imitation are often mixed in the same lines, and unless you are watchful you may draw a blank. Other houses than ours have the genuine goods and sell them with perfect honesty—but not all.

Some days since we told you that our first lot of Chinese and India Silks were ready; to-day some thirty-odd more styles make the assortment more complete, and still more are coming.

Prices 75 cents to $2.75. Also plain colored Shanghai Silks in the shades of the period. $1.27 inches wide.

Silks of another needed sort. Colored Faile Francaise. More than thirty shades made to our special order, and carefully selected; 21 and 22 inches, $1.50. There is something special about this lot, and the colors so special that you cannot find them otherwheres than here.

Women's, Misses', Children's sizes. Light grades at 15 to 75c. Firsts of the same styles would be 35c to $2.

Table Linen. $1 Bleached Damask at 70c. Yes, it has one fault—some of it has been tumbled about a bit in the store. Soft finish; no starchy nonsense. Honest work without pretense.

So of the 19-inch German Cream Damask Napkins at 85c a dozen. We put them beside any at $1.25.

Umbrellas. As handsome a lot as you'll see in many a day. Silver and gold handles, covered with a silk-and-cotton stuff that won't cut or fade—so they say.

26-inch: $1.50 to $4.00 kind for $2.50 $2.00 to $6.00 kind for $3.50 28-inch: $1.75 to $3.50 kind for $3.00 $3.00 to $7.00 kind for $5.00

Handles alone are worth from $1 to $3 each.

Boots and Shoes.

Boots and Shoes. BOOTS AND SHOES. TAKING ACCOUNT OF STOCK. STACKHOUSE'S, 28 and 30 East King St. HAS CLEARED OUT THE CORNERS AND REVEALED GOODS THAT MUST "MOVE" IF AT YOUR OWN PRICES!

BOOTS AND SHOES. AT NOMINAL FIGURES. D. P. STACKHOUSE, Nos. 28 and 30 East King Street, LANCASTER, PA. STRONG! SERVICEABLE! LOW IN COST!

Shoes made for hustling Young America—for stout, robust, active boys, ever on the jump, the run, it costs money to keep such feet properly clad—to keep them within leather at reasonable cost. Shoes for the boys must have few weak points—ought to have uppers made from leather stout and plump in grade, tough and strong in grain to resist severe strain, and not readily crack on breaks; good counters to preserve their shape; good bottom stock to stand the rough usage it's sure to get. We have them, built strongly by thorough practical shoemakers, made of material tried and found right. Being sold to the boys, let us show them. Keep account of the cost. Note the amount of wear given! That makes shoe-buyers shoe wise and brings them our way time after time.

Here's a cheap shoe to start with—good stock well made; have seamless uppers, nicely fitted and finished, Button or Lace, sizes 3 to 5, at $1.00. Fine Buff Lace and Button Dress Shoes, sizes 3 to 5, at $1.25; stylish and attractive looking. Finer Buff Lace and Button Dress Shoes—all leather—nothing but leather from top to tip; right for style, right for wear, at $1.50. Youth's Veni Cal Shoes, hop-scotch, foot ball, shiny regulites—good looking, strong; have soles and taps, neat pretty tips; the make and finish first-class, $1.50 a pair. Higher grades of shoes in handsome styles; Congress, button or lace, at $1.75 and $2.00. Youth's Shoes, admirable shapes, at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $1.00.
