...ER'S ASSAULT.

...ing gap ...h many ...Republicans ...as supervisors, ...ter E... it would be necessary ...em) suffegrons and the result of ... for ... nite and black election offi... would inevitably be bloodshed and ... Ewart believed that if the South... people were let alone they would work ... out their own political salvation.

There were not many evidences of weakened party feeling. Numbers of white Democrats in the South had strong leanings toward protection and a broad, liberal national policy of internal improvements. They would have become Republicans by this time but for fear of local negro government, and as it was they had taken heart from the growing disaffection of the Southern Republican negroes (owing to the failure of the party to carry out its pledges in the matters of the Blair educational bill and patronage) and were preparing to take advantage of a split in the negro vote, which would quiet their own apprehensions and allow them to follow their own preferences and convictions. All of this progress toward a settlement of the race question would be negatived in Mr. Ewart's estimation by the adoption of the reactionary policy proposed by the authors of the national election law.

Action of the Street Committee.

A meeting of the street committee was held last evening in select council chamber.

The ordinance providing for the building of a bridge across the Conestoga creek at Reigart's landing, was considered and it was decided to report it favorably to councils.

The street commissioner was ordered to repair the gutter on Grant street west of Mulberry.

North Water street, between Walnut and Lemon, was ordered to be graded and guttered, and a crossing was ordered at Water and Lemon.

The contract for foot bridges was awarded to R. C. McCully.

Messrs. Zook and Auxer were appointed to oversee the erection of the Franklin street bridge.

It was decided to gutter and grade Marion street, between Mulberry and Charlotte streets, and to make a crossing on West King street at Mary.

It was decided that hereafter when streets ordered to be cindered and repaired require grading, bids for the work shall be advertised, and the street commissioner and city regulator were authorized to ascertain when grading is needed.

The contract for the sewer between Columbia and Marietta avenues was given to Duzel & Ganse, as there was a mistake in the bid of Charles Kray, which should have been $199, instead of $99.

Dr. Yeagley's Explanation.

MR. EDITOR.—In order that your readers may not be misled by your notice in yesterday's paper in reference to Mr. Shaeffer and myself, permit me to state the facts respecting the nature of the case.

While driving along College avenue a few evenings ago two boys approached my buggy with the intention of getting on. I told them not to get on; one of the boys obeyed, but the other one persisted in getting on, climbed on the axle with his feet, holding on with his hands to the buggy top.

I told him to get off but he paid no attention. I then swung my whip around to scare or to compel him to get off.

I could not see the boy's face from where I sat, and it appears the whip struck the boy in the face, which was not intended, but purely accidental.

The boy was probably more hurt by the fall from the buggy than by the whip. While I very much regret that the whip hit the boy in the face, I cannot but regard the boy as the trespasser.

Mr. Sheaffer told me he would not have brought suit but for the persistent urging of one of his neighbors. This neighbor, I am reliably informed, is the father of a young man who assaulted Felix Slessinger some time ago, breaking his jaw-bone in two places. I was called in to dress his wound and subsequently was subpœnaed to testify before an alderman as to the nature of the man's injuries, and for so doing have incurred the ill-will of this order-loving and law-abiding neighbor. This is the secret of the whole matter as I am prepared to show. H. YEAGLEY.

Had a High Fall.

August Walter, an employe at the Lion brewery, was working about the ice machine this morning, when he made a misstep and fell from a small platform a distance of about fifteen feet. He was picked up and carried into the house when Dr. Warren attended him. He was found to have no bones broken, but was very badly bruised.

The Suburban Stakes

Salvator won the Suburban handicap race at Sheepshead Bay on Thursday. The distance was 1¼ miles and the time 2:06 4-5. The prize was $10,000. Twenty thousand people saw the race.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.
