The New States.

The country has another state, we hear. It is not much of a state, but enough to satisfy the object of its creation, which seems simply to have been an increase in the number of Republican United States senators. Some half dozen states, nore or less, have lately been manufac-ared for this purpose, and yet Senator Edmunds is reported to have alluded the other day in the Senate "to our diminishing numbers," when speaking of the Republican band. This plan of making Republican senators is so very easily accomplished when the legislature and president are Republicans, that it has been quite too much of a temptation for the Republican leaders to withstand. In fact they never feel the least disposition to resist it. It never occurs to them to hesitate when a party advantage is to be gained. Utah would be a state if Utah was reliably Republican. It has an older and larger community than' the fledgelings that have just been admitted to statehood without any population to speak of, and so poor as to be urable to pay the expenses of their new dignity.

They would not, in truth, want to be elected into states but for the advertisement it is to them and the elation of feeling that they are as big in the Senate as New York; and not even with such inducement would they rush into statehood if it was not for the fellows who want to be senators and officeholders and who hurry the thing along.

It is a great inducement to aspiring youth to seek the territories that they offer such glittering political prizes When a population less than that of Laneaster county, spread over a barren waste thinner than ever molasses was spread upon the bread of the motherless child, is assigned a pair of United States senators and a representative, beside a full complement of state officers, it is easy to see the temptation offered to immigration; and especially when certifi-cales of character are not required from the incomer. There is United States Senator Sanders, of Montana, who fled to Montana from an Ohio sheriff's warrant for forgery, and reached his present bigh estate without a murmur of objection. To be sure he got it by cheating the Democrats, but that is not to his discredit among his present associates in the leadership of the Republican party.

If there were many more territories remaining to be transformed into Republican states there might be a Senate exceeding the House in members, seeing that two senators and but one representative is the allotment of these baby states. Fortunately for the senatorial dignity, there are but one or two territories left. The present Congress proposes to clean up all the available Reiblican territorial material. Utah, New Mexico and Arizona are too immoral and Democratic to be worthy of stateship in the Federal Union.

But he who laughs last laughs best; id it is a matter for serious reflection for our hasty Republican legislature whether these great territories that they are creeting into states with sparse populations may not speedily grow into Democratic states. That is the present outlook; and the undertaking to fill up the United States Senate with Republican stuff from newly made states promises to fizzle out with the first installment of senators ; leaving that aged and acrid Republican, Sentor Edmunds, with yearly cause to mourn the diminishing number of Republican senators, until they wither away to a thinness that may rival that of Senator Evarts' political fame and physical corporation.

The silver bill seems to sound a Republican knell in the new states with which the tariff bill chimes. There is not a Republican idea that has a good flavor in a Rocky mountain state, and when the immigrant becomes acclimated to the mountain political atmosphere he will have a cold hand for Republican politics. While the politicians of that party are so busy scheming to maintain its supremacy with stolen anchors, it behooves them to pay more heed to the anchorage ground.

After the Fourth. The glorious Fourth of July of 1890 is martialed with the days gone by. Once more the toy cannon, the firecracker and the two-dollar revolver have accomplished their grand annual carnage, and the great American small boy nurses his wounds and powder burns with bland smiles of imaginary but sublime delight. The lively alchemy of youthful day dreams has made of him a hero from gory battlefields, and the patriotic fire that burns within him forms a perfeet counter-irritant to lessen the pain from the burns of the fireworks. Truly, there are many fine little heroes who have thus developed patriotic instincts that will grow with them to manhood. After the Fourth of July the memories of people get to work and glorify the day and its pleasures far beyond the actual experience. The unpleasant features or every normal haste to bury themselves in pleasing obeasant features of every holiday make livion, and it is a blessing that it is so. Otherwise we could not take our holidays cheerfully and get so much good out of them. The pleasures of memory and imagination are a very large share of the pleasures of life, and there is substantial reality in their effects.

In contemplating the by-gone Independence Day the most striking fact to many is the change in the character of its celebration. It used to be the great day for processions, horse races and spread eagle speeches, but now it has come a day for flight to the country. By flocks and singly people go picnicking or a-fishing, calmly accepting the fact that we are a great and lucky nation, and not caring at all to give more peacefully musical than patriotic Fife, drum and bugle have been silenced for the shy notes of the guitar, and the tennis racket and base ball bat have replaced the bayonet and sword.

There is no cause for regret in this, but it should be remembered that the fruits of the blessings of neace are not the most stimulating national diet. War gives a healthy stirring up to the strongest and noblest sentiments. We have grown very rich and strong as a nation, and are inclined to show that we feel our oats in a way that makes the old world nations exceedingly careful not to get within kicking distance. We are highspirited and belligerent as ever we were in our younger days, and it is only the good luck of situation and circumstances that gives us hope of many years of peace. That hope may be suddenly blasted any day, and it is worth considering whether it is not a mistake to permit a complete decay of martial spirit, and almost total neglect of military training. In the wars of the future the training of the individual soldier will count for more than in the past, and in Europe every man goes through the school of the soldier. We have no need for the least effort toward rivalry of that gigantic system, which almost equals in annual cost the pension appropriations of our government. What we may need is a few hundred thousand young men with some little practical training in the work that may be required of them in war, and a nation with the firm, stern, death or duty spirit that was fostered by the defeats and trials of war days, and should not be soon forgotten. State and nation should train the militia, and the fathers and mothers should use the Fourth of July to teach lessons of patriotic duty and unflinching zeal.

THE Nisgara whirlfool was duly on hand on the Fourth of July. John L. Soules, a Michigander, entered the rapid, above the cantilever bridge, and, after two wonderful escapes from being dashed to pleces on large rocks, he was finally swept into an eddy and pulled out by some men on shore. He had a big hole in his knee, and did not care to complete the experiment. Next.

THE Newfoundland, petition asking for redress of their grievances and having fifteen thousand signatures, has been pre sented in Parliament. Now if John Bul does not quickly show an interest and grant relief there will be evidence of dogged Newfoundland determination.

A BILL is before Congress appropriating fifty thousand dollars to be apportioned among the states which have authorized the establishment of a naval militia. This seems a very small sum for a large undertaking, but New York seems to be the only state with a naval militia to claim it.

MINISTER PHELPS made a Fourth of July speech in Berlin at a banquet given to the American riflemen. He said that America's greatest danger arose from her immense material prosperity, a statement calculated to stimulate emigration to America, for no one gets frightened at the dangers of prosperity.

WHILE Americans look askance at Hungarian immigration and talk of prohibiting it the Hungarian government and people of the wealthier class are even more listurbed. Police measures to prevent the emigration of the peasantry of Upper Hungary bave proved of no avail and the Pesther Loyd laments the loss of so many stalwart laborers. Some return with their savings after a few years in America, but few remain in Hungary after their return. "They have become estranged from their homes, feel oppressed by the misery that they find, and in a short time, taking their families with them, they desert their fatherland forever." This is sad for both coun-

A WALK-OVER. From the Philadelphia Press, June 28. DELAMATER is the Republican of Pennsylvania politics. Who will be the Democratic Tenny? The news from Long Branch on Friday was that Salvator was withdrawn on account of a heavy track and Tenny won by a walk-over. Perhaps the Press is a prophet, PUGILIST BRENNAN, who was injured in a Chicago prize fight with Frank Gerrard on Thursday, has died and the latter may have occasion to know the difference between sport and brutality. THE using of a marriage ceremony as a fair attraction proves so successful financially that proper criticism has no discouraging effect upon it. At Lowell, Massachussets, on Friday, Chas. G.Stowell and Miss Lottie E. Anderson were married in a balloon. Ten thousand people at the fair grounds witnessed the event. Rev. W. H. Downs, of Boston, performed the ceremony. The balloon, in charge of Prof. J. K. Allen, sailed away and the four have not since been heard from. If they should all come to grief that particular style of fair marriage may become unpopular.

This year, as on former Fourths, the toy cannon has been proved to be one of the most dangerous of playthings. At Canton, Ohio, a little girl of eight was killed and a boy lost his hand by the bursting of a small toy cannon, and by the bursting of another in the same city a boy had an eye blown out. The damage by fireworks does not seem very large when one con-siders the large quantity used. The eyes usually suffer the most on the Fourth of July. Over in York two men lost their sight by an explosion of fireworks and in Washington a boy of fifteen had both eyes blown out by a premature explosion of

RAPIDITY OF THOUGHT.

Strange Experience of a Young Luwyer During Unconsciousness. A Toledo Bee man was sitting in an office on Adams street recently, chatting with the occupant, a well-known young lawyer, when the conversation turned to dreams and the rapidity with which the brain worked during sleep. "Yes," remarked the legal gentleman, "the brain is a marvelous contrivance. If that fact ever skinned by marked the ways have the street of skipped my memory it was brought forci-bly to my mind several days since. I will tell you how it happened. I was suffering bit to my mind several days since. I will tell you how it happened. I was suffering with a thumping toothache, and resolved to have the offender out. Accordingly, I made for the nearest dentist's while my determination was strong, and dropping into a dental chair, answered to his "will you take gas?" in the affirmative. It was my initial experience with that fluid, but I inhaled it without experiencing any peculiar sensation at first.

"I noticed presently, however, that the office clock licked abnormally loud; in fact, it soon was pounding away like one of Krapp's giant hammers. Finally I drifted away into another state and found myself in a strange city. Several months passed, and numerous trivial things happened which I remember vividly, even the minutest details. Somehow or other I got in with a fast crowd of young men, and one night during a quarrel over a game of poker I shot and fatally wounded one of my companions.

"I was arrested and, after the usual real

my companions.
"I was arrested and, after the usual preliminary proceedings, my case came up for trial in the court of common pleas. The trial was a lengthy one. I remember well nation, and not caring at all to give evidence of delirious joy or patriotic fervor, as did their grandfathers or fathers.

In other days the holiday had a martial defant air. Flags floated from many private houses, patriotic songs were sung in family circles, and the "Star Spangled Banner" or "Yankee Doodle" yied with "Hail Columbia, Happy Land!"

Now the bands play the battle songs of the civil war, and the little singing is a half elapsed before the case came to trial for the third time.

"However, its conclusion bore no fruit to my liking, for I was again sentenced to an electrical execution. I apert many weary days in prison, and it was a relief when the day set apart for my death came around. I awoke early, bathed, ate a hearty meal, and at 10 o'clock, when the turnkey beckoned me to follow him to the death-room, I was wholly prepared to depart this life. I seated myself in the somewhat clumsy chair, and my arms and legs were strapped tightly down. A dampened sponge was placed on my head, and, although I didn't look up, knew well that the connection was made that would soon make me a human conductor. I closed my eyes, but opened them just in time to see the jailer drop a white handkerchief. At the same instant the current was turned on. A dreadful wrenching, burning pain shot through my system, and them—snd then I came to. I was under the influence of gas just 30 seconds. Yes, the human brain is a rapid worker.
