OME'S FAR-OFF DAY.
One ar-off day, when Time was young.
And Spring a new-born fairy.
About the world her mantle Bung
With many a sweet vagary.
The chiming of the Illy bells.
Her dainty footsteps after.
The busy brook, where rippling dwells
Soft echo of her laughter,
awoke young Love, who steeping lay:
Then up the wrebrin started,
and vowed by all the buds of May
They'd never more be parted.
Her heart beneath its golden some
Grew Highter than a facther:
I Love and Spring are fair alone,
What must they be together?
I power that earth to heaven oplifts—
Ah, wisely was it fated,
hat two of Jove's divinest gifts
Should be forever unated!
—Sidney Grey, in N. Y. Tribune.

EATING WITH THE LAPPS. sing Experience of a Traveler in the Land of the Reindeer.

Amusing Experience of a Traveler in the Land of the Scindeer.

From the Newcastle, England, Chronicie.

I was taken into one of the Lapp's hutr. In the centre a wood fire was burning brightly on some stones, and at first the smoke was very unpleasant; but soon one became acoustomed to it, and it served the baseful purpose of driving away the winged plague, which had followed us sell day. The man proceeded to boil some coffee, which in a few minutes was set before me, together with a wooden bowlful of reindeer's milk. The coffee was not very palatable, but under the circumstances worse fare would have proved acceptable. The milk I found to be too thick and rich to drink much of. A sugar losf was produced from beneath some clothes in a corner, and a few pieces were chipped off and handed to me. I accepted them with my politiest smile, accompanied by a bow; but when I proceeded to sugar my coffee in the orthodox style, the action caused much amusement to the juvenile Lapps, who roared with laughter, and appeared to enjoy the fun immensely. I found that I ought to have esten the sugar separately, as they did, and they evidently considered my way of sweetening coffee inex pressibly funnty.

Cakes were then served to each one.

Cakes were then served to each one. These were about the size of a penny bun, but of the consistency of putty or dough, which they somewhat resemble in appearance. Sour cream was eaten with them. So nasty were they that a mouthful gave me what Mrs. Brown would call "quite a turn," and I was glad to snuggle the remainder underneath the rug on which I was slitting. I did not like to throw it away for fear of offending my hosts, but trusted to the sharp nesses of the dogs to get me out of the difficulty.

Of its existence by dull pain or sharp twinges in the right side, or beneath the dexter shoulder blade, accept the reminder as a warning, and regulate the organ without loss of time, by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The above symptoms are usually accompanied by yellowness of the skin, constipation, furred tongue, disorder of the stomach, sick headache and morning nausea. But a reform is promptly instituted by the Bitters, the best possible substitute for calomel, blue pill, and other superpotent and burtful drugs erroneously designated as remedies for billousness. Appetite and digestion are restored, and the bowels resume activity, when an impetus is given to the functions of health by this sterling anti-billous medicine, which also has the effect of enriching and purifying the circulation, and fortifying the system against mainfal infection in air or water. It is also highly beneficial for rhoumatism, kidney and bladder troubles. a29tom6 If Your Liver Reminds You

Sneezing, snuffing and coughing! This is the music all over the land just now. "I've got such an awful cold in my bead." Cure it with Ely's Cream Balm or it may end in the toughest form of catarrh.
