THE INTELLIGENCER, Lancaster, Pa

LANGASTER, PA., April 17, 1890.

It Was Lying.

So it seems that the New York Sun ras out airing again its inveracity rhen it published that story about exsident Cleveland's rapid increase in reight, and his resort to a specialist for ured Mr. Cleveland, but gave the assur-nce that he was the hopeful object of a desirable leanness. Stoutness is not disreditable, only uncomfortable; and if there is an easy road to leanness, as the Sim's account assured us, it was a good thing to know.

We greatly fear, however, that it has en lying about the whole thing, as Mr. Cleveland says it certainly has been lying about him. He is not complimen-tary to the Sun's editor, who deserves, owever, all that he says of him, if he ot up this story without foundation in truth and only to annoy him. The Sun's xample shows what a habit of lying will bring a newspaper to. It is a habit which the Sun has practised for a long ime to delight its readers with wonderful tales that would be interesting if true, but very stupid if otherwise. The Bunday edition has been for many ears adorned with wild tales of wild animals dated in Pike county and other wildernesses; and the re-consess even of Lancaster county have been used for the creation of some of them. The readers of these stories may penerally believe them ; though there has been so long and steady a stream of them that one would think that the ost credulous by this time would have srun to be suspicious of their truth. A newspaper which starts into lying to muse its readers, is likely soon to practice the arts for more objectionable purposes, It is a very silly thing to do, beside its iciousness. It certainly fails to accomlish its purpose. There is nothing to o made by the Sun, for instance, in seekng to bring Mr. Cleveland into derision with stupid falsehood.

The Sun seems to have been so much ickled by the success of its allusion to aneral Hancock's weight in defeating him for the presidency, that it canon refrain foom firing the same gun onstantly at Mr. Cleveland. It said of ancock that he was a good man weighag 500 pounds ; and it probably conived that the shot had sunk him in be campaign ; and it possibly did do aim injury. Ridicule is an effective reapon often ; but not when it is clearly selicious. Mr. Cleveland is too well nown to the country to be damaged by thempted ridicule of his appearance. Is does not need to bank upon his good toks, when his conspicuous deeds spca's in him.

Hanting Dogs. Personal history and criticism scenas w to be the devotion of the New York ournal seeking to stimulate its circulaon. The World has given us a numer of interesting chapters upon Quay ; and is now printing daily columns, whose sweetness is long drawn out, about that other bad man, Hilton, who managed to get outside of A. T. Stewart's millions in a very complete and wonderful way. The Evening Post has taken up Quay, in succession o the World, and gives us its own acunt of the way in which he manipuisted the Pennsylvania treasury and These journals will do a good public ork, at the same time that they are eaming up their subscription list, if hey take care to make their stories true well as interesting. The libel laws aght to suffice to secure reasonable ve-acity in the tales; for it is assumed that any man charged with being a hief, will make the newspaper prove t, if the fact is deniable. Pretty safe subjects are taken in Quay ad Hilton, and there is no rumor of alt by either. They seem to have red on; deeming such discretion to be the better part of valor under the circumstances.

money from the control of telephone patents had a proper sense of public rights they would eagerly keep pace with every improvement.

The Montana senators have been seated ; and the Republican senators have let the public know that they so fear for the security of their majority, that they are ready to seat men not duly elected; and that they so distrust the fact of these men being the choice of their state that they choice of their state that they refuse to send them back to stand the risk of another election. Montana has shown signs in her recent elec-tion of being decidedly turned to the Democratic side; this senatorial question having been the means of securing to the Democracy the sympathy of the Montana people. And it is a fact that the Republican con-trol of the United States Senate is in a very slokly state. The Benublican states very sickly state. The Republican states are turning from their ancient mooring, both in New England and the North-west; and it is easily to be predicted that the Senate will be Democratic as soon as the present state of political feel-ing in the states can be represented in the body.

THERE was a remarkable scene in a New York tenement house on Tuesday. A very old Bohemian woman, with a heavy head of hair, long and snow white, was left at home on the sixth floor of the building to care for a year-old grandchild. Soon after the neighbors were attracted by cries of fire and found the old woman "standing upright in the centre of the room, with up turned face, praying. Her hands were clasped above her head. Her long white hair was ablaze, and the fire surrounded her from the waist upward." A blanket was quickly thrown around her and the fire extinguished, but she was so badly burned that life is dispaired of. She was making fire in the stove when a spark jumped into her lap and set fire to her dress, and remembering that to run would fan the flames, she just stood still and prayed and shouted. If she had rolled on the floor or used a blanket she might

At the April meeting of the Lancaster County Agricultural and Horticultural society the president, Hon. John H. Landis, of Manor township, stated that foreign corn and wheat must be excluded from this country to revive agricultural interests. Here is something for John's contemplation : During the last fiscal year we exported 69,592,929 bushels of corn and imported 2,388 bushels. We exported 312,186 bushels of corn meal and imported 396 bushels. Our exports of wheat amounted to 46,414,129 bushels and our imports amounted to 1,946 bushels. The small amount of grain imported is for seed. and it is hard to see why it should please the farmer to pay a tax on it.

Sons of the American Revolution. So the members of a growing patriotic society are styled, and their success indicates the prevalence of an ambition to be a son-of-agun of some sort. The Loyal Legion, which has just been holding its twenty-fifth jubiles in Philadelphia, provides for its own perpetuation by appealing to this natural pride of ancestry, and membership is passed down from father to eldest son, after the plan of the famous order of the Cincinnati. It is to be congratulated on escape from the party management which has troubled and discredited the Grand Army. The societies of civil war veterans and their sons all claim to make military service a requirement for admission; but the revolutionary sons throw out a big seine net to drag in anyone whose ancestors on either side happened to live in America in revolutionary times and gave evidence of sympathy with the movement for independence. Any person may be eligible to member-

Telephone Misery. Long distance telephones are now seing exhibited in New York, and the ng suffering users of the ordinary intruments are astonished to find that they can talk to people in Boston withat any of the annovance attending a aversation at a few squares distance, ad with wonderful case. A man standing six feet from a perfected long disce receiver in the centre of a room fully twelve feet square, heard with pereet distinctness the words of a speaker 230 miles away, in an office in Boston. The telephone people may attempt to excuse the inferiority of their service by magnifying the difficulties of telephoning in noisy cities where there are many wires and many phones on a circuit, but this instrument carried messages from centre to centre of two big citics, and it is stated that there were ighty telephones on the same circuit, ad each evening full operas, as sung at he theatres in New York, are audible in he neighborhood of that wonderful ansmitter. When the reader has ocsion to talk to some one over the e, let him remember these things ad reflect upon the sins of the telebe monopoly. Think of the vast mount of profanity, thought, spoken ad acted, for which the telephone, commuy are responsible. Think of the lost be lost temper, if not lost money and
