ADDRES, THE INTELLIGENCER,

LANGASTER, PA., April 7, 1890.

Down With Him! Ex-State Senator Lewis Emery, a Re-iblican leader of the northwest which ticularly commands the confidence le interested in its peculiar the people interested in its peculiar dustry, has made a speech at Brad-ard in denunciation of the nomination Delamater, and given very good e charges him with infidelity to the prests of the people and even with udulent practice in the discharge of functions as senator. The attack is of character that shows that the assault will be continued upon Delamater both e candidate for the Republican nomina-ion and as the Republican nominee. inst him and the scabbard thrown way. It comes at a time when Delaster is already supposed to have se-red a majority of the Republican del-ates through the active aid of State airman Andrews and the reputed rent away to Florida declaring that andidates, but when he returns he ands that his agents have been helping one of them with very dirty pracpublic estimation to Delamater that he should draw back from him, the dict would be that he was afraid; and at here comes this open assault from o oil regions which is the old-time seting ground of the Independent Reblicans; and if Quay drops Delamaafter this attack it will be a retreat or fire that circumstances may elly make a rout, and if he does not reat, it does not take great prophetic ower to predict disastrous defeat.

The Republican machine in Pennsyl-ais in better shape to be smashed an it has been for many a long year. re are plenty of disappointed men dy to jump at the throat of the leader, hen they see a fair chance to down im. There would be an elegant oppornity with so unwholesome a candiate as Delamater, who has not a gular popular attribute, and whose iole strength lies in his contion with these whom the people now as their foes. This connection can readily shown. And there appear be facts to be urged against him, lowing him to be a ready tool of distable people and schemes. There no sweet savor about him to comnd him to the voter. Mr. Quay and party machine will have to elect very strong guerilla fire, much less ill they be likely to safely endure the arty division that Delamater's candiand Quay's mastery threatens. he two now seem to be fairly joined her to sink or swim. The fight is much against Quay as Delamater. lamater's odiousness comes in to sup-ement Quay's, and the two together I make a lively stench. Quay will back out from the association, un unate as he may now esteem it. He not been noted for retreating; cially when he finds retreat to too late. He will have to stay the wave, even though it be to be cast upon the rocks. It does ot do for a political leader to go to Flords, fishing, leaving turbulent waters shind him and poor pilots in his rota craft. Or perhaps it would be fairer may that it is not possible in these es for a thoroughly corrupt politician cessfully undertake to maintain his old upon politics even in Pennsylvania.

Power of the New States.

It seems about as certain as anything a be that the bill making states of daho and Wyoming will be passed by se Senate and signed by the president, the triumph of party, rather than consideration with the men in power, with six new states marwith more or less firmin the Republican column y may feel reasonably secure in their narrow minds. The admission of daho and Wyoming should draw a est from the older states against this artisan scheme for manufacturing monwealths which may with their anty population outweigh the great ern states in the Senate. The New fork Sun calls attention to the fact that o four new states and two in embryo 17,213, and yet they will have belve senators, and so will be quite as owerful in the Senate as New York. naylvania, Obio, Indiana, Illinois ad Missouri with their aggregate of five million voters. The new states ay have great expectations in the way of population, but their remote inland position and their physical features discourage hopes of their ever ap-proaching the states named in either ensity of population or wealth. orial representation is tolerated as an aberited evil made less by the commeral importance of the smaller commonportunity to rectify this historical protes its power to the creation of more problems of the same kind. Little Delware is thought by many to have too senatorial power, but in all but a phical sense she is a far more imtant part of the nation than several he new states.

he growing power of the far West is ady observable in the strong opposito public measures which seem to a bad alls are only pushed through by anythis appropriations for unknown yet, a rivers, and Western members d opposing coast fortification. it I saffecting foreign commerce and tters that are beyond the grasp provincial mind.

Newspaper Methods. desire of metropolitan newspapers cial news inspires them often to Wrongful means of getting it. The York World, for instance, had a a. All its contemporaries berated it is vile attempt to get ahead of them.

Herald, which was particularly income, has just done what seems to be a far worse thing; in printing an a far worse thing; in printing an accusation against a young man away off in Honduras of having stolen the $41,000 that a couple of years ago was lost in transit by Adams Express company to the treasury at Washington. The Adams Express company paid the loss, and employed Pinkerton's agency to catch the thief. After two years they seem to have determined to fix the crime upon this man now in Honduras although they man now in Honduras, although they had no ovidence against him. Robert Pinkerton started down to see him and persuade him to confess. He came home full of fever but without the conession. The man declared he was innoent. The Herald prints Pinkerton's letters showing how much trouble he went to, how little he knew and how little he got.

Since he has returned, the government down there seems to have been moved to arrest the accused man, who is re-ported to have confessed the crime. It is very remarkable indeed if he did for them what he refused to do for Pinkerton and reflects undue discredit upon that gentleman's persuaviveness. We doubt the confession. There nothing in the reason of the case to make it probable. The Heroid has far more probably been drawing a long bow to benefit its circulation.

To-DAY begins a Democratic administration. That the new brooms will do good sweeping there is no doubt.

THE Senate on Saturday passed one hundred and thirteen pension bills in an hour. It would take more than an hour to carefully read the brief statement of each case published in the Congressional Record, and legislation so hurried and reckless cannot avoid blunders. True, these pension bills had passed the House, and might be supposed to have received pretty thorough sifting in that body, but the approval of the Senate should be something more than a formality, and lightning legislation by wholesale at the rate of two bills a minute cannot easily be justified.

THE Sloux have held a pow-wow and dance and resolved not to take lands in severalty, but to run the risk of starvation and let Uncle Sam support them. Uncle can stand it if Lo can,

THE House passed a bill on Saturday providing that appointments of civilians to be second lieutenants in the army shall be made by selections from members of the state militia and from graduates of institutions of learning having military instruc-tion under the supervision of an army officer. This will only open the army to civilian appointments in cases of rare emergency as the law now provides that vacancies must first be filled by appointments from the graduates of West Point and after they are exhausted by appointment from the ranks of meritorious noncommissioned officers. It is only after these two sources are exhausted that the new law of civilian appointment would come into play.

To-DAY we cheerfully say farewell to ex-Mayor Edgerley and welcome Mayor

THE first striking feature of the new city administration is a police force that ooks like business and is not likely to be-

RHODE ISLAND may be in the Democratic pyramid of states in 1892. At the recent ntest for state officers the Democratic ticket had quite a large plurality. The constitutional majority was not se-cured and therefore the election of state officers must be by the Legis-lature. A number of legis ative dis-tricts failed to elect representatives, and supplementary elections will be held on Saturday. The contest in Newport for First and Fourth district representatives held last Saturday resulted in the election of two Democrats-William P. Clarke, by 73 majority, and Andrew W. Quinn, by 33 majority. It is possible that the election is not legal, as it was held under the old voting system, instead of under the provisions of the new ballot law. If the House of Representatives is Democratic, and it probably is, the Republicans may appeal o the supreme court to decide as to their legality.
