KLY INTRILIGENCER-One dollar and IGE TO SUBSCRIBERS—Hemit by check

ASSESSED THE INTELLIGENCER,

EAMCASTER, PA., May 28, 1890. State and Federal Power. Congress is trying to restore to the states is power of declaring what shall be sold Stain their borders, which was taken way by the supreme court, and which the court invited Congress to confer. It that the necessity for this action by the large that the states did not have a lower which it thought they ought to re. This need of the states, so admit-to exist, affords a strong suspicion in If that the supreme court misconued the constitution in taking it may. The constitution presump powers, and it expressly takes m only such as are necessary the federal union. It reserves to ougress the right to regulate commerce stween the states; and the court cones this into a power to require the to permit the sale of the commoities that the general government perfollow by necessary implication the otherwise the right of introduction ould avail nothing ; which is true. But it does not follow that the right ld avail anything to the importers of ods which the state forbids the sale of. I is undoubtedly the right of a state to regulate the sale of commodities within its limits, and to prohibit such sale produced in the state may be prohibited to those imported into will not do to hold that a reigner has greater privileges in state than its citizens possess. It seems to be very clear that if a state by prohibit the manufacture and sale Intoxicating liquor it may prohibit its aportation and sale; and that no act of Congress is necessary to confer so obvious a power. The supreme court in inviting the passage of such an act con-demns its own decision. Judge Ewing, of Pittsburg, declares at in any case involving this question sat comes before him, he will decide in of the right of the state and give United States court a chance to reat its decision in overruling his judgment; that he has lived too long enterining a jealous opinion of the rights of s states to acquiese in this decision ch takes away what seems to be an sotial state power. A question has on raised in Pittsburg over the right port game for sale in Pennsylvania of season, according to the laws of state, which is a case not distingushfrom the right to sell imported or in a state where liquor selling is en it deems it injurious. It follows hat what may be forbidden to commoreliden. The doctrine of the supreme fit essentially destroys the police pers of the state, in conforming its to the laws of other states requiring unanimity of action in legislation to declare a sale of any to be a puisance. It may be said at if the federal power does not suffice | was valued at five thousand dollars. ire the sale of goods that may be reely imported into the states under minate against the products of states. But if they do, within own territory, no wrong is done sat another state may very loudly correct by retaliatory legislation besides this is a discrimination hich the constitution may be fairly astrued to prohibit. That question is at an issue in a case where the commo-by sought to be forced to sale in a state that in which traffic is forbidden ta own citizens. It does not seem re is any real difficulty in holdthat while the federal power of coning interstate legislation will sere the entrance of goods into any state; heir sale is possible there when the aws of the state permit such articles to be sold, and not otherwise.

Laucaster As a Summer Resort. se are the days when city people an their summer pleasure trips or at by rate enjoy the anticipation of more em time in the mountains, at the ses rong chewant coupley place life a. Auxiouealth and vigor from wire air and change of scene. Summer ets all over the country are now adertising their attractions in every convable way, and many a desolate and dreary scene is painted in glowing colors to the circular of the hotel-keeper eager or guests, or in the local papers of the irt where the innocent natives may sally think their scenery unrivalled and their climate superb. The frequent ere of the successful pleasure resorts to show any substantial natural claim of setiveness provokes inquiry as to that may be the causes of success, and answer seems to rest partly upon he whims of fashion, partly upon he skill of the managers of hotels and rding houses. Our own city of Lancaster, for example, natural advantages in its position and surroundings which might be used make it as popular as Saratoga under tilful and liberal management. It is se that we have no mineral springs, s people do not now find any excuse alt of an hour or two from the centre natural and romantic beauty than some that people of our own city travel miles to see. With a little hotel enterprise and wholesale advertising Lancaster might grow to a first-class summer resort, and the dull summer season would be brightened for our merchants by the custom of a crowd of hot weather guests.

The Senate and the Tariff. The finance committee of the Senate has decided that the preparation of a trriff shall be made by the full com-mittee. The Senate has directed that in preparing such bill the committee shall show the rates now levied, those made by the House bill and those proposed by the Senate measure, and that the reasons shall be given in each case where a change is made. Senator Aldrich declared that this in volved an all summer's labor by the committee and might make the presentation of a bill at this session impossible. This will probably be the consequence of the deliberation with which the Senate bill will have to be prepared under the order of the committee and the Senate ; but that surely is no proper objection to the wise course that has been adopted. Certainly all the consideration needed should be given to the preparation of a tariff bill that is expected to be a law for many years.

whom the subject is confided, should consider it; and should prepare itself to give reasons for all changes made in the present duties. A tariff bill prepared as the House measure has been cannot be a good one. It was not only hastily knocked together by a committee, whose chairman could not give to the House the reasons for the changes it made, but it was passed by opportunity to take a vote on the amendments proposed to it, much less to freely discuss them. The Senate is vindicating the character for wisdom and conservatism which once belonged to it pre-eminently, in refusing to follow the bad lead of the House in its hasty tariff legislation for what has been very distinctly nothing but a partisan purpose.

when the Senate has completed the consideration of the tariff rates and has furnished reasons for each change made in them, a law will be passed which may come somewhere near to meeting with public approval ; for there is, after all, in the heated talk of party orators, talking for buncombe and not for the busi-stating that Messrs. Seiders and Snively, Delamater candidates, were elected by large majorities. The Philadelphia Record, Pittsburg Leader and other leading papers publish the same dispatch, but it proves to be entirely wrong. Messrs. Weistling and Britton, Hastings and Stone candidates, were elected. We can only say that we are at a loss to account for this deception of press and public upon any other theory than that the party who furnished the news from Franklin county simply guessed at it.

THE little town of Dracut, near Lowell,

Massachusetts, furnishes an incident illus-trating Yankee shrowdness and the peculiar workings of prohibition. A liquor license was given to one John Lennon for the sum of eight thousand dollars, he being willing to pay that figure because it would give him the monopoly of all the country round. The result was rather too much of a good thing, for the rush of people to Lennon's bar from Lowell and other towns completely overwhelmed the thrifty but pious Dracut people and the bar was closed by the police. The selectmen were authorized by the Legislature to give back the money and cancel the license, but as a strong sentiment favored holding on to the money, because it reduced taxes, they determined to call a town meeting. The voters is assembled at the old meeting house.

where the religious mottoes on the walls seemed to have no pacifying effect upon the turbulent crowd. The vote was a hundred o ten against refunding the money, and it is explained that this was because it is believed that the holder of the license will not attempt to use it for fear of again causing the riotous scenes that have made the place notorious. In other words, the great majority of these simple-minded villagers are quite willing to swindle the liquor dealer out of his thousands, although they

THE PRETTIEST FOR FINE DRESS

Patent Leather Shoes

GENTLEMEN.

-FOR-

Patent Leather Shoes are the correct thing for weddings and social svents. Just the kind of Footwar gentlemen, old or young of fastidious taste, ought to wear for light walking and fine dress. Can there be anything handsomer? We have different lines of Patent Leather Shoes. We buy from the best makers only—do not take chances with every Tom, Dick and Harry sort. We look for and get the best there is for the money. Our patrons expect and get them that way, too. The makes here are made over the latest and most fashionably shaped lasts with moderately pointed toes. The making and the finish is of a superior character—they'll bear the closest examination by competent judges. They cannot be better made, we have them in Lace and Congress, widths C and D, ranging in price from $2.50 to $6. From the assortment here it is an easy matter to make selections, too. You couldn't do half so well anywhere else.

As Patent Leather is a very delicate leather, and requires extra care in handling, we cannot warrant them. In our fine grades the best and finest French Calf Patent Leather only is used, but no maker in America will warrant Patent Leather not to crack on the surface. It will all do so, but it does not hurt the wear and detracts but little from the looks of the shoe. Patent Leather Shoes will be extensively worn this summer in all the fashionable centers. How many Lancastrians will want to be in the swim? We can help them get there, sure, whenever their thought inclines that way.
