DON'T HE HUMBUGGED!

Don't Be Humbugged

It has often been said by strangers who have been here working their questionable, but profitable, methods of advertising their busi-ness, that the people of Lancaster are easily Humbugged.

Is This True?

Can any business house in Lancaster or any other city afford to give 10 per cent. off on all goods purchased of them for 90 days of the besi season of the year, to merely (as claimed) test the efficiency of advertising, and to ascertain the number who read and believe advertise ments. ments.

There is not 10 Per Cent, Clear Profit in the Shoe Business in Lancaster to day. There may have been in War Times, but with competition so strong all means are resorted to to catch trade.

Granting that the house would do a business of $2,000 per month, for the Best Three Months of the Year, or $6,000 in all, it would mean $600 given back to purchasers, which a first though would show it impossible to do except by put ting not less than 10 per cent.on the goods before numbers. A One-Price System does away with these questionable methods, as all customers are charged alike for goods, which are marked in Plain Figures, and not in Letters or Characters and sometimes not at all, where a Get-All-You-Can-System prevails.

HANDSEWED SHOES

Men's Wear!

Fashioned in accord with good com-mon sense principal, in three styles, Button, Lace and Congress, with plain toes or tipped.

A shoe much admired here comes from one of the leading American makers of Fine Shoes. Are shaped over what is termed "The Boston Last," a style modified from the "Common Scuse" last, and are popular with middle aged and active business men. They are reasonably broad at the bottoms. The spread of the uppers incident to breaking in never project over the edges of the soles to render the shoe ill-dooking. The leather in the uppers is a fine grade of calfskin, well filted, lined and frimmed. The bottom stock is of sceillent tannage, easonably stout for everyday wear. They are hand-wit and hand-fin hed, a class of shoemaking known as custom quality. Are made with extra room for the prominent joints of the foot, giving to them perfect reedom of action with perfect comfort. Very genteel looking shoes, difficult to match anywhere so moderate in cost as you'll dind there. Ask to see them.

Another Line of Fine Shoes for Men's Wear worthy of mention are here—an English toe shape—the fashionable young man's favorite. A superior grade of stock is used throughout in the making Are handsomely tipped, thoroughly well made and highly finished. A fault—that is one of their strongest features. Examination solicited.

Ideal Shapes in Fine Patent Leather Grades—strikingly handsome and mod-erate priced. Nothing like them in Lancaster.
