

CONSTABLES APPOINTED.

THE COURT FILLS THE VACANCIES IN THE REMAINING DISTRICTS.

John Crawford Named For the Third Ward, City-Suit For Perjury Brought Growing Out of This Contest.

Court met at 10 o'clock this morning for the transaction of current business.

Frederick Lipley, who was made the prosecutor and the costs imposed upon him in two cases brought against Otto Weber for violating the liquor law, was sentenced to pay the same and once took a writ of error to the supreme court.

In the suit for malicious trespass against David Herberberger, in which the grand jury ignored the bill and imposed the costs on Sarah Bushey, a rule was granted to show cause why so much of the $1,000 fine should be paid.

In the suit for malicious trespass against David Herberberger, in which the grand jury ignored the bill and imposed the costs on Sarah Bushey, a rule was granted to show cause why so much of the $1,000 fine should be paid.

William Mitchell was sentenced last August to an imprisonment of nine months for carrying concealed deadly weapons and assault. Through a clerical mistake the commitment at the prison reads that he was sentenced to an imprisonment of twenty years. The court this morning corrected the same. The fact that Mitchell can be released at the end of the nine months term.

An issue to determine the ownership of personal property levied upon was awarded, in which Sarah Kunkel was made plaintiff, and J. F. Andrews, defendant.

The rules to strike off appeals in the Lancaster borough street cases, in which Jacob B. Miller and H. S. Hauser are interested, were discharged.

Mrs. Josephine Schilling filed an answer to the injunction issued restraining her from erecting a fence between her property and that of Alderman Donnelly. She claims that the alderman erected the fence on her land and for that reason she tore it down. The court fixed the third Saturday of May for the argument of the matter.

M. J. Bowman, Kinners, was divorced from Alia E. Bowman, on the ground of desertion.

Reasons for a new trial were filed in the suit of Emanuel Keener's administrators vs. David Zartman's administrators, tried this week, in which the verdict of the jury was in favor of the plaintiff.

The court considered the remaining vacancies for constables.

In the third ward, city, constable, A. F. Shenck, for J. E. Crawford, presented the affidavit of Stephen J. Dittus, setting forth that B. Frank Leman was suspended for drunkenness during the administration of Mayors MacGonigle and Morton. Leman, who had no notice of such an affidavit being presented, was unable to contradict it as MacGonigle's administrator. As to Morton's he proved by Detective Barnhold that he had never been suspended.

Leman, when he heard of Dittus' affidavit, at once prosecuted him before Alderman Spurrier for perjury.

The court appointed John Crawford as the constable.

In the Elizabethtown district the applicants were S. B. McLanahan, the old constable, and A. B. Ryder, who claimed to be elected. The court appointed McLanahan.

For East Donegal township Jacob H. Myers, the old constable, was appointed. The other applicant was Horace H. Klugh, who was returned as elected.

For Little Britain township the contestants were Wm. K. Montgomery, the old constable, and A. J. Jones, who was elected in February. Jones was appointed.

He is Out One Thousand Dollars and Has a Baby on His Hands.

The Rev. Father Ariens, pastor of the St. Joseph's Catholic church, Bridgeport, Conn., sent $1,000 to the Rev. Father Ariens, a pretty one-year-old baby boy on his hands, the parents of which he does not know. It is said that the baby was found in a box, and the father of the child was a man who had been in the army.

The men left the house apparently delighted with the scheme. Next morning a lady came up to the house and said that a pretty woman dressed in black appeared at the pastor's door with a baby in her arms. The housekeeper received the child in accordance with the father's order, and the woman entered the cab and drove away.

Late in the afternoon the two strangers arrived at the parsonage. The father, who was a man of about 40 years of age, called in to see her son, Albert F. Frost, who is a painter in Philadelphia, was 24 yesterday. He came to Lancaster in the 7:30 train last evening and went to his home. Late in the evening he was surprised by a large number of his young friends calling upon him. In all there were 120 people in the two parties and they had a highly enjoyable time.

The New Ambulance. The new ambulance made its first trip yesterday and when it appeared on the street it received the highest praises from everybody that saw it. It was used to haul a lady patient of Dr. Frank A. Mulmberg from the office of that physician, on East Orange street, to St. Joseph's hospital. It was in charge of Officers Dorward and Winower, with Samuel Haverstick, liveryman, driving.

The fund stands as follows: Previously acknowledged $146.50 From the Epiphany $10.00 Collected by Miss Elizabeth Steinman $10.00 Cash $10.00 Total $186.50

A Handsome Ambulance. From the Epiphany. The handsome ambulance paid for by a fund raised by the INTELLIGENCER, and largely contributed to by the publishers themselves, will make its first trip at five o'clock this afternoon, at which time a patient will be taken from the City hall to St. Joseph's hospital. The ambulance, which is of the most approved kind, was built by D. A. Allick's sons, and will be a credit to those who contributed to its purchase.

A Thing to be Proud of. From the Epiphany. Lancaster city's new ambulance is a thing to be proud of. The work of the INTELLIGENCER in securing it will be surely appreciated.

THE INCREASE OF PENSIONS.

Annual Expenditures Rapidly Passing the Hundred Million Mark.

From the Baltimore Sun.

The increase of pension expenditure in recent years is something wonderful. The proper maximum pension expenditure on account of the civil war—the basis of real disability incurred in military service—was reached in 1878, when the outgo for pensions was $65,749,000. It decreased from that year till 1879, when it was $61,941,415. The pension attorney, however, at that time captured the demagogues, and the result that new legislation was devised to show that the public money upon persons not previously deemed worthy of pensions. Their objects have been greatly favored by the protection, whose interest is to keep tariff taxes at the highest notch. The consequence is seen in a pension expenditure in 1889 of $65,749,000. In the present fiscal year the outgo is $100,000,000. Next year, if the pension bill just passed by the house is a law, the "annual expenditure" will be $100,000,000. If the "prisoners' bill" also becomes a law a goodly number of millions will be added to this figure. The amount disbursed for the year ending March 31, 1891 has been $115,213,413, exclusive of the $600,000,000 given in bounties to volunteers. There is a curious relation between the increase of the interest on the public debt and the increase of pensions, which indicates a tendency of the war burden to become perpetual. On August 31, 1886, when the debt was least, the principal of the debt was $2,381,530,294 and the interest charge $150,977,007. At present the interest bearing debt is about $750,000,000, and the interest charge $35,000,000. The increase in interest from debt paid goes, it is evident, into pensions, so that there is to be no relief from war burdens. If any one cherishes the idea that the pension laws are of trifling importance for the reason that the large expenditure they authorize is to last only a few years, he will perhaps change his mind when he learns that the pension bill just passed by the house contains provisions for the payment of pensions that there are still 37 pensioners drawing pensions on account of the revolutionary war, which ended nearly two centuries ago.

Another Successful Anniversary Celebration By the Goethean Society.

The fifty-fifth anniversary of the Goethean Literary society of Franklin and Marshall college, which was held Friday night in the opera house, was a signal success in every particular. The audience, composed of Lancaster's representative people, was immense, and many were turned from the doors, unable to gain admittance.

The decorations were beautiful in the extreme. The background of the stage was set with lowering palms and a galaxy of greenery, which were overhung by a basket of beautiful cut flowers, ropes of evergreens and streamers of the college colors, blue and white. The footlights, couched beneath an arch of blooming house-plants, and the mures on either side of the stage, which emerged from veritable gardens of foliage, by their illumination served greatly to make the typical representation of the oriental splendor of Goethe's time. In a semi-circle, upon the stage, sat the faculties of the institution and the orators of the evening. After an overture by the orchestra, the speaker, Mr. T. H. Leinbach, dressed in the Oxford gown, as were the orators, introduced the salutatorian, Mr. W. H. Keller, Bellefonte, who spoke on "Jackson and the Nullification."

A FAMILY AFFAIR.

A Woman Who Refuses to Leave the Green Grounds With Her Husband. A tremendous crowd of people were drawn to that part of town in which the Welsh Brothers' show appeared last evening. The streets in the immediate neighborhood were filled to overflowing with a yelling crowd of boys, men and even women. The conduct of many of the boys was very bad, and they deserved a place in a station house cell. The evening's entertainment was the name of Aaron Nagle, who had a head full of rum, made his appearance on the ground and for a time he was a much bigger attraction than the circus. He found his wife talking to another man and insisted upon her going home with him. She not only refused to accompany him but, as she was the stronger of the two, she proceeded to give him a good thrashing in knocking pugilism. She made an attack upon him and that so pleased the crowd that they surrounded them, yelling like Indians. The police finally stopped the fun, but the woman remained on the ground and was awarded the fight.

Married Over a Coffin.

A residence of Thomas A. Moore, in St. Louis, an unusual event occurred Sunday last in the marriage of his daughter, Miss Mary Moore, to a young man named Aaron Nagle, who had a head full of rum, made his appearance on the ground and for a time he was a much bigger attraction than the circus. He found his wife talking to another man and insisted upon her going home with him. She not only refused to accompany him but, as she was the stronger of the two, she proceeded to give him a good thrashing in knocking pugilism. She made an attack upon him and that so pleased the crowd that they surrounded them, yelling like Indians. The police finally stopped the fun, but the woman remained on the ground and was awarded the fight.

A Double Surprise.

There was a double surprise party at the residence of Albert H. Frost, No. 443 North Charlotte street, last evening. Mrs. Frost was 50 years of age Friday and in the evening about 40 friends called in to see her. Her son, Albert F. Frost, who is a painter in Philadelphia, was 24 yesterday. He came to Lancaster in the 7:30 train last evening and went to his home. Late in the evening he was surprised by a large number of his young friends calling upon him. In all there were 120 people in the two parties and they had a highly enjoyable time.

TESTING A NOVEL FIRE ESCAPE.

A Man Drops From the Suspension Bridge With an Air of an Alumnus.

On Friday afternoon J. J. Athey, of Marion, Ark., dropped from the upper suspension bridge at Niagara Falls, into a small boat waiting for him in the river below. His weight is 135 pounds, and the object was to test the tape as a fire escape from tall buildings.

One end of the tape was fastened to the bridge, and the rest of it was wound about a small reel. This reel Athey grasped in his hand, and proceeded with lightning rapidity, or stop at will. When about two feet from the water, and while hanging at the end of over 100 feet of the tape, he had his picture taken. His weight is 135 pounds, and the object was to test the tape as a fire escape from tall buildings.

An Insane Man.

On Wednesday Jacob Witz, a man who seemed to be of weak mind, was sent to the workhouse for fifteen days by Mayor Clark. Last evening Officer Welsh, of York, came to Lancaster in search of Witz. He said that the man was insane and formerly was an inmate of the state asylum. He grew much better and was taken home. A few days ago he escaped from his friends. The officer went to the workhouse and took charge of the man, leaving with him for York at 7:40.

A Horse Found.

Officer Batel found a horse running loose on the streets last night. He was taken to a stable to await the owner. He is a bay with no shoes on front feet. He had marks of harness and looked as though he had been driven hard. Chief Borge can give further particulars concerning the animal.

Threatened His Neighbor.

Emanuel Hammond, living on John street, has been prosecuted before Alderman A. F. Donnelly for surety of the peace. His neighbor, Mrs. Blackwood, alleges that he threatened to kill her. Hammond gave bail for a hearing.

Death of a Lady.

Mrs. Elizabeth Weaver, wife of William Weaver, a well known painter of this city, died at her home No. 604 North Queen street, on Friday at noon, aged 64 years. She had been sick for a long time and died of a complication of diseases. She was a daughter of the late John Tamany, of this city, and Mrs. Diana Evelyn, of Reading. The deceased was a member of the Reformed church of this city. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

THE ANNUAL CONTEST.

SOPHOMORES AND FRESHMEN TAKE FLIGHTS IN ORATORY.

Measures C. L. Leonard and J. H. Bowman Given the Prizes—The Goethean Society Celebrate Anniversary 55.

This morning the annual sophomore and freshman oratorical contests of the Goethean Literary society were held in the society hall of F. & M. college, beginning at 9 o'clock. The contests were exceptionally good and a decision was a difficult thing to be made. The young orators reflected great credit both upon themselves and the society. The judges were Dr. J. S. Stahr, Dr. J. M. Tittel and Rev. C. L. Fry. Following are the speakers of the sophomore class with their subjects:

J. H. Apple, "Carthage's Delenda Est"; E. W. Wright, "A Word of Warning"; E. H. Francis, "Nature's Agenda"; C. L. Leonard, "Charlemagne, the Napoleon of the 9th Century"; Lloyd Reed, "American Liberty"; H. C. Eider, "The West"; J. C. Snyder, "Civil Service Reform"; J. Winger, "The Disarmament of Nations."

The prize, a beautiful gold medal, was awarded by Dr. Tittel to Mr. C. L. Leonard, the successful competitor. The contestants of the freshman class were: J. L. Barnhart, "Progress of Democracy"; J. H. Bowman, "Time and Our Relation to It"; E. E. Weaver, "The Question of Inequality."

The judges selected Mr. J. H. Bowman as the winner and presented him with a very fine edition of Longfellow's poems.

THE OPERA HOUSE CROWDED.

Another Successful Anniversary Celebration By the Goethean Society.

The fifty-fifth anniversary of the Goethean Literary society of Franklin and Marshall college, which was held Friday night in the opera house, was a signal success in every particular. The audience, composed of Lancaster's representative people, was immense, and many were turned from the doors, unable to gain admittance.

The decorations were beautiful in the extreme. The background of the stage was set with lowering palms and a galaxy of greenery, which were overhung by a basket of beautiful cut flowers, ropes of evergreens and streamers of the college colors, blue and white. The footlights, couched beneath an arch of blooming house-plants, and the mures on either side of the stage, which emerged from veritable gardens of foliage, by their illumination served greatly to make the typical representation of the oriental splendor of Goethe's time. In a semi-circle, upon the stage, sat the faculties of the institution and the orators of the evening. After an overture by the orchestra, the speaker, Mr. T. H. Leinbach, dressed in the Oxford gown, as were the orators, introduced the salutatorian, Mr. W. H. Keller, Bellefonte, who spoke on "Jackson and the Nullification."

He referred to the trying situations of

Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

AN OFFICIAL INSPECTION.

Mayor Clark and the Committee of Councils Examine the Fire Department on Friday.

The party that made the tour of inspection of the fire department on Friday afternoon consisted of Mayor Clark, Chief Engineer Vondermilt, Veterinar, Surgeon Groff and the following members of the committee: Messrs. Evera, Erlman, Schum, Trout, Bradet and Crebaugh, with their clerk, Dr. H. F. Eberman.

The party were in an omnibus and they first drove to the station house, where they examined the battery, which is kept on the second floor, and it was found to be in good working order. Chief Vondermilt explained the working of the galvanometer and further stated that by the present system the city is not sufficiently protected. The circuit is fifteen miles long, which is too great. If an accident happens to the wires at any one point the whole line is out, and for that reason the chief thought it would be well for each engine house to have a telephone.

The next place visited was the old Empire house recently purchased by the city from John L. Arnold. The committee went through the building and found it to be in good condition.

From this house the committee went to that of company No. 4 on North Queen street. They inspected the house, both downstairs and up, including the sleeping rooms of the men, and found everything all right. The horses were quickly run out at the stroke of the gong and were promptly hitched up. This same trial was made at all of the houses and the horses did well. The men of No. 4 stated that they desired a new shed in the yard for the storing away of coal wood. These new sheds were needed and the apparatus is in good condition.

At No. 1 house everything was found to be in the best of order and Chief Vondermilt explained to the members, several of whom are new, the working of the big alarm bell. The men asked for blinds for the windows of their rooms which are very low. More light is wanted in the large room where the engine and hose carriage are kept and that question was discussed.

At No. 2 house on South Queen street, the same condition of affairs existed as at the other two, as far as the stock and apparatus were concerned, as they were found in first-class condition. All that the men asked for was a few chairs upon which to sit.

The last house visited was No. 3 on East King street, where the Hayes truck is kept in addition to the engine and hose cart. This is the newest and best house in the city, and it was found to be kept in good condition by the men, as the committee visited every room in it. The horses and apparatus were found to be capably kept. The chief engineer arrived at the rear of the lot put back to the line of Grant street, in order that a load of hay can be gotten into the yard, and a new hose trough is needed as the water from the present one runs into the neighbor's yard. A new horse for the cart is also necessary.

This is the only house in the city that has a pole leading from the second to the first floor, the men slide down upon it, and the men were through the exercises. Benjamin Buhl and David Reese, of Truck A, and Jacob Foust and Zeb Wise, of engine company No. 3, went to bed, taking off their clothing. An alarm was then struck upon the house gong, and in 40 seconds afterwards the men were in their seats on the apparatus.

From this house the committee went out to Ann and Orange streets and Mayor Clark walked down to box 34, at Chestnut and Ann street, where he struck an alarm. In less than two minutes company No. 3, and the truck were on the ground, and in 34 minutes from the time the alarm was first struck there were lines of hose laid, one of which was from the top of a 45 foot truck ladder. The other engine arrived at a very short space of time, but the test of making a quick run was only made with company No. 3.

After the entire department had been inspected the committee decided to hold a special meeting on Monday evening to discuss the advisability of increasing the wages of the firemen who are obliged to work at three o'clock, and a petition was signed. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written, and will not until the smoke of prejudice shall have entirely passed away. Rounds of applause followed and when the orchestra had finished the waltz, "Etincelles," Mr. C. N. Heller, Berlin, was introduced, who spoke on "Men Self-Educated." Erasmus styled himself self-taught. Born in poverty he became the leading scholar of his age and the founder of the system of Greek pronunciation which was widely used in the schools of Europe. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

He referred to the trying situations of Jackson when president, and the nobility with which he met them. Despite political differences, he said, he could cite no actions of any man more worthy of lasting praise, or grander ideas for posterity to imitate. The true history of our country has not yet been written,