greatest frog hunter in Lancaster is as, botter known as "Cotty," Hoover, during the summer follows that busi-fer a livelihood.

he during the summer follows that busicess for a livelihood.

It would be very difficult for anyone to been an idea of the number of the green beind gentlemen that "Cotty" has caught using the past few years. He travels all ver this county and at times even into dicining ecunties in search of his gamr, at atways goes on foot. He catches the tage with hooks and line and once he gets de eye upon them Mr. Frog may as well live up. Cutching frogs is considerable of a crt, and Hoover has become very exset. The line which he uses is rather her and on the end of it are messed a bunch of three hooks. The ine is fastened to a small pole and when he man sees a frog sitting he crawle up juicity and slowly drope the hooks down until they get under the frog's chin; by a midden jerk he lands them. Many people hink that frogs can be captured more selly by having a piece of red finned or elover leaf on the hooks. Hoover does not think so, and he uses nothing but the sere hooks.

Hoover says that frogs are much scarcer an they were years ago, and he finds a edy sale for all that he catches. "Cotty" knows every dam, pond or creek in the county where frogs abound, and it is said that many of the frogs are well acquainted with him and can see him a square off.

Yesterday be made his first trip of the messon. It was to Mill creek and he succeeded in catching twelve fine frogs and a snapper weighing ten pounds. He caught the turtle with his hands. THE WAGON COMPANY OFFICERS
