Extensive Fire in Allentown-Best

part of the Town in Ashes. From the correspondence of the Public Ledger we derive the following particulars of an awful calamity that has befallen the citizens of Allentown, the captial of Lehigh county, in this State. In the brief space of two hours, the fairest and most flourishing partion of the town, comprising immense Stores, Hotels, Workshops, Post Office, Odd Fellows' Hall, and elegant private residences, has been reduced to a heap of promiscuous ruins. As this is our native town, our long cherished home, and we recognise among the sufferers the names of near relatives and friends, we need not say that the news of their sore visitation has filled us with deep regret. Most heartily and sincerely do we sympathise with the unfortunate sufferers. We trust, too, that a general movement will not be wanting throughout the State, to make up in part their overwhelming loss from the overflowing coffers of the more prosperous. It would really seem that poor Allentown is doomed to perpetual misfortune. Once have many of its citizens been severe sufferers by terrible floods in the river Lehigh-then their ousiness was laid prostrate by the failure of the Northampton Bank, which brought poverty to the doors of hundreds-and now, worse than all, their town is swept by a consuming fire! Truly, their lot is a hard one!

From the Correspondence of the Public Ledger. ALLENTOWN, June 1st, 1848. The most beautiful and active part of our town lies in ashes. Fire, that awful calamity, has visited our peaceful town, wreaked its vengeance on its 🔯 very heart and left it in a deplorable condition The fire broke out in a frame stable near the centre of the town, at about 3 o'clock this afternoon, there being a strong south-easterly wind, spread with \ 3 months and 22 days. while rapidity in that direction, and raging most in Columbia, on W vehemently until 6 o'clock, when the following aged about 47 years. buildings were already laid in ruins:

splendid new Odd Fellows Hall (which was nearly ready for dedication,) occupied by Weiss | Mexico of yellow fever, in the 30th year of his age, and Lochman's shoe and variety store. Keck's tail. John Lloyd, (late of Columbia,) a member of Com ring establishment, and H. Nagle's oyster cellar: Grim and Renninger's store, Selfridge and Wilson's store, James Trexler's Hotel, Yeager and Weidner's store, Joseph Weiss' jewelry store, Thomas Ging. kinger's tin and stove store, Gangwer's millinery shop and residence. Thos, Newhart's tailoring estab ent, Dr. Donnosky's drug store, Mertz & Weaver's store. Wagner & Hoover's store, Ed. Newhart's hardware store, the Post-office, Geo. Lucas' shoe store, Nathan Hersh's clothing store, Mrs. Brown's store, Nathan Hersh's clothing store, Mrs. Brown's millinery, J. Q. Cole's cedar ware establishment, J. F. Ruhe's tobacco store, Reuben Rice's chair manufactory, Charles Scholl's tailor shop, together with the following private residences: Daniel Keipe's, Mr. Keiper's, Peter Hoover's and grandry, Joshua Hains', Mrs. Peter Hoover's and grandry, Joshua Hains', Mrs. Heckman's, Dr. C. H. Martin's, Joseph F. Newhart's, Mrs. Catharine Groff's, Dresher & Woodring's, and Mr. Moyer's. These are all the buildings destroyed as far as I was able to ascertain. A large number of stables and out houses were also burned down. The progress of the fire was arrested at about six o'clock. Had the wind, after the fire was raging for some time, not taken a more southern direction, the greater part of the town would probably have been burned down. The loss is immense. The fired's pread so rapidly that but very little of the store goods and other moveables were saved. The loss must at least be about $250,000. The stable where the fire originated is supposed to have been set on fire by boys, playing 'loss are without much doine. Several carges of Oats are without much doine. Several carges of Oats are without much doine. Several carges of Oats are without much doine.

Gen. Butler a Poet.

It appears that the galfant soldier and elevated statesman, Gen. Wm. O. BUTLER. the Democratic nominee for Vice President, is also a poet, brave as a lion-gentle as a lamb. The N. Y. Mirror says "General BUTLER is a poet, as well as a soldier and a Democrat, and will draw hard upon the sympathies of the literary classes." In confirmation of this, we find the following beautiful poem in our casket of gathered gems.

The Roat Horn.

BY GEN. W. O. BUTLER. , boatman, wind that horn again, For never did the list ning air Upon its lambent bosom bear wild, so soft, so sweet a strain What though thy notes are sad and few. By every simple boatman blown, Yet is each pulse to nature true, And melody in every tone.

How oft, in boyhood's joyous day,
Unmindful of the lapsing hours,
I've loitered on my homeward way,

By wild Ohlo's brink of flowers While some lone boatman from the deck Poured his soft numbers to that tide The boat where all his fortunes rid-Delighted Nature drank the sound, Enchanted—Echo bore it round, In whispers soft and softer still From hill to plain and plain to hill. Till e'en the thoughtless frolic boy, Elate will hope, and wild with joy, Who gambolled by the river's side, And sported with the fretting tide, Feels something new prevade his breast Change his light step, repress his jest, Bends o'er the flood his eager ear. Details o'er the nood his eager ear, To catch the sounds far off, yet dear— Drinks the sweet draught, but knows not why The tear of rapture fills his eye. And can he now, to manhood grown, Tell why those notes, simple and lone As on the ravished ear they fell As on the ravised ear they fell, Bind every sense in magic spell? There is a tide of feeling given To all on earth, its fountain Heaven, Beginning with the dewy flower, Just ope'd in Flora's yernal bower— Rising reaction's orders through Rising creation's orders through With louder murmur, brighter hue— 'Tis sympathy! its ebb and flow Gives life its hues, its joy and wo. Music, the spirit that can move
Its waves to war, or lull to love—
Can cheer the sailor mid the wave,
And bid him on! nor fear the grave aspire the pilgrim on his road, Then, boatman! wind that horn again Though much of sorrow mark its strain What though they wake fond memory Tears are sad memory's sacred feast, And rapture oft her chosen guest.

An Honorable Admission.

The New York Courier and Enquirer (whig) pays the following tribute to the character, ability, and popularity of General Cass; and, in so doing and popularity of General Cass; and, in so doing administers a cutting rebuke to those prints, which, on the Conestoga Navigation, between Lancaster from mere partisan maligrity, are attempting to and Safe Harbor, on and after Monday, 29th May, asperse the character of one of the purest Patriots and ablest Statesmen that our country has produced.

Will leave Hess? Lock, Safe Harbor, at 6 o'clock (morning.) and 44 o'clock (afternoon.) press to perceive nothing but what is vil in an op-ponent, and only good qualities—real or imaginary —in a political friend: We accordingly find Gen. Cass spoken of as a man without character and out political strength.

"This is a great error. In all the relations of private life, General Cass has been known to the writer for nearly thirty years, and a more estima-ble father and husband, or a more honorable and cientious gentleman, we are not acquainted with. Of his talents there can be no question; and were he a whig in principle, the election of no man to the presidency would give us more pleasure. Few men in our country have more personal friends than Lewis Cass. The whole west and northwest are devoted to him; and upon the subject of the peculiar institutions of the south, he is as acceptable to the southern men as a slaveholder would be. Add to these sources of strength the unexcep-tionable private character of Gen. Cass, his admitted talents, and the certainty that, except in this State, he will poll the whole vote of his party, and there can be no question but that he is altogether the strongest candidate that could be named. They have acted wisely in placing him before the public

Dr. Franklin's Opinion of Luck THE astonishing success of JOS. GORMELY, in the CLOTHING BUSINESS, excites the surprise of some and the envy and jealousy of others. His unparalleled success some attribute to one cause, and some to another. And some, more curious than the rest nore envious than the rest, attribute it to any cause that best suits their purposes, no matter how unjust, or how foul the misrepresentations. Again, there is another class more easily satisfied, and content themselves by saving—"Well, it is all luck—better to be born lucky than rich. Born-under a lucky planet," &c. "Pshaw says Dr. Franklin, of luck, all the luck I know of is in proper management." Precisely so, Dr., and just the operating cause in the extensive business done at the great LANCASTER HALL OF FASHIONS. The only secret in this large lusiness and the only reconstant the interest the state of the s this large business, and the only reason that it i large, is because he is careful in the select good materials, and has all his goods well m and then the fit of his garments cannot be surpassed; and are sold at prices that dely competition. This is the cause of his astonishing success at the great LANCASTER HALL OF FASHIONS, N. Queen St. Lancaster; next to J. Gish & Co.'s Book Store and the National House. [May 9, '48.-tf-15.

Truth and Common Sense is mighty and will prevail,

Over all the Humbuggery in the World, however bombastic and noisy it may appear. M. T. FORD, being desirons of returning his sincere and hearty thanks to the citizens of Lancaster city and county, for the kind manner in which they have come forward and welcomed him being an entire stranger among them—and for the unproceedented patronage he has received at their hands, adopts this medium of expressing his gratitude for their favors. He wishes it distinctly inderstood that he does not attempt to thrust it down the necks of the public, that his is the only Clothing Store in the world, nor has he got quite as magnificent a front to his establish persons pretend to have; but one thing is certain, and it has been unanimously decided by the entire population of Lancaster, that he has just received the most magnificent and extensive
