Select Poetry.

When is the Time to Die? I asked the glad and happy child, Whose hands were filled with flowers,

I asked a maiden; heark she threw The tresses of her hair; Great's tresses or her cheeks I knew,

I asked a mother, as she pressed, Her first-born in her arms, As gently on her tender breast,

I asked a Christian; "Answer thou When is the hour of death?" A holy calm was on his brow,

I asked a man, as he lay on his deathbed, His eyes fixed on the wall, "What do you wish for?"

There was once a doctor, not of philosophy or jurisprudence, but a real doctor, who had commenced at the beginning.

There were three doctors, and the burgomaster, after the usual display of eloquence, in which the chief citizens of the candidates were employed.

The burgomaster rose from his seat, and in a neat and elegant speech, explained to the voters the duties of his office.

The Battle of Life.

We have often been impressed by the deep significance of the phrase which Dickens has given as a title to one of his Christmas stories.

The burgomaster rose from his seat, and in a neat and elegant speech, explained to the voters the duties of his office.
