

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE

ALL BUILDINGS ON THE FARM OF JOSEPH B. NOTER ARE DESTROYED.

A Swelling, Barn, Butcher Shop and Bag Pan in Ruins—The Furniture and Other Things in the House Saved.

There was a large and very destructive fire at Lexington, Warwick township, this morning, by which nearly all the buildings on the property of Joseph B. Noter, a farmer and butcher, were destroyed.

The fire broke out about ten o'clock and spread very rapidly, and the whole building was soon in flames.

How the fire originated is unknown in the neighborhood, but the general impression is that it was the work of an incendiary.

The entire property that was burned was insured in the Penn township company for $5,000. This will not cover the loss, however, which will be between $4,000 and $5,000.

HAMILTON CLUB NIGHT

A Luscious and Grand Garden Filled With Cheerful Guests.

The first club night of the Hamilton club was given on Tuesday evening, and many friends and members were surprised to find that the house and garden could be so attractive on so warm an evening.

The heavy oak centre table had been moved back against the wall, where it formed the base for a huge bank of cut roses and red and beautiful plants. Roses were lavishly displayed and the room was made as attractive as possible, but the throngs of arriving guests did not linger there.

The orchestra and whiff of cooler air drew them through the buffet towards the garden, where a fairy like scene burst upon them. Hundreds of Chinese lanterns, of all shapes and sizes, hung from the branches of the fruit trees, and high over all burned an electric light so that the leaves trembled in rays of silver and golden light.

Mr. Payne, the club caterer, and his assistants served the refreshments from a table near the building, and the croquetists and maids and less were soon in brisk demand and every place at the table taken. Under circumstances so pleasant time passed with amazing swiftness as people loitered and chatted over the refreshments and listened to the music, so that very little time was left for the too ever flowing bowls in the buffet composed respectively with and without sticks. Visitors were escorted through the club house, and before leaving thoroughly satisfied that a pleasant club garden party was a proven possibility. The entertainment lasted from eight until twelve o'clock, and about two hundred people were present.

Compared With Other Hot Days. The thermometer at Demuth's registered 100 degrees at 3 o'clock on Tuesday, and at 3:30 it reached 102 degrees. In looking over the record of hot days kept by Mr. Demuth it was learned that on July 16, 1887, the temperature was the same as yesterday. The month of July, 1885, was a very hot one. On sixteen days the thermometer was above 90, and on July 21 it reached 100. The temperature of that month varied from 73 on the 21st to 102 on the 21st. On the 17th, 18th and 20th of the month the thermometer was 94 at 6 o'clock in the evening.

A rainfall at 2 o'clock this morning cooled the atmosphere materially and today the weather is pleasant in comparison with yesterday. At noon the thermometer registered 82 degrees at Demuth's.

Two Shots Fired at Him. Dr. Walter Boardman was awakened at an early hour this morning by the sounding of the electric bell attached to the gate of the Weaver school, and he started for the rear end of the house and looking into the yard saw a man. He fired two shots from his revolver at him, but neither took effect. The thief ran at the first discharge of the pistol and left the premises the way he entered.

How Would This Do? EDITORS INTELLIGENCER.—I think it would be a wise plan for the merchants of Lancaster to adopt the following: To close their stores from now until the first of September at 12 m., and open again in the evening at 6 p. m., Monday and Saturday.

A Night Watchman Cook heard the shots and arrived a few moments after the fellow ran away. The watchman states that about midnight in passing along Beaver street he saw men sitting on a wood pile near the doctor's stable. They hid him the time and he thought they were connected with the stables in that neighborhood.
