...for the starting tears I saw neither more nor less than... We, the decent being gentle, broke into a run, in hopes to catch up with Col. John Digby's dragoons, that already were far across the hills beyond.

...are the snave of trumps, sir, and a pay was card; as matters now stand, only the queen... 'Right, but where he king and ace? ...'The king is the Cornish yarder; the ace is my pistol here, which I hold.'

...Sure enough, after him there came in view two stooping forms that bore my dear maid between them-one by the feet, the other by the shoulders. ...'Who in the field's name here?' shouted the foremost, pulling in his horse with a scramble.

SAMUEL CROOK.

...I was not a novice of it, but in the confusion of the first report the groans of our men had returned past me...

...Indeed, I was faint with hunger by this time, yet had no stomach to eat close to the dead. So, turning into a gate on our left...

...I picked up the packet that had dropped from my hand when I sprang upon him. It was a brown paper envelope...

...I looked at the statue, who in the light of the lantern blinked again. 'Thou bloody villain!' muttered I, for now I read the tragedy of the wagon beside the road...

GEN. LEE'S STUDY. So, when death came, soon after sunrise of an October day in 1870, at his home, glimpses of which are given in the illustrations printed herewith...
