From the Bellefonte Watchman,

George Robinson, Wm. Taggart, Geo. Schaum and Henry Wiebush have been complained against before Alderman Spurrier as the men who so cruelly beat Patrick fcCartby on Thursday night. They gave ball for a hearing on Monday evening, and deny having committed the offense. Hale Is Indicted.

The grand jury in Montreal in the case of C. C. Hale, of Cleveland, O., who shot his brother-in-law, Cowles, a week ago, brought in a true bill, and Hale will be released on bail to await trial. It is doubtful, however, if Cowles will appear against him.

There is a pie shop in London that Charles Dickens used to stand before, when, as a child, he drudged in a blacking factory. Every day, on his way to and from work, he paused to devour the viands with his eyes, and sometimes, as he said, he prassed his tongue to the window panes, as if by doing that he got a little bit of a taste of the good things that lay so near, yet were so far beyond his reach. An American railroad man, who admires American railroad man, who admires Dickens, hunted up this pic shop when he was recently in London, in order to gratify interior a voice piped at his elbow "Please, sir, will you buy me a weal pie?" The owner of the voice was a small, dis er, a colored girl. He gave her a hevelled person, with whom a veal pie or any other kind would have agreed right well, and he made his request from motives on the head with a club and was of undoubted and strenuous personal interest. The American replied, as Americans do sometimes, with another George McClosky, a P. R. R. brakeman.

How many boys do you suppose that

"Well, you go and get fifteen more boys, and bring them back here."

The boy studied the man's face for a moment, as if to make sure that he was in the enjoyment of his senses, then hurled him-self into a side street with a yell. Hardly a minute clapsed before he returned, the head of a procession of sixteen gamins, assorted as to size and clothing, unanimous in appetite and hope. This ragged batta-lion assembled close behind the benefac-tor and followed him precipitately into the shop when he announced that he was going to give them all the pie they wanted. For a quarter of an hour the astonished baker served "weal an" am" pies, hand baker served "weal an' 'am" pies, hand over hand, to the sixteen astonished youth of London, while the American sat down and watched the see with hardly less astonishment. Few words were spoken and the onslaught was a fierce and persistent while it lasted as the charge at Tel-el-Kehr. The exhaustion of promise houself.

he would be sure to remember it soon.

After a time the train got near New York, and, as the man still could not remember the story he returned the gentleman his ticket (after tearing a bit off of it) and started for the theor. This struck the gentleman as being very curious, and so he watched the man. When he was reached by the conductor and asked for his ticket, he said he had given it up; but the conductor denied it, and, after a deal of altercation, the man pulled some silver out of ductor denied it, and, after a deal of alter-cation, the man pulled some silver out of his pocket and was about to pay his fare, when he suddenly said—producing a smail piece of ticket—that he could prove that he had given up his ticket, because he remem-bered playing with it in the train, and tear-ing off a small piece, and that if the con-ductor looked he would find a ticket with a piece torn off. On looking the conductor found a ticket with a piece torn off, and, of
