With Thanks,

The senior editor of the INTELLIGENCER thanks the Carlisle Volunteer and its friendly correspondent who flatteringly suggest his name for the Democratic nomination for governor of Pennsylvania, but assures them that he is not a candidate for the honor, exalted as he believes it to be. He is a firm believer in the maxim that the editor is disabled for office candidacy, the position being incompatible with TO SUPPLIA IGENCER—One dollar as tende a year, in advance.

ADDRESS, THE DITELLIGENCES,

AMOASTER, PA., February 20, 1890.

Interesting Indignation. It is interesting to note the indigna-tion which permeates the Republican ditor's bosom, or at least flows from his senat the contemplation of the heinous say of the Ohio Democratic Legislature divide the state into congressional districts as to reverse the order in which the two political parties are now represented in the lower House, where the striking per-formance of Speaker Reed has been by these Ohio Republican congressmen, elected persuant to the Ohio Republican Legislature'sgerrymander of Legislature'sgerrymander of the congres-sional districts; whereby only six Demo-erats have been returned to the House to fteen Republicans.

As Ohio is a state which is carried by the Democracy and Republicans with frequent alternation; and as at present it is Democratic, it will strike the aver-age mind that it is just as proper and fair for the Democratic Legislature to make the congressional districts so as to return fifteen Democrats, as it was for the Republican Legislature, when it had its chance, to create fifteen Republican districts; and more justifiable, because the example of taking such advantage of their power was taught the Democrats by the Republican precedent set them; and rammed home to em in a most offensive way the present performance of the speaker of the national House, who was elected to his seat of power as the result of the Ohio Republican Legislature's gerrymander of the congressional dis-tricts. With all this influence exerted pon the Ohio Democratic Legislature to make all the Democratic congressional districts that they can, now that they have the making of them, it is not strange that they proceed to do it.

And anyone who undertakes to condemn them for it, will do well to consider whether the people are yet of the mind to demand fairness in politics from party managers. That such fair-ness is right and that it should be en-forced is not to be depict; but is it the eed is not to be denied; but is it the estion in the case? which is rather as to whether the people are disposed to insist upon its practice.

If the voters of the country are ready to acquiesce in such methods as the Republican party managers freely prac-tice to keep up their power in Congress, it is unreasonable to ask the Democratic party managers to abstain from these methods when they have a chance to follow them. They have a right, rather, to conclude that the state of public sen-timent is not such as to call for fairness in politics, and that the devil take the hindmost practice is the one that the people want.

that this is not a practice which is likely to wear forever, and that the party leaders may be the wisest who let the walk of their party be conspicuously virtuous in every hour and at every step. But such self control is not to be looked for from the average man, and doubtless is not to be expected from the Democrats of the Ohio Legislature. If they can control their action so as to exclude the question of party interest from the congressional appor-tionment, they will be a good deal fitter for heaven than the majority of men whom the people select for their law-

Ward Representation.

The distribution of councilmen to the several wards of Lancaster is conspicuously out of proportion to their voters, and it should be reformed. We can say this without suspicion of partisan prejudice now that the First ward, which is the smallest in its vote and has the most members of council, has been carried by the Democrats. This ward polled but 450 votes, while the Sixth polled 1012 and the Eighth 1017. The total vote of the city gives about 250 votes as the allotment for each of the 27 common councilmen; and under this distribution the First ward would have but two members, while the Sixth and Eighth would have four. So also probably should the Ninth ward have four members for its 865 votes, as it is a growing ward. The Fifth ward has now but two members, though its vote 664, which is more than the 528 the Third and the 587 of the Second and is about the same as the 671 of the Fourth. The First, Second and Third wards, with two members of common council; the Fourth, Fifth and Seventh with three, and the Sixth, Eighth and Ninth with four each, would fairly distribute the number according to their voting population; and it is time that measures be taken to make this fairer representation of the people in councils.

What is needed is the division of the larger wards into two wards; or at least the creation of two election precincts in them. Five hundred votes is enough to be taken at one precinct.

Women and Fire Insurance. It is said that foreign fire insurance companies doing business in this country refuse to insure the property of women, and the New York Star quotes a New York manager of one of the comnamics as explaining this curious rule. He asserts that when a fire destroys a stock of goods belonging to a woman she always demands a sum largely in excess of the loss, and if the company refuses to pay there is a law suit. Then of course the weeping American woman commands the sympathy of the jury rather than the rich corporation with stockholders in a foreign land.

If these facts are thus, and based or this argument, it behooves the American business woman to rise and explain. Is she more grasping and unscrupulous than the business man, or is it that she knows her rights, and, knowing, dare maintain them? A man may limit his domands by what he thinks he ought to have or supposes he can get, while a woman may without reasoning arrive at an understanding of her rights by the quick intuition that novelists continually talk about. Then it takes a forma-trial and all the machinery of law to ser-tie the matter, but at last the minds of the man of the jury reach the same con-lantes by the more slow and difficult routs. The insurance companies migni-solve the problem by employing women to adjust losses; then there would be in-teresting tangles of conflicting intui-tions and juries might perpetrate ver-dicts suggestive of temperary insanity.

With Thanks.

The INTELLIGENCER moreover seems to have its hands full in providing mayors for this city from its business office; and does not propose to venture out of this modest field, in which it has so brilliant success, into the broader domain of the state, whatsoever the temptation.

Ex-SECRETARY VILAS has been telling a Chicago reporter what he thinks of the political situation. He was asked whether the campaign of 1888 strengthened or weakened the cause of tariff reform and thought that there could be no question of the strengthening effect of the struggle. It might happen, as in the last campaign, that money, sectional feeling or momen-tary frenzy would snatch away a doubtful state, but this cannot be when the people are awake to the peril. "This is well established by the returns of 1888, tariff reform naving made gains and progress wherever closed, and that is that "the contest was

A "white swelling " is one of the very pain-ful forms of scrofula and most difficult to cure The remarkable effect of flood's Sarsaparilla in the case described below, illustrates the power of this medicine over all diseases of the blood. "In 1887 my son, 7 years old, had a white swelling come on his right leg below the knee, which became very much swollen and painful, and contracted the muscles so that his leg was drawn up at right angles. Physicians lanced the swelling, which discharged freely, but failed to help him materially, and I considered him.

A Confirmed Cripple.

I was about to take him to Cincinnati for an operation, expecting his leg would have to be taken off, and began giving him Hood's Sarsa-parilia in order to get up his strength. The medicine woke up his appetite and soon pieces of bone were discharged from the sore. We con-tinued with Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it seemed to be doing him so much good, and the discharge from the sore decreased, the swelling went down, the lee straightened out and in

Wanamaker's,

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, Per. 20, 1808. After all, what is there in dress goods that for quiet richness and solid worth goes ahead of finest Broadcloth? Beauty unadorned, quality without claptrap, a patrician of the loom. The fleece must be the choicest, the spinning most pre-cise, the weaving full of wit, the dyeing an artist's work, the handling from start to finish exactly right or the stuff will show

The very best Broadcloth only a little time back couldn't be had under $3; here it is now at $2.50. Smooth and soft as a baby's cheek. In all the newest shades-twenty-two of them in the lot just on the counters, more than as many more in their fellows almost as new.

Fine Broadcloths at $2. Northwest of centre.

Ferseys at two-thirds cost. Manufacturers' samples, fancy and plain; tailor made or silk braided. Some with reveres and silk Fedora fronts; Garibaldi waists with plaited yoke and sleeves. Handsome goods that would cost from $2.50 to $6. You shall take them at $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50 and

A few Black Jerseys, braid trimmed on front, and plain cuffs, at $1. second floor, Chestnut street side. Four elevators.

Accordion Plaiting 25c a yard. Delivered within two days after your order is received.

Second floor, over Chestnut street middle en-trance. We only now and then stop to hold up a Stocking, but there's almost always something well worth telling of. Here are two sorts:

Women's Lisle Thread Hose, 8 different shades, 25c a pair. Men's French Printed Cotton Half Hose, unbleached, and colored grounds: polka-dots horseshoes rings blocks plaids ring and dot cluster of dots striped 25c a pair, regular price, 5oc.
