Benton on the Dissolution of the Union. In the debate upon the Oregon Question, M

Calhoun and other Southern Senators spoke warmly in opposition, and held up the probable consequences of a dissolution of the Union. Mr. Benton replied as follows:-

All this talk about the dissolution of the Union gave him no concern. He was peculiarly constied as to the subject. His observation of public affairs went back to that period of our history when Apron Burr engaged in his enterprise of disunion He (Mr. B.) was a boy of sixteen, but was an observer of events, and a reader of the public journals. He acknowledged that he then read with mortincation-and few things from the same source had ever failed to meet with his cordial approbationhe read, he said, with mortification, the proclama-tion of Mr. Jefferson, in which he denounced the project of Burr as "dangerous to the Union: for at that time, there was not a neighborhood in the West in which Burr would disclose his project. If he had done so, the women and children would have tied him down and sent him to the nearest place of justice, dragged by a dog-chain. As long s he presented mere designs of a dazzling nature. and not concerning our own Government, he was listened to: but when, on the lower Mississippi, he did disclose his treasonable objects, he was imme diately obliged to fly into the wilderness and be come an outcast from society. There, in his hid-ing-place—in his disguise—in a creek, where the ing-place—in his disguise—in a creek, where the alligator has his place—he was accidentally encountered at night, by one who, before affording him relief, demanded his name. Who are you? As soon as he gave his name he was taken into custody, and by a string led into the Georgia

Burr having heard of the sympathy often excited in behalf of great men struggling with adversity, appealed to some persons in Georgia for his rescue addressed some boys as to his case, and at first, very naturally excited their sympathy. when these boys heard his name, they refused to atford him any succor. Such (said Mr. B.) will be the end of all attempts to dissolve this Union to the end of all attempts to dissolve this Union, to divide it by any line.—He would (he said) think On Wednesday sales of 1000 bbls. standard brands that a man who might bring brick, mortar, and trowel to dam up the mighty Mississippi, had commenced a leasible and wise enterprise, in comparimenced a leasible and wise enterprise, in compari-12], and 1500 bbls Manayank and Brandywine sold at $5,25, at which latter price the market closes. I frequently had spells of coughing which lasted two hours; daily raised large quantities of disagreeable matter, accompanied with blood. Sometimes I raised a quart of blood at a time. I consulted three physicians, all of whom did their best to restore me; gave me up; said I must die; it was impossible for me to live bit a short time. One of them said my lungs were gone. At this critical moment, when eminent physicians had exhausted their skill, friends despaired of my o, to- life, my own hope of recovery at an end, I resorted of a to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, When I to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. When I had taken one and a half bottles, those severe spells of coughing were removed. I continued taking the Balsam until spring, 1844, when I ceased to bleed at the lungs.
