A Peculiar Institution.

bey have a venerable institution in York City, called the Ludlow street which partakes of the character of all and a hotel—with considerably of hotel than jail-when the real s have money to pay for hotel ac-modations. It is then, too, a hotel lucted both on the European and erican plan, and the resident may some whether he will board at the stel table, be served with his meals in room, or go out to a restaurant or to private residence for his meals.

ere is an investigation now being d by a Senate committee upon the aduct of this institution; and the elations seem to excite the astonishent of the authorities of the law, ough we see nothing in them that is wel. It has been understood by all that the denizens of this debtors' rison were served according to their people who are detained there on I write, some being those who canot pay their debts, and others being le to command or unwilling to give is large amount of ball required their appearance to answer suits or big sums of money. They are not apposed to be criminals, but simply un-primate or unlucky—if there is any stinction between misfortune and illok. It is to be confessed that it is newhat incongruous to find that these shappy people are often possessed of clenty of money and able to pay for exurious meals. But there does not seem to be any sod reason why they should not get , if they can, nor why their keepers could be hauled up by the law for bemore accommodating to simple misme than the law itself is a glaring folly to put a man to jail because he cannot pay his debts or to hold him to answer a civil it. In enlightened communities imment for debt is abolished and litors are required to be content with elzure of all that a man owns, omithis body. We are therefore disposed sympathize with the deputy sheriffs to are now under accusation in New ork for accompanying their prisoners at of the Ludiow street institution to nd to their business and get their

It was a profitable business to the ties, and so long as they kept their ers safe it is not clear that it was ne's business but their own, as their es were only put into their care for plug and not for punishment. at agile young man, Ives, who carned name a of Napoleon in finance, had addow as his Elba for two years, atil the other day his creditors on the dollar for their alms. He lived well during those years and if the creditors had the soney he spent in the jail their diviwould be considerably larger. Mr. harles J. Francklyn was laid by the cels in Ludlow while he awaited the absidence of the wrath of his friend, Sir sche Cunard, over the manner in which a had dissipated funds entrusted to his kill for investment. He was in jail 8 days and paid $750 to the deputy shoriffs, beside feeding them while he was out on so streets of New York about his busibe deputy sheriff by his lawyers; and It was a violation of law the distinmished counsellors are clearly as guilty as the sheriffs.

The fact, of course, is that a great Frong is done when people held by the wealth; but the wrong is done hen the lack of wealth is made the only ground for the imprisonment. If w is not sharp enough to tell the oally poor from those who dissemble poverty, it should not seek to help its stupidity by punishing the former for the sins of the latter.

A " Race Outrage" in Philadelphia. Let the bloody shirt wave over Philahia and Senator Ingalls unlimber his vituperative artillery against the city of brotherly love," for the coroper has just been sitting upon an aged colored man, who was assaulted and kicked to death by a mob of whites. He walking along Teuth street on the st of March, serene in the consciousness of citizenship in the great stronghold of the party that poses as the friend and defender of the black man, on election day. Perhaps he was reflecting on the reign of terror under which Southern begroes live, as discovered by the Phila-delphia Press and other enterprising organs devoted to the preservation of war feeling and race animosity. The reflections of this citizen were suddenly interrupted by a snowball thrown by one of a crowd of white men loafing around a corner, and when he began to express his indignation the crowd of young rufflans attacked him, knocked n down and kicked him so severethat he died a few days ago his injuries. If this had hapsened a few hours' journey to the south, in a Democratic community, the thern Republican press would be arid with accounts of the dastardly outrage, and Senate and House would ring with the flerce invectives pared for such occasions by the conional specialists in bloody shirt raving. As it happened in Republican Philadelphia it receives such scant no-lice from the dailies of that city that many Philadelphians are quite unaware of its occurrence. Fatal incidents, with tages and undisturbed by any grave race problem, can not afford to assume a saintly borror at the criminal records of

Bismarck's Resignation

The resignation of Prince Bismarck, although long talked of, comes like the nevitable shock of death. Until further particulars are given it is useless to apeculate upon the cause or possible effect, as the statement that his, son Count Herbert Bismarck has also tendered his resignation seems to hint at some dissatisfaction with the ag-gressive activity of the young empe-ror. It has long been an open seeret that the chancellor was disappointed in his hopes of handing down his power to his son, because the younger Bismarck, although displaying undoubted ability, could not command the respect of friends and enemies.

Prince Bismarck has been chancellor for eleven years and his son has been secretary of foreign affairs for two years. Bismarck's recent return to active control of state affairs was in obedience to the earnest solicitations of the emperor. He has several times ex pressed his strong opposition to a European labor conference as "preposterous and wholly unavailing," and it seems safe to assume that disagreement with the emperor on this question may have had a great deal to do with his resignation. A singular incident is the dispatch of the correspondent of the London S'andard: "The German officials decline to forward my message;" and the other dispatches contain a very small quantity of news in the matter. Agovernment that is afraid of news can not feel very strong.

Too Much Managed.

The charitable institutions of this state appear to be under much management. They are supervised by the governor and Legislature, by the board of charities, and by boards of distinguished citizens; and yet they go astray. The various sets of managers are investigating the Philadelphia blind asylum; and the district attorney is taking a hand, besides. Evidently a little less accumulation of management ipon one particular time, and a spread of the energy through all time, would have been more profitable. But such is the way of management of public and corporate institutions. The superintendents run them until they get into the mud; and the crew of managers hurry in, when it is too late, to try to save the pieces.

THE excitement in Portugal, over the action of Mr. Buchanan in hoisting the Britsh flag in the Shire district, is due to disappointment of their hopes of negotiating for the possession of this fertile region. Mr. Buchanan is one of two brothers who represent the African Lakes company engaged in coffee raising, and the Shire district takes its name from the river that runs through it to Lake Nyassa. There are several successful English missions there. Captain Cardoza, of the Portuguese army, led a force through this mountainous country about a year ago, and with much diffi-culty established a line of friendly villages connecting the new Portuguese colony with the coast, and the region was taken under the protection of Portugal. By Lord Salisbury's ultimatum the Portuguese were required to evacuate this district and their government was obliged to order back to the coast an expedition of the wives and children of the Portuguese pioneers which was going to join them. Having yielded so far Portugal hoped to be able to negotiate with England for the ossession of the land on which she has set her heart, but the news indicates that the British are quite as determined to retain control without any regard for the pride or claims of Portugal.

A BILL has just been introduced to proteet American labor and presents an interesting example of the possible extenthe protective principle to labor itself. It provides that every alien who comes to the United States shall be taxed three dollars, to be collected by the collector of customs. Another clause prohibits the landing of anarchists, polygamists, cripples and criminals, and other undesir able foreigners.

THE Cubans are expecting a general hange of officeholders, owing to the death of the governor general, and the appointment of his successor, General Chinchilla. They bitterly complain that the offices are held in reserve for Spaniards, instead of being apportioned among native Cubans, and the carpet bag government of the court at Madrid is a standing insult to them. The officials may be capable enough, but their interests are all opposed to those of the Cubans, and they only care to make money and go home without any concern for the prosperity of the island. Most of the talk of Cuban annexation to the United States is indulged in with the hope of frightening Spain into granting something like home

The Reduction of Sugar Duties.

They decided to make raw sugar from 16 Duties and supposed to have been absent standard down dutiable at 35 per cent, ad always and supposed to be dead, was presented by a decided to make raw sugar above 16 Duties standard down dutiable at 40 per cent, ad valorem. A Woman Killed by Her Son.

A horrible accident occurred near Hot Springs, Madison county, N.C. A 12-year-old son of S. D. Chambers, a highly respected farmer, accidentally shot and instantly killed his mother. The father had been to Hot Springs, bringing home with him a valise with some articles for the family in it. He put the valise down in the house and stepped out, when the lad looked into it to see what his father had brought him. He found a pistol and said to his mother "see what pa brought home."

The pistol was discharged, the ball striking his mother in the breast. Her only words were, "Oh Lord, you have killed me." Woman Killed by Her Son.

Women Who Make the Best Wives.

Members of a Boston debating society have almost come to blows over the question "What women make the best wives?" Culture was claimed by many to be the first essential, love and fidelity second, and knowledge of household duties and ability to properly perform them, the third. None of the debaters, however, thought to add that very necessary qualification—health—without which a wife left afford perfection. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will renew the hue of youth in pale and sallow cheeks, correct irritating interine discases, arrest and cure ulceration and influantiation, and influe new vitality into the wasting body. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by drugglists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper and faithfully carried out for many years.

Scrofula in Children.

"In the early part of 1887 scrofula appeared on the head of my little grandchild, then only is months old. Shortly after breaking out it spread rapidly all over her body. The scrobs on the sores would peal off on the slightest touch, and the odor that would arise would make the atmosphere of the room sickening and unbearable. The disease next attacked the eyes and we feared she would lose her sight. Eminent physicians of the country were consulted, but could do nothing to relieve the little innocent, and gave it as their opinion, 'that the case was hopeless and impossible to save the child's eyesight.' It was then that we decided to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) That medicine at once made a speedy and complete cure. For more than a year past she has been as healthy as any child in the land."

In 1875 a sore appeared on my nose, and grew rapidly. As my father had cancer, and my busband died of it, I became alarmed and consulted my physician. His treatment did no good, and the sore grew larger and worse in every way, until I was persuaded to take S. S. S., and a few bottles cured me. This was after all the doctors and other medicines had failed. I have had no return of the cancer.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, March 18, 1800. Millinery First View.

You are invited to-day to the opening of our Spring Millinery. These "occasions" have rapidly acquired national importance as the Millinery Events of each Season. We produce and gather merchandise. In Millinery we emphatically do both. The results appear in displays that London, Paris and New York have not as yet ap-

This season the head of the Millinery-Mr. Hutton-was in Paris at the nick of time. The Millinery wave of Fashion rises early, its volume and body built of omnibus styles, but the wave lifts its mighty crest, breaks in foam and casts to the winds the spray of the newest notions just as the season opens. At this point Mr. Hutton gathered the best from all the highest sources, and by quick transfer we are able to show you what Paris will do in Millinery, while yet the secrets

are kept from Paris itself. Concerning Millinery Fash-

If any Fashion writer, milliner or merchant, tries to tell you that certain shapes or trimmings are the style for this season you may consider your informant ignorant or interested in some excessive stock of something that needs customers. There are prevailing colors; beyond that your own taste is Fashion's law. The Paris milliners are all "free lances," equally ready to serve jet or gold bullion, rib-bons or feathers, gauze or velvet as caprice may suggest or fancy dictate.

You may be your bonnet, or your bonnet you; your personality may appear in your selection if you choose, or your Mil linery adviser may choose for you. A professional suggestion is often desirable.

But absolute freedom as to shape, size, material and decoration are yours. It is a broad guage season.

Colors. Aubergine, which means mad-apple, or in common talk, egg-plant, or rather the refractions of it; yellow in all tones from jonquil to goldenrod; blue, every shade from the himmel-blau of a fraulein's eyes to the ultra-marine of a cloudshrimp so pale that you'd think it had faded in the sea to the almost brick-dust red, are in high favor. Color is the only slender grip by which Fashion holds on to Millinery.

The untrimmed Foreign Hats are scarce. Their like you'll not find elsewhere. The quantities are very small, too late to duplicate. Moral, buy now.

Wraps and Costumes.

You are also invited to a first view of Wraps and Costumes, many of them personally se-Raudnitz et Cie, and Emile Pingat, with a number of Berlin garments after Paris models.

The Costumes include Tea Gowns, House Dresses, and Reception Dresses, and illustrate the treatment of the novel stuffs of the season by the highest dress authorities.

They are on the second floor, Chestnut street side.

The new Silks are an important incident of this "occasion," and will be found attractively displayed in the Transept. Of Japanese and Chinese no equal stock can be found elsewhere. All the other seasonable novelties are profusely supplied, Prices level to or below the market.
