THE LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER, SATURDAY, APRIL 19, 1890.

What has filled the hum, forsaking her wonted shape to find the drama and tragedy, shall fruitfully beside her again when the time comes to sit at home and write down her adventures...

It must have been an hour after that I awoke with a chill (as was natural, and was stretching out a hand to pull the window close, but suddenly saw down again and fell to watching intently.

The window looked down, at the height of ten feet or so, upon a bowling green at the back of the "Crown" tavern kept by John Heyman, in the town square...

He was reading in a little book, and this first joggled my curiosity; for 'twas unnatural a man should read print at this dim hour, for he had a mind to try, should choose a cold bowling green for his purpose.
