words showed that he fully appreciated the great risk he ran in making himself the eighth man beyond the burning opening. He acted on a noble impulse, and although his mission failed and his body may not be found for months, he has given an inspiring example of heroism that can never be forgotten in the community where he lived. Cowboys and Indians Taming Horses and Visiting the Vatican.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West show is astonishing the Romans. The duke of Sermoneta had some wild horses in a herd on the Pontine marshes, and he declared that no cowboy on earth could ride one. The cowboys laughed at the boast. Then the duke dared them to mount any one of the six. A dispatch to the New York Herald says that on Tuesday over two thousand carriages were driven to the Prati di Castello, and an audience of twenty thousand people braved the dripping rain. Lord Dufferin and many other diplomatists and noted people attended.

Two of the wild horses were driven into the arena. They had neither saddle nor bridle. "Buffalo Rill" announced that they would be conquered. Every man, woman and child expected that two or three men would be killed in the experiment. In five minutes the cowboys had lassoed, saddled, bridled and mounted the horses. The animals leaped in the air, writhed, bucked and reared madiy; all in vain. In five minutes they were ridden easily around, while the vast crowd, unmindful of the rain, roared and shrieked with delight. "Buffalo Bill" now dares any Roman to ride his bucking bronchos.

One of the strangest spectacles ever seen within the venerable walls of the Vatican was the dramatic entry of "Buffalo Bill" at the head of his Indians and cowboys on Monday morning, when the ecclesiastical, secular and military court of the papacy assembled to witness the twelfth annual thanksgiving of Leo XIII, for his coronation.

A vast multitude surged into the great and animition. Ith him who is against me."

It must be confessed a versal occasions he has said a mather than a sober and statesmanner. It is the fashion to thanksgiving of Leo XIII, for his coronation.

A vast multitude surged into the great square before St. Peter's early in the morning to witness the arrival of the Americans. Before half past nine o'clock the Ducal hall, Royal hall and Sietine chapel were packed. Through the middle of the three audiences was a pathway bordered with the brilliant uniforms of the Swiss guards, the Palatine guards, the Papal gendarmes and private chamberlains. The sunlight fell upon lines of glittering steel, nodding plumes, golden chains and shimmering robes of silk and all the brilliant emblems of pontificial power and glory.

Suddenly a tall, chivalrons figure appeared at the estrance and all eyes were turned toward him. It was "Buffalo Bill." With sweep of his great sombrero he saluted the chamberlains and then strode between the guards with his partner, Nate Salsbury. Next came Buck Taylor, who towered hugely above the tallest man in the palace, his long hair tited back on his shoulders; then came "Broacho Bill" in

When the pope appeared, carried above the heads of his guards, preceded by the Knights of Maits and a procession of cardinals and archbishops, the cowboys bowed, and so did the Indiana. "Rocky Bear" knelt and made the sign of the cross. The pontiff leasned yearningly toward the rude groups and blessed them. He seemed to be touched by the sight.

As the train swept on the Indians became excited, and as a squaw fainted, though they had been warned not to utter a sound, they were with difficulty restrained from whooping. The pope looked at Colonel Cody intently as he passed, and the great scout bent low as he received the benediction. After the thankagiving mass, with its good choral accompaniment, with now and then the pope's powerful voice heard ringing through the Sistine chapel, the great audience poured out of the Vatican.

When the Indians went back to camp, within sight of the grim Castle of San Angelo, they found the only warrior who did not go to the Vatican dead in his bianket.

To-night the Indians have temporarily relapsed into paganism and are howling over the dead brave, some of them tearing their flesh and sprinkling the funeral tent with the blood.

the modern store notion cuts tradition at right angles. The retail trader that fails to "catch on" gets left. Many have been left, tossed up on the margin of trade streams, driftwood; or, timidly coasting, have gotten into the breakers, only to be left high and dry when the tide recedes. It's very sad. Can't be helped. Youth and age often chrysalis in which the winged thing meant for high flights in free air still lives. The one most frequently seen is the chrysalis of exclusiveness. As though poverty of stock in volume and variety meant superior excellence. Not all mankind have lived past that notion. There are humbugs and humbugs, intentional, which are usually, to say the least, bright, unintentional, generally stupid; loud, common, popular humbugs, full of energy and brightness; quiet, exclusive hum-bugs, dull, sleepy, slow, and eminently respectable. Each extreme has its own devotees.

You may find a dress goods charlatan, flaunting a few bold goods in blatant advertising, vainly supposing that an intelligent people will build a business on a vacuum, that airy nothings are rock foundations. He has his end.

Merchandise thought moves onward. The world grows older and wiser. Sensible people see that the largest re sources bring best results. The place to get the choicest things is where the power of collecting is greatest. Exclusive and rare novelties are most numerous where the aggregation of business is largest. And so it comes about that in Dress Goods, Millinery, Silks, and many other things for personal and household uses the most exclusive spot is here, the spot where the greatest trade is done.

But an all round Dry Goods Store serves everybody save such as want trash. Because of vast sales in staples and Corner East King and Duke Streets, moderate cost stuffs the exclusives, high class novelties are possible. Of course you read between all these lines 'Dress Goods."

There are studies in Dress Goods. One, most important, ECONOMY. A very slender purse may provide neatness, even style in women's dress. American Ginghams 10 and 121/2 cents, American Sateens 121/2 cents, Crazy Crepe 10 cents, Cotton Challis 6 and 8 cents, Indigo Chintz 8 cents, Striped Skirtings, 121/2 cents, are some of the incidents in cotton. In wool and worsted, 23 colors in French Serge at 50 cents; All-wool Tricots, Fancy Wool Suitings, English Mohairs, a great variety in each, 371/2 cents. Such chances are the outcome of aggregation-this business is aggregation.

A study of Dress Cottons now here would amuse, instruct, interest you. Two years ago Sateens were su-preme. We then advertised them by the thousands of styles. Sateens are in retirement now. To be sure we have the choice French Blacks with white figures, and the best in other colors at 25, 30, 35, and 371/2 cents; also American at 121/2 and 20 cents., But the great glory of Sateens is departed. Ginghams are regnant. Mark this. The Gingham counters have styles by the thousands, and in the vast quantity there are no two pieces alike. The duplicates are upstairs-room only for sample pieces. Fastidi-ousness o'erleaps itself when our Ginghams fail to yield the right selections. The great unknown maker (25 cents) is sending in the Tartans now. Hunt up your heraldry, know your plaid, and find it here, or the colors of your plaid in a bold stripe. Nobody will chide you if lacking the Scotch you buy the Tartan.

Continue to study the cot-tons. Cunard and Galatea Stripes 25 cents, Dungareen 30 cents, Oxford Cheviots 30 cents, Cambridge Twills 30 cents, Madras Cloth 30 and 40 cents. In all the fancies a wide variety. The latest additions to the cotton group are Jaconets 30 cents, and Organdies 37½ cents.
