

FATE OF A BRAKEMAN.

DAVID H. GRAHAM KILLED AT FRAZER STATION ON MONDAY EVENING.

The Falls Between Cars and His Head is Crushed—A Resident of Columbia For the Past Two Years.

David H. Graham, a brakeman on extra freight No. 1185, on the Pennsylvania railroad, was killed at Frazer Monday evening in a peculiar manner. The train was running slowly and he was walking on the top of the box cars.

Just as he was about to step from one to another the coupling pin between them broke and he fell to the track. His head lay on the rail and the wheels of the car ran against it and it stopped the train. When picked up Graham was dead.

Graham's home was in Columbia. Coroner White, of West Chester, empaneled a jury, consisting of I. Newton Wynn, esq., John B. Kinnard, Philip Maguire, Edwin L. McKinstry, John McKinley and Walter A. Macdonald, to hold an inquest.

Bernard Gilman, engineer of the special freight drawn by engine No. 1185, testified that David H. Graham was an extra brakeman on the train of thirty freight cars, which left Philadelphia at 2:52 in the afternoon. Eight of the cars were loaded and the rest were empty.

"The last I saw of him," said Gilman, "was when we turned the curve east of Malvern, and when I whistled down brakes out of Frazer the ninth car broke loose. I did not notice that Graham was gone until I saw that the train had parted. Then I stopped and found him lying dead on the track with his head under the front wheel of the detached car. He was a single man, and had been boarding in Columbia, though I did not know where his home was. He had been on the road about a year.

John G. Snively, conductor, said: "I did not see the brakeman until after he had fallen. The train had almost stopped when it parted. I have been on the road twenty-five years, and had made as much of an examination of the train as I usually do. Graham had made the coupling himself."

A unanimous verdict of accidental death was rendered.

The Columbia correspondent of the INTELLIGENCER says: "Mr. Graham was a resident of this place for the past two years. He was a nephew of Wm. H. Reuter, and boarded at his home on Cherry street. He was an extra brakeman, and had been with the company for two years past. He was unmarried and his parents reside in McVeytown, Millin county."

ACCIDENTS TO MISSES. Maude Ruby and Lizzie Reiderger Each Fractured An Arm By Falling.

COLUMBIA, July 22.—Maude Ruby, a ten-year-old daughter of Harry K. Ruby, living on Union street, met with a painful accident last evening. She had just returned from a visit to York when some person at her home attempted to lift her on a chair. The child fell and received a fracture of her right arm. A physician was summoned and the injury attended to.

Miss Lizzie Reiderger, living at the home of Mrs. Stephens, met with an accident last evening, resulting in the breaking of her arm. She wanted to cross the railroad, but finding her passage stopped by a freight train. She made up her mind to crawl over the train, and in so doing fell from a car. The fall resulted in the above stated injury.

The Serengeti Defended. EDITORS INTELLIGENCER: On Sunday, July 6th, the Rev. Father Reilly, of St. Mary's church, preached a sermon in which he severely criticised some features of the serengeti lately held by the Liederkranz Singing society, and the expressions he used at that occasion were so incorrect that a committee of said society called on him and demanded satisfaction. Father Reilly acknowledged that he had gone much too far in his sermon, and he promised that he would make a public statement in his church to that effect on July 20. As he has failed to do so, the Liederkranz feels compelled to retine his erroneous statements in the public press of our city.

The reverend gentleman stated "that the singers from abroad did not bring their families along to Lancaster for the reason that they thought Lancaster was not a fit place for them." The gentleman does not seem to know that the Knights of St. John did not let their families to Columbus when their convention was there, and Nor do the Knights Templar or any other order or association ever think of bringing their families to their annual meetings or gatherings.

Father Reilly did not like the singers' ball at Masonic hall. Yet we can give him the assurance that the ball was attended by the best citizens of our city, and that nothing occurred to mar their pleasure or to hurt their feelings, the best of order prevailing from beginning to end.

Of our picnic the reverend gentleman said that "it exceeded everything in immorality, and that everybody was drunk—men, women, girls, children, and even the babies." That intemperate and intemperate girls staggered down Vine street as late as after midnight." As hundreds of our best citizens, including our worthy mayor, were present at the picnic with their families, and witnessed the festivities, we do not deem it necessary to defend ourselves against such infamous charges. The picnic was closed precisely at 8 o'clock p. m., and for night scenes on the streets incidental to the many other picnics, excursions and festivities of the Fourth of July we cannot be held responsible.

SHE RAN AWAY. A Wife Who Became Tired of Her Husband and Flew to Another.

About two years ago Charley Prier, a well known bookbinder, of this city, was married to Miss Annie M. Martin, of Middletown. Charley does a big business in his line and has a store at the Reister house corner where he is patronized by the best people of the city. He is sober and industrious and he and his wife had a very comfortable home. They lived happily together until several months ago when Charley found that his better (or worse) half was working in a tobacco establishment, was too familiar with other men, and he remonstrated with her in a rather forcible manner, and she had him arrested before Alderman Deen. These cases were soon settled and the couple again made up. The love did not run smoothly very long, for again the woman began to misbehave. On the 4th of July she disappeared, and several days afterward was captured in Marietta by her husband and Constable Crawford. She brought back to Lancaster, and she promised in Alderman Barr's office to live with her husband and do what was right. Several days ago she again ran away, after taking considerable of the house goods, including a lot of her husband's wearing apparel. Prier, at once resolved to get "monkey" with her no longer, so he has sold all of his furniture and other things, and will never have anything more to do with his wife if she should come back. He warns all people to give her nothing on his account.
