

Daily Intelligence.

ANDREW J. STEINMAN, CHARLES STEINMAN POLTS, Editors. ROBERT CLARK, Publisher.

The Democratic Situation.

The Democratic gubernatorial situation is vastly different from the Republican in that it is well understood that only one man or set of men control it; but that the issue will be decided upon the conclusion of the party representation as to the strength of the candidates.

Newfoundland.

The Newfoundland tangle over French claims of fishing rights is more interesting than serious. The British North American squadron has arrived in those waters and a regiment of infantry and two batteries of artillery have been ordered to Newfoundland but it is evident that these measures are only taken with a view to reassuring the neglected Newfoundlanders of the interest of the mother country in their troubles.

Out the Oregon Way.

Oregon is reported to have given the Republican candidate for Congress from four to six thousand majority and to have elected the Democratic governor, with the Legislature in doubt.

The Republican Situation.

The Pittsburg Times, which is the organ of Mr. Magee, declares that the experienced editor of the Philadelphia Times was simply seeking to give a cover to Senator Quay under which to demand Delamater's nomination.

Media.

Media furnishes a remarkable example of reward of efficient service in a public office in spite of party feeling.
