A I started out to say that among the sI seemed to recognize was one that very English, and ye I thought I had it in America. It was the face of a of forty odd, I would say. It was the of a very homely woman on the ilders and body of a man. The features as as plain as those of a hippopotamus epose, but when lighted up with a e they were as beautiful as those of a ah. The hair was abundant and about color of a maple caramet that has been used to the elements all summer. It evidently been worn long, but had cut off at the neck by means of a pinkton and a set of burglar's tools. His exion was opaque and his teeth hung clusters on the outside of his mouth he smiled. clusters on the outside of his mouth he smiled. He wore an Eton cap lied back in the cance while a tal-hired man at three beb a day and a y gaff paddled the frail bark along thames and exhibited this gifted sity to the wondering crowd. The ed curlosity was Oscar Wilde, met him in the territories twelve or ben years ago, I think. He wore more soffure at that time. Since then he staffed a sofa pillow with it. His hair at time clustered around a horse's face rently and he wore a genuine store brero. It was too new to look comfortas he had bought it at Tie Siding, ore a liver colored cravat and a look ense melancholy. I gave him a large hand gold card of mine, printed in our job office by a bright young artist who fed two or three of his most desirable its to our large blue job press while ag to pick a dedger out from among sok teeth.

mistake. You are my mental superior, and so here is your old bow returned with thanks."

To go still farther, if I bow more extensively, involving the entire body, or torso as we call it, I say by this action: "I am highly inferior to you mentally and physically. Your eyes are as the diamonds bright, but mine are dull as lead. I therefore lower my eyes to yours and douse my ocular peak to yourn. Your hair is superior in quality and knocks me silly as to quantity. I therefore lower my hair to you. I also recognize that my other features, when compared with yours, look like a misunderstanding in the house of representatives. I therefore make an obelsance with my other features. My volce also lacks the timbre and other building material to be found in yours, and so I bow my volce. My heart and all its wealth of rich, warm affection I place at your feet. I also bow my sluggish and inferior liver out of respect to your active and self reliant liver. I bow my entire system of assimilation, mastication, digestion, chylification, chymification, panerification, gastrification, edintition dentition ossification and perspiration to yours." Those are the language of the deep and earnest bow.

All physical actions have their significance if we know how to analyze them properly, and our Vinegar Hill Delsarte class is gently but firmly getting there, as Rufus Choats used to say.

In a short letter like this I cannot do the subject justice, but possibly at another time, if the public demands it and keeps on clamoring for it, I may write more on this all engrossing thems. How interesting it is, for instance, to study the genesis of a physical movement!

We will say that you come to me when I am very, very busy, and you forget to go away, owing to a lapse of memory which has also interfered with your recollection of the $5 you borrowed two years ago, and you talk to me about yourself all the time when I want you to talk about me and go away, owing to a lapse of memory which has also interfered with your recollection of the $5 you borrowed two years ago, and you talk to me about yourself all the time when I want you to talk about me and interest me, or else go away and let me work. Well, a thought wave in my central office goes over to the operator and writes out a red message which scoots along the main line of the spinsl column, flashes in the eye, tells the biceps and muscles of the forearm to open the door, darts along the sciatic nerve and tells the muscles and tarsal and metatarsal bones to be on hand, or on foot, rather, and I then, more in sorrow than in anger, kick you down stairs. What does this mean? Why, it means: "I consider myself your superior. I feel above you. I dislike you in some respects. I do this to indicate it. Socially you are not my equal. I take this step in order to call your attention to it." This is higher education.

HIS CREDIT WAS GOOD. 'Twas a winter night, and the hour was late, And the snow lay cold and white, But she saw him as far as the garden gate To say to him there, "Good-night."

What is the boon? asked the charming miss In a musical voice and low: It is that you'll give me a sweetheart's kiss, My darling, before 1 go.

Oh, no, she said, as the lashes fell
O'er the eyes of fathomiess blue:
You've wood me long and I love you well
But I can't give a kiss to you.

Then loan me a kiss, my sweet one, pray, And you will never know regrets. Yes, I will, she said, for my parents say You are prompt in paying your debts, Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excructating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS, WINS-LOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Soid everywhere, 26 cents a bottle.

A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermind and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Br. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at H. B. Cochran's Drug Store, 137 & 138 N. Queen St., Lancaster, Pa. A Woman's Discovery.
