CLIPPED WINGS e time for the aloging of birds flad come, and with pinions spread, arrowy flights, to unknown heights, they circled the vault o'erhead, if from fires of celestial choirs their fluttering breasts were fed.

here were carols and hymna and songs, Bolos and sweet duets, ays and ditties and lullables, And whisties and cansonets, ar and away, like the tinkle and play

But there, in the feathered throng,
Was one that might have outstripped
The rest in their upward course,
And his wings in the ether dipped.
That ficated nigher the celestial choir,
Had those pinions never been clipped.

A rift through a burnished cloud
To him was an open door,
And he longed to rise to the clearer akies
And bathe in the blue once more;
But all in vain, the stress and the strain;
He could sing, but he could not soar!

old he then in sullen mood To a leafy nook retreat, After from the haunt of birds that vaunt The prowess of pinions fleet, And on lowly bush forever hush

The song that was once so sweet!

Ah no! For a prayer and a song
Will heavenward take their flight,
Impelled like a dart from the wounded h
That thus would its woes recite;
And on mystic wings the one who sings
Is borne to a wondrous height,

Where cherubim and seraphim Continually adore, Ascend, I know, from those below, Who sing—though they cannot soar.
—Josephine Pollard.

"For a year I was afflicted with a horrible case of blood poison, and upwards of five months of that time I was unable to do work of any kind. My finger nails came off and my hair dropped out, leaving my head as clean and smooth as if it had been shaved. I consulted the best local physicians, and spent hundreds of dollars for medicines of different kinds, but without receiving the slightest benefit. I was advised finally to visit Hot Springs. This I did, but becoming diagnated with the treatment I was receiving there, commenced taking Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) The effect that S. S. R. had on me was truly wonderful. I commenced to recover after taking the first bottle, and by the time I had taken twelve bottles I was entirely cured—cured by Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) when the world-renowned Hot Springs had failed.
