The date of the finance committee, the bills for supplies furnished during the month and on his motion the resolution was adopted to pay the same. Mr. Cochran also submitted the following report:

Report of the Finance Committee. The committee has the honor to report that the same has been held on the 22d of March, after a very successful term. In the judgment of the committee the night schools should be opened in the second week of the school term.

Why should grains and vegetables be cooked?

What should be done to a person who has taken an overdose of opium? Why? Mention three things that interfere with digestion, and explain how and why they interfere.

Describe the movements of the chest when a person inhales and also when he exhales. What parts are there that the cerebrum is the seat of the reason and the will? Was there anything that kept the skin healthy? Why must each of these be done?

On motion of Mr. McCoskey leave of absence for one day was granted to Prof. Busch to attend the dissection of a school house at Doylestown. While there he will have an opportunity of noting improvements which will be of benefit to the board.

Mr. Reynolds stated that at the last meeting he had voted for the amendment of Mr. McCormick that it was inexpedient to erect school houses on South Millberry and South Duke streets. As there was a desire on the part of some members to erect at least one school house he moved a reconsideration of the vote.

Mr. Schroyer seconded the motion to reconsider and it was adopted by a almost unanimous vote. The amendment of Mr. McCormick was declared to be in order, and Mr. Holzman moved as an amendment that a special committee of three, to act in conjunction with the property committee, have plans laid out for the building of a school house on South Millberry and the second on South Duke street, and to report the same to a future meeting of the board.

In support of the amendment Mr. Holzman argued that it would give the property committee a chance to see school buildings and various systems of ventilation and heating. About the necessity for the buildings there was no doubt.

Mr. McCormick said the question was now in a shape which more nearly met with his views, and he had no special objection to the amendment of Mr. Holzman. The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote, and the committee was authorized to prepare plans and specifications for two new school buildings to be located on South Millberry and South Duke streets respectively, of such size and kind as they may deem necessary, and report the same to a subsequent meeting of the board.

This amendment was adopted by a unanimous vote, and the original motion as amended was also adopted by a unanimous vote. The following communication was read, but no action taken: LANCASTER, April 3, 1890.

Two Railroad Wreckers. The Pennsylvania railroad had more wrecks on the line than any other line in the country for a long time, and many of them have been very destructive, causing tremendous losses to the company. Fortunately very few people have been injured.

Surely had the tracks been cleared of the big Mother-deer wreck before the other wrecks took place. This morning, shortly before seven o'clock, seven cars were knocked from the track just west of Gordonville. They belonged to a western bound freight train drawn by engine No. 304.

All the cars were loaded with merchandise and the train was moving at a moderate speed. The cars were knocked and the merchandise was scattered all around. The freight train was delayed for some time, but passenger trains were not hindered in any way.

The accident was caused by a broken wheel on one of the cars. The train was stopped and the cars were moved to the side of the track. The merchandise was salvaged and the train resumed its journey.

CHERRY RIDES TO HOUNDS.

John's Mustang Strikes an Embankment and the Fox Was Not Hurt, But John Was.

Yesterday afternoon a fox chase, which in all probability will be the last of the season, took place from the East End hotel, on East Chestnut street, to a point near Henry Kegel. It must be said that it was one of the poorest chases of the season, but it succeeded in saving his life, as he had very poor pursuers in the shape of dogs. There was quite a large crowd at the hotel and it seemed to be the best laid in town.

After 4 o'clock Kegel took the fox down a point near the Whitby farm, where he dropped it. The animal ran toward the north end, after crossing the railroad track, passed through the farm of B. J. McGrann. Soon after the fox had been dropped the "pack" of dogs were let loose by a young boy named John. There was one hound, a bull dog and a cur. The bull dog went as far as Mentzer's quarry, where he stopped to bite a man, and lost his grip on the chase. The cur dropped out in a short time and the hound then had a lone chase for some time, but he really gave it up. It seemed as though there were hundreds of boys in the chase and the noise and disturbance that they created was very great.

The fox was not hurt by any of the dogs, but he was very tired and finally stopped at the house of a friend. The chase was a very poor one, but it was a good one for the fox, as he had very poor pursuers in the shape of dogs.

THE RESULT OF A SPREE.

A PROMINENT CITIZEN OF A NEW YORK TOWN SHOT LAST NIGHT.

Upon Returning Home After Sky-larking He Attempts to Enter a Neighbor's House and is Taken for a Burglar.

MOURT VARNOR, N. Y., April 4.—F. W. Chivvis, a well known citizen of this place and formerly a prominent dry goods merchant of New York city, was shot last night and his condition is serious, though the bullet has been extracted. There is considerable mystery surrounding the affair. The shooting occurred about 2:30 a. m. Chivvis had been out with two friends, and it was at first reported that he had been shot down by highwaymen in an attempt to rob him. The three men were evidently in a merry mood on their way home, and it is reported that Mr. Chivvis was wounded while sky-larking with his companions. This, however, is not admitted by any of the three men.

Mr. Chivvis himself says that he was shot on account of being mistaken for a burglar while attempting to enter the house of a friend. He was shot in the back by a man who knew the true name of the shooting and the name of the man who shot him.
