LABOR'S STRUGGLE.

factories of the country is very large. y are taken from home influence, ininterent countries of Europe and he found by personal examination that where mechanics worked the longest hours the pay was the smallest, and it was so because here was no organization to protect itself. England, with mechanics working nine hours a day, was able to compete with other European countries working eleven aours a day only through organization.

The capital of the country is organized in rusts that control everything—even the secsisaries of life, and labor has the power o combine to regulate its own price. He went on to show what had been accombished by organization in the revolution of 1776, when success was brought about by the thirteen colonies standing and acting together in unity.

In a review of the history of trade unions is said the first was organized in 1826. It was followed in 1834 with an agitation in avor of ten hours work, and in 1840Congress assed the ten hour labor law. The ten our system entered in 1842 to the building trades and slowly afterwards to other rades. The time has now come when 8 ours is asked as a day's labor.

The last census shows that the capitalist lasses are in the minority, and yet they eccived five-sixths of all the wealth proluced. Of the six and a half billion dollars produced, five-sixths went to the three-sonts, or the capitalist, and one-sixth to even-tenths, the laborer.

luced. Of the six and a half billion dollars reduced, five-sixths went to the three-souths, or the capitalist, and one-sixth to seen-tenths, the laborer.

The company store business, he said, still xisted in Pennsylvania, notwithstanding hat it was in violation of law. He referred p the meagre wages paid coal miners, from 5 to 40 cents per ton for their labor, while he railroad companies and mine owners locket immense profits from the labor of heave miners.

In a discussion of one cause for low wages in the building trade he said that boss arpenters take work at nearly the cost of material, and in order to come out square in the cost of material, and in order to come out square upon arpenters take work at nearly the cost of naterial, and in order to come out square hey grind their employes to wages upon which they can not live decently.

He referred to the practical christianity of Cardinal Manning, who in the recent lock laborers' strike in England went to the employers and begged them to grant heraquest of the men because their demand was just, and the request was granted through the cardinal's influence. Cardinal libbons and Rev. Lyman Abbott were the riends of the workingman in this country and had proved to be such by the interest aken in their behalf. It is only the past lew years that the press and pulpit have admitted that there is something in the abor question worth considering.

In reviewing the history of the Carpenters' Unions he said there are now in this sounty 587 unions, with 700,000 enrelled members. Nine years ago there was but $1,200 in the treasury. To day there is hree-quarters of a million doilars. The only way for labor to get money. There is so use of an empty stomach trying to shake against a well filled purse.

The Carpenters' Union does not believe in strikes, and before a strike is ordered efforts are always made to compromise. In Chicago and Indianapolis, where there are strikes now, the Builders' Exchange, although organized to protect itself, deems the sign of labor to organize. If organization is a good thing for an employer, it is equally good for the workmen.

Nine hours as a day's work was the rule in 17 cities of this country nine years ago.

Nine hours as a day's work was the rule in 17 cities of this country nine years ago. In 1886 it was the rule in 182 cities and where it is in use employers would not go back to the ten-hour system.

He explained the Australian system of voting, of which he is a great advocate, be-cause it will be a benefit to the poor man when he cast his ballot without intimida-

In conclusion he urged those who were not members of labor unions to "jain, so thatyou stand together to assist one another and when you make fair demands they will have to be granted."

Has Not Been Found Yet.

John McKinney, the man who disappeared from his home in Drumore township about two weeks ago, has not been found yet. He went from his home to the residence of a relative near Bethewla, where he tried to collect some money. Since that he has not been seen, and the theory of suicide is strong.

The levees at Bayou Sara, above New Orleans, and fifteen other important dykes in Southern Louisians have broken and a vast extent of country has been flooded. The Morganza levee, which cost $250,000, broke and the planters fear that the growing crops will be ruined if the flood continues. The state has asked for federal aid. Frank Phillips, who became famous by resisting, single-handed, six of the Hatfield gang, and kidnapping some of them two years ago, was shot to death by Colonel W. Phillips had accused Smith, who was a Confederate officer during the war, with arresting and causing the death of his (Phillips) father, and he said he intended to kill him. Smith shot first, however.

STERLING'S CURVES.

They Are Easily Gauged by the Lebanon Glub—The Score Kept Down by Snyder.

The crowd that went to the ball game at McGrann's Park yesterday afternoon was about the same size as those that have been there each day since the season opened. It seems that the same people go to each game and few more. The attraction was a game between the Active and Lebanon clubs. Sterling was put in by the home club, but he seemed very weak and had no speed. In the second inning the visitors fell upon him and pounded his delivery all over the field. Something like it was seen again in the fourth inning, when the Lebanon gave another exhibition of stick work. In the fifth inning Snyder took Sterling's place, and but two hits were made of him to the slows. Had he hear, in made off him to the close. Had he been in from the start the Actives might have won. Herndon, who has not been considered much of a pitcher, was in the box for Lebanon, and the Actives could not hit him. Graulich tild his usual good work behind the bat. The full score was:

Many of the tramps and beggars who come to Lancaster just now have discovered a new stopping place. They go out to Harbaugh hall, at Franklin and Marshall college, to beg food and other things. Mr. McKinstry, who has charge of the hall, has been greatly annoyed of late by them. Last night Constables Pyle and Roerich went to the campus and caught a colored man who gave his name as Harry F. Poslon, and home as Fort Wayne. He and others had been hanging around the place drinking and annoying people, and this morning Alderman Deen gave him 5 days. He was warned to make himself scarce after his release, or he would get a longer term.

THE INCENDIARY'S TORCH.

Another Barn in the Lower End Destroyed by Fire.

The incendiary seems to be getting in his work in the lower part of this county. Within two months quite a number of buildings have been destroyed and there is no doubt as to the origin of the fire in every case. Last night another was added to the list. The barn of Jacob McCord, which is situated in Bart township, between Quarry-ville and the Green Tree (on the Valley road), was burned to the ground. The fire was discovered about nine o'clock and as the premises are not occupied at present there was no one close at hand to do anything to check the flames, which soon had possession of the entire building. There was nothing but some hay and farming implements in the barn. The lose is covered by an insurance of $1,000 in the Ponn Mutual company. Another Barn in the Lower End De-

Sang Sacred Songs.

A colored mar, with seemingly tireless lungs, sang sacred songs in Centre Square this morning. He begun singing about 7 o'clock and did not finish until 8} o'clock. His voice is musical and can be distinctly heard a block away. The bucksters along the curb seemed to annoy him by their cries of: "Cheap lemons, oranges and hananas!" "Dose gogonuts iz caranted!" etc. While they were yelling the "minstrel" put extra force on his bellows and produced noise almost as voluminous as that make by Barnam's callege.

Sophis Cunningham was tried for committing an assault and battery on Sarah Frankford, living on Lafayette street, on January 24th. The prosecutrix testified that she went to defendant's house, No. 422 John street, to attend the funeral of her nice, and she was caught by the throat by Sophis and struck in the face.

The defense was that Mrs. Frankford was notified not to come to the funeral, as she was not wanted. Mrs. Cunningham made a dying request that Mrs. Frankford should not be allowed to look on her face, as her conduct had killed her and all that Mrs. Cunningham did was to push her out of the house, no blows having been struck by her. A number of witnesses who knew the defendant for many years, gave her a good reputation for peace. Jury out when court adjourned.

CURRENT BUSINESS.

Williard Atkinson, of Philadelphia, was appeinted guardian of Abner Way, of Arizona, a minor son of J. H. Way, deceased, late of Sadabury township.

Wednesday Morning.—The jury in the assault and battery case against Sophia Cunningham rendered a verdict of not guilty and divided the costs equally between Sarah Frankford and Sophia Cunningham, the defendant.

John Walker, of Columbia, was indicted for felony, in attempting to hang himself. The district attorney said the case could not be made out, their being no act of assembly to cover the offense. A nol pros. was entered by leave of court.

Kate Huyett, of Turkey Hill, charged Geo. W. Mumma with being the father of her child. The jury convicted him, and the usual sentence was imposed.

William Moore, colored, was called for trial on a charge of larceny as bailee, on complaint of Stephen Wilson. The subject matter of the dispute was a set of harness which Wilson gave to Moore to have repaired, and for having them repaired he was to have the use of them for a short time and then to return the harness. Hefore Moore had an opportunity to return the harness the suit, through a misunderstanding, was brought. Counsel for the commonwealth stated that the case would not be made out and a verdict of not guilty was rendered. The jury in the larceny cases against John Washington Gray, Richard Hall and Chas. Sawyer, tried on Tuesday afternoon, acquitted Gray and Sawyer and convicted Hall. Sentence was deferred.

Charles Biskin, David Miller and Abram Hogentobler were called for trial for larceny. Miller pleaded guilty and the remaining two were tried. The testimony showed that potatoes and corned beef were stolen from Fred. S. Bletz early in March, and a number of chickens from Samuel Haney, living near Columbia, by Miller and Biskin, jand taken to the house of Hogentobler. Miller exonerated Hogentobler from any participation in the theft, but said Biskin was with him when the stealing was done.

Hogentobler denied all knowledge of the thefts, and as to Biskin, it was shown that he was in Columbia spending the evenings on which the larcenies were committed with two ladies, and that he did not leave these ladies until after Miller came back after committing the thefts.

Biskin proved an excellent reputation for honesty prior to this charge being preferred.

The jury acquitted Biskin and convicted Hogentobler of receiving stolen goods.

Miller was sentenced to undergo an im-prisonment of two years and four months.

Hogentobler was sentenced to an imprison-ment of one year.

John Lord, of Muddy Creek, Brecknock township, was tried for wife beating. Mrs. Lord testified that in March her husband struck her in the face and threatened to give her a good thrashing if she did not stop crying.

The defense was that Lord was on the bed, not feeling well, and Mrs. Lord pulled the covers from him. He told her that if she did not stop he would lick her. She still kept on and he got up. The wife had a cigar knife in her hand, and fearing that she would do harm with it, he tried to take it from her. In the struggle his elbow struck her ou the neck. He denied having struck her with his fist. The jury rentered a verdict of guilty. The court sentenced him to undergo an imprisonment of four months.

tain features of the bill, especially the increase made in the number of government employes. The bill provided for the appointment of 141 new officers, at a cost of $161,500. He did not say that all of this increase was unnecessary, but in many instances it should not have been made at this time. Referring to the civil pension list, he said that a hurried examination had shown the fact that in the departments there were employed $97 persons who were wholly or partially inefficient, but who draw salaries amounting to $450,000. He believed that if there was new blood in the departments 1,500 clerks could be discharged at a saving to the tax payers of $1,500,000 a year. He called the attention of the committee on civil service reform to this fact.

Mr. Allen, of Mississippi, confessed that he was somewhat disappointed in the bill. He quoted from a speech delivered by Mr. Cannon and used as a campaign document, declaring that the Republican party was devoted to the country and would, if it came into power, administer the government with greater economy and greatly reduced expenditures. It was this promise which accounted for the disappointment. He $5750 to find that there was any reduction in this bill. Now and then he liked to meet his Republican friends on the street and chat with them; but after the 4th of March, 1880, it was impossible for him to keep up with them in their wild rush to the departments to get offices and show their devotion to their country. [Laughter.] He then quoted from the civil service piank of the Republican party and from President Harrison's letter of acceptance. But the Republican party and gone back on its promises, and he wanted to call the attention of the country to the civil service pretension of the administration.

He had some respect for the man who acknowledged himself a spoilsman; but a man who obtained office under a hypocritical guise would never get the respect of the people.

Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, reviewed in detail the increase in offices and salaries.
In the Fiftieth Congress there were created 985 offices, with an aggreate expenditure of $1,164,000. The increase of salaries made by the pending bill was only $5,000, the increase of salaries made in the Fiftieth Congress was $1,200,000. The commissions of the above named will go into effect on the first Monday of May.

The Ambulance.

The new city ambulance is practically ready for service, needing only a few articles which may be added by special funds like that raised by Miss Kieffer, as heretofore noted. It is fitted with a patent wire mattress cot with folding legs, which is an improvement on the stretchers used in most ambulances. This is so placed as to leave a narrow space to the left for the doctor or attendant, and a low bench fills the forward end of this space so that the person in attendance may ride in the best position for watching the patient or directing the driver. We have received the following:

Two Freight Wrecks.

This morning a small wreck occurred on the Pennsylvania railroad just west of Leaman Pface. Engine No. 1,349, drawing an eastern bound freight train, ran into the rear of a similar train, going the same way, about nine o'clock. The caboose and one car were knocked from the rails and across the north track. Both were badly broken and in consequence mail train was delayed for over an bour.

At Middletown last evening several cars jumped the track at a frog, but neither the damage nor the delay was very great.

Mr. Clements, of Georgis, in reply to Mr. Cannon's statement of the increase in salaries and offices by the Fiftieth Congress declared that nearly all the increases were proposed by Senate amendments and forced upon the House.

Mr. Spinola, of New York, questioned very seriously whether the farming element of the country would appreciate this additional expense. With reference to the civil service law, he said that it was unjeffersoular, un-Democratic and unamerican, and there were not five men on the other side who honesity believed in it; it was a fraud; it had been operated as a fraud, and the present administration had not paid the least respect to it whatever.

Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, said of the civil service system that if each member of the House would vote his deliberate opicion, he would declare that the whole system was founded on a mistake and its administration on a false principle. It was derimental to the very purpose it was aimed to accomplish. (Applause.)

Mr. Clements—What civil service reform was endorsed by the Chicago convention?

Mr. Grosvenor—To turn Democrate out and put Republicans in. [Laughter.]

Continuing, Mr. Grosvenor said that not only would he vote against increasing the force of the commission, but he would vote here, and everywhere, to repeal the whole law. [Applause.] It was a fraud. It was not un-American and un-Republican mere favoritism and nepotism and personal interest by which a spoils or patronage system must be always operated. Believes What a Voudoo Says.

From the York Daily.

There is considerable excitement a few miles south of York upon the discovery that a large sum of money, $30,000, has been lying buried in a cask these many years at a certain place not far from Louck's mill, on the Baltimore pike, about four miles south of York. The story is that a "voudoo," a colored conjurer, made the owner of the property believe that a keg containing $30,000 was buried on his premises, and yesterday a party was put to work to find it, and after digging for some time they found the spot where the cask is buried, but they can't get at it, as it is under the foundation wall of the house. It is said that the owner, who has implicit confidence in the conjuration, intends taking out the foundation wall of the house so that the cask and money can be secured.

Messrs. Hager & Brotter have leased the second story rooms of the new Trust building, on North Queen street, where they will have an exhibit of decorative materials, svaliable for the finest interior decration of houses, especially Lincrusta Walton, stained glass, wrought iron grills and tile flooring. This exhibit will be in charge of Mrs. Belle Fisher. There will also be a display and sale of oriental rugs and draperies under charge of Mr. S. A. Keuleyan, of Smyrna, a special student at Alderman Hershey gave him ten days yesterday.

A Strike Not Yet settled.

The trouble between the moulders and the proprietors of the Champion Blower and Forge works has not yet been settled. The men have done no work since Saturday, and although it was reported that one had gone to work such was not the case. The proprietors offered to let the men do plece-work, and stand half the loss, but they would not agree.

Committee Organized.

Last evening the committee on manufactures and industrial enterprises of city council met and elected Charles J. White, of the Third ward, chairman. John E. Schum was made chairman of the sanitary committee.

The Prosecutrix Did Not Appear.

Max Miller and Isasc Miller, Russians committed an unprovoked assault on Sarsh Shreck. Tuesday evening was fixed for the hearing. The alderman learned that the prosecutrix had been induced to go away from town so that she could not appear and testify. The alderman decided to go on with the case without her, and after hearing all the testimony presented reserved his decision.

A Pleasant Surprise, There was a big surprise at the house of Allen G. Pyle, constable of the First ward, last evening. Yesterday was Mrs. Pyle's birthday and she retired early in the evening. About nine o'clock a crowd of her friends came to the house and surprised her in bed. She was awakened and she soon found what was the cause of the call. There was a splendid time for several hours by the party.
